SHELBY QUITS AS PRATT AID IN TWO WEEKS

Medical Board to Say Today Health Forces His Retirement.

INSPECTOR EXAMINED OVER STRONG PROTEST

Retirement of Inspector William S. Shelby, assistant superintendent of police, will be recommended today to Maj. Henry G. Pratt by the Board of Police and Fire Surgeons, which yesterday examined him and found him physically unable to continue at his post.

None of the members of the board would comment on its findings. It was learned on reliable authority, however, that the board is unanimous in the opinion that the stress of work has so undermined Inspector Shelby's health that his retirement is necessary.

If the usual procedure is followed, Inspector Shelby will leave his desk at police headquarters October 31. From Maj. Pratt's office, recommendations of the board of surgeons will go to the retiring and relief board of the Police and Fire Departments, which meets next week. From there, they will go to the Commissioners for final signature. These latter steps are usually mere formalities, recommendations of the board of surgeons being invariably adhered to.

Examined Under Protest.

Over his strong protest, Inspector Shelby appeared before the board yesterday in obedience to an order issued by Maj. Pratt, who acted upon a recommendation by Dr. John S. Reed, member of the board of surgeons and Inspector Shelby's personal physician. For the last two months, Dr. Reed has prevailed upon Inspector Shelby to apply for retirement, but he refused because of his determination to remain in the department until investigation of "third degree" practices is completed.

In the last few weeks, Inspector Shelby's health has become so poor that Dr. Reed made his recommendation over the police official's protests. In two months Inspector Shelby lost 25 pounds and his nervous condition became aggravated.

With Inspector Shelby on his retirement from the department October 31 will be Capt. Walter E. Emerson, of the Thirteenth Precinct, who will have reached the compulsory retirement age of 64. Others who will be retired are: Sergt. J. E. Thompson, of the Ninth Precinct, who will be pensioned because of ill health, and Patrolman James E. Wilson, who will

Republican Wins Wisconsin Seat

Thomas R. Amlie, Former Nonpartisan Organizer, Takes Election.

Racine, Wis., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—A former nonpartisan league organizer, Thomas R. Amlie, progressive Republican, today was elected to Congress from the First Wisconsin District to fill the unexpired term of the late Representative Henry Allen Cooper.

Mr. Amlie's election gives the Republicans 215 members in the House of Representatives. The Democrats have 214 members and the Farmer-Labor party, 1. There are five vacancies.

On the basis of unofficial returns from 196 precincts of the 200 in the normally conservative Republican district, Amlie received 14,250 votes. A. J. Bouma, Racine, Socialist, piled up 7,241 ballots to obtain the largest vote ever given a Socialist candidate in the district. George H. Herzog, former Racine postmaster, Democrat, received 3,454 votes, and John Sikat, Communist, 502. In 1928 President Hoover carried the District by 26,830 votes over Alfred E. Smith.

Suspect Is Held In Torch Killing

J. E. Woolfenden Arrested Here for Authorities in Triple Deaths.

Said to know something about the deaths of Goodwin Miller, his wife and their child, Joseph Edward Woolfenden, 19, was arrested last night and booked as a fugitive from justice until he was turned over to Sheriff John P. Kerlin, of Prince William County, Va.

The Miller family was wiped out last month, when their charred bodies were found in the smoking ruins of their home near Joplin, Va., which is only a few miles from the marine barracks at Quantico. Evidence pointed overwhelmingly to murder.

Detectives Mike Dowd and Hubert Brodie took young Woolfenden in custody. He gave 1735 Bay street southeast as his address.

Basis of U. S. Denial Of Soviet Regime Is Revealed in Letters

Telegrams, Notes and Other Documents Exchanged by Washington Government and Various Nations From 1914 to 1918 Issued; Tenor Changed After Brest-Litovsk Treaty.

The historical basis for the refusal of the United States to recognize Soviet Russia since its beginning was revealed for the first time yesterday in a volume of diplomatic correspondence between the United States and other countries from 1914 to 1918. This is the first of a trilogy which will be followed by two other volumes treating of foreign intervention in Russia and the history of Soviet economic relations.

The telegrams and notes contained in the volume trace the beginnings of American-Soviet relations. The United States was never disposed to interfere in the internal affairs of Russia but in the general Allied interest of winning the war, realized the necessity of Russian cooperation, whether this cooperation were Czarist or Bolshevik.

When the real intentions of the Soviet chiefs became known after the treaty of Brest-Litovsk, the United States abandoned practically all hope of ever securing Soviet assistance. Subsequently the German armies, profiting by their separatist peace with the Soviets, went into the Ukraine and revitalized their armies with its stores and provisions.

The volume purports to be a comprehensive record from which nothing significant has been omitted. Nevertheless, it was conceded by the department that permission from Great Britain, France, Norway and other countries had first to be gotten before permission to reproduce their diplomatic messages could be obtained. This is the only explanation for a great many omissions, particularly with regard to the latter of the terrorist days in Russia, where several letters and documents are not revealed.

The conciliatory attitude of the United States toward the Red gov-

Orphan Jones, 60, Confesses Killing Parents and Two Children Saturday.

Snow Hill, Md., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Orphan Jones, 60-year-old colored farm laborer, today confessed to the mass murder of Green Davis, Berlin truck farmer; his wife and two daughters, and was immediately whisked under heavy guard from the county jail here to Baltimore for safekeeping.

Jones' confession followed a night and day of grilling by Worcester County and Baltimore City police, which had continued almost without respite since his arrest last night, three hours after the bodies of the Davis family had been found in their beds, shot and beaten to death.

State's Attorney Godfrey Child issued a signed statement in which he said the confession had been secured.

The 60-year-old colored man was immediately removed from the Worcester County jail here. The automobile in which he was transferred was preceded and followed by other cars in which were heavily armed State police.

The crowd of several hundred persons which had congregated around the jail made no move to molest the prisoner as he was taken away.

Jones, Deputy Sheriff Randall Purnell said, told officers that he beat Davis, and his wife, Iva, 38, to death as they slept in their farm home and

BRUENING EXPLAINS GOVERNMENT'S PLAN

Convening of Reichstag Is Watched by Cordon of Policemen.

Berlin, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening laid down his program of government today at the opening session of the Reichstag, in which the Nationalists and National-Socialists disdained to participate and the Communists took part by shouting angry interruptions.

To guard against riots similar to the window-smashing outbursts that marked the opening of the legislature last fall, police were out in force. The Reichstag building was a stronghold protected by motorized guards and by foot patrols. The precautions were successful.

The National-Socialists (Nazis) and the Nationalists, who have made common cause for the purpose of bringing about the downfall of the Bruening government, were represented at the Reichstag proceedings only by observers. The main body of their forces remained in lobbies and committee rooms while the chancellor, disregarding the hisses and shouts of the Communists, pledged his government to this program:

No let-up in the foreign policy of conciliation.

Definite settlement of the question of political debts, to eliminate the uncertainty which "alone continuous-

New York Club Gaming Involves Both Parties

New York, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Peter J. McGuinness, deputy commissioner of public works in Brooklyn, admitted to the legislative committee investigating city affairs today that gambling had been carried on in his Democratic clubhouse, but denied it was of a professional nature.

Two Republican leaders also were questioned about gambling in political clubs. Deputy Sheriff Jacob Rosenberg testified the same conditions exist today in the Lincoln League Republican Club as were found in 1926 and 1927 when police raided it, though there is no professional gambling, he said.

Spanish Assembly Rejects Catholicism As Its Religion

Cafes and Business Houses Close Doors as Riots Break Out Following Official Edict of Republican Government.

Madrid, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—The Spanish National Assembly, by a vote of 267 to 41, tonight approved article 3 of the new republican constitution rejecting the Catholic religion as the religion of the state.

Shortly after the assembly's vote was made known, special police guards charged a large meeting of labor groups in the Puerta del Sol, in the center of Madrid, who were beginning a demonstration and crying "down with the church!"

Cafes and business houses immediately began closing their doors and the special guards dispersed other groups which were attempting to organize anticlerical demonstrations outside the assembly hall.

The action of the assembly today breaks a tradition of centuries during which church authority has been officially recognized in state affairs. It also carries out the promises of republican leaders, made before the dethronement of King Alfonso XIII, that under a republic church and state would be separated completely.

The original article provided for the expulsion of religious orders from the country and the confiscation of their property. The amended provision calls for the governing of religious institutions by special laws which would forbid their engaging in commerce and industry. It also provided that they might be ejected for "just cause."

There is also a provision for the dissolution of orders which have special authorities "conflicting with the state." Catholic deputies characterized this amendment as aimed against the Jesuits particularly.

Socialist leaders announced they would oppose the amendment because it was not severe enough to suit them.

By today's action the religious separation proposal becomes a part of the new constitution, which will have to be ratified as a whole by the assembly when voting on all of the sections is completed.

Church and state were separated in France in 1905, Portugal in 1911, Mexico in 1917 and Chile in 1925.

CYR LAUNCHES MOVE TO DENY LONG HIS POST

Lieutenant Governor Attempts to Force Executive From Office.

TROOP MOBILIZATION VEILED IN MYSTERY

Deputy Chief Takes Oath and Declares Governor Is Senator.

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 13 (U.P.).—A short-lived military display, occasioned by announcement that plans were under way to oust Gov. Huey P. Long, ended tonight when the local unit of National Guardsmen and two patrols of State highway policemen were disbanded from the executive mansion and the statehouse.

The "call to arms" was the governor's answer to Lieut. Gov. Paul N. Cyr, who took oath of office as governor at Shreveport today and announced he would force a court "showdown" on Long's right to hold the office.

Threatens Ouster.

Cyr said he would file an ouster suit immediately, charging that Long cannot legally hold office as governor because he was elected to the United States Senate at the last general election.

Gov. Long was in New Orleans this afternoon when word of Cyr's action was received. At first Long appeared amused and said: "That's fine; now Louisiana is rid of Paul Cyr, because when he took the oath of governor he forfeited his right to act as lieutenant governor."

Soon afterward Long left hurriedly for the State capital and the order for mobilization of troops was made while he was en route.

Tonight Long explained he had been alarmed at rumors that Cyr might come to Baton Rouge and seize the executive mansion or the statehouse.

The governor was reluctant to admit he had called out the troops, and explained at first it was "just the regular drill day for the National Guard."

Long Is Not Afraid.

He was emphatic in declaring he was "not afraid of Cyr," and that the lieutenant governor could not get a court injunction to permit him to occupy the executive office. "The courts have ruled that such a procedure is illegal," Long said. "Cyr's ouster suit would have to take its course in the regular court procedure. There is no cause for alarm."

The detachment of troops, Company A, under command of Capt. W. J. B. Hawthorne, numbers 67 men. Capt. Hawthorne explained to newspapermen that he was acting under orders of the adjutant general. The New Orleans office denied this, saying no order for mobilization had been issued and that Adjt. Gen. Ray Fleming was out of the State. Confusion over who was responsible for the mobilization order continued for hours with both governor and the office of Gen. Fleming denying the responsibility.

Movements Guarded.

All the movements were guarded with the utmost secrecy, as were the concentration of State police, under command of Col. E. P. Roy. The colonel was locked in his office all

Japanese Typhoon Victims Are Found

30 Bodies of Hundreds Who Were Swept to Sea Are Recovered.

Tokyo (Wednesday), Oct. 14 (A.P.). The newspaper Nichi Nichi said today that 30 bodies have been recovered of the hundreds who are believed to have drowned in a violent typhoon which swept the Pacific Coast of Japan last night.

Broken communications prevented any accurate estimate of the number of casualties or the extent of the damage, but both are believed to have been large.

A swollen river broke its embankments in Miye Prefecture, the Osaka Mainichi said, flooding a number of villages and sweeping everything before it.

Charleston City Council Rejects Loan of Picture

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Charleston's city council tonight rejected the request of the Washington Bicentennial Commission that Trumbull's portrait of George Washington, owned by the city, be lent to the commission for exhibition purposes. Considerable sentiment against removal of the portrait from the city has been aroused since the request became known.

The portrait was painted in 1791 by John Trumbull to commemorate Washington's visit to Charleston. It is an outstanding treasure of the city's historical art gallery and many offers by collectors to purchase it have been refused. It hangs in Charleston's historic city hall and has never been removed from the city.

'VICTORY FUND' DRIVE STARTED BY DEMOCRATS

Davis Heads Group Raising $1,500,000 to Open 1932 Campaign.

MONEY WOULD WIPE OUT DEFICIT OF 1928

500 Party Leaders in All Parts of Nation Will Form Committee.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Plans for the raising of a "victory fund" that will permit the Democratic party to get off to a flying start in the 1932 presidential campaign were announced last night.

Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, announced the creation of a committee of more than 500 prominent Democrats, whose task it will be to raise $1,500,000 before the party holds its national convention in June.

Of this sum, $400,000 would be used to wipe out the deficit growing out of the 1928 campaign; $600,000 to cover the expenses of the national headquarters here since the 1928 campaign and from now until the 1932 convention, and $500,000 to create a "flying start" fund for the next campaign.

Davis Is Chairman.

The general committee of 500 is headed by John W. Davis, of New York, the Democratic presidential nominee of 1924, and includes two other erstwhile Democratic nominees —former Gov. James M. Cox, of Ohio, and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York.

On the committee also are several men who are now being boomed for the Democratic nomination in 1932, including Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York; former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, of Ohio; former Gov. Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia; Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland; former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri; Owen D. Young, of New York; and Melvin A. Traylor, of Kentucky.

The committee further includes the Democratic leaders in the Senate and House—Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, and Representative John N. Garner, of Texas.

John H. Fahey, of Boston, publisher of the Worcester, Mass., Post, and former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will be executive chairman of the victory fund committee, and James W. Gerard, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, will serve as treasurer.

Party Stockholder.

The fund committee will include as ex-officio members all Democratic national committeemen and committeewomen, together with Democratic State chairmen.

In announcing the creation of the committee, Mr. Shouse said that the underlying principle behind the preconvention drive was "to make every voter who is interested in constructive government a party stockholder for 1932."

Mr. Davis, in a statement issued along with that of Mr. Shouse, said that the drive marks "the first time the Democratic party ever has undertaken to prepare adequately in advance of a President election."

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and

Pacific Fliers Get Air-Mail Survey

Pangborn and Herndon to Map Route Over Northern States.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Commissioned to survey a proposed northern air route for the Department of Commerce, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, jr., first nonstop fliers of the Pacific, hopped off at 2:50 p. m. (P. S. T.) here today on a five-day flight to New York.

Announcement of their plans was made to friends here just before the two aviators climbed into the plane that carried them safely across two oceans and most of the way around the world. Their night stop was to be Spokane, after a brief rest at Wenatchee, where they brought their plane down on the first nonstop plane flight ever made across the Pacific.

Akron Completes 10-Hour Speed Trial

Navy Airship Is Groomed for Endurance Flight on Friday.

Akron, Ohio, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Back in its dock tonight, after a ten-hour speed run over northern Ohio, the Navy airship Akron was being groomed for its last and most exacting trial flight, a 48-hour cruise recapitulating all its previous trials.

The Akron was moored at 4:37 p. m. (E.S.T.) today, having completed most of the 100 test-flight hours before acceptance by the Government and removal to Lakehurst, N. J.

Meanwhile, Secretary Adams said yesterday the proposed sister ship to the Akron, the world's largest dirigible, would be built if the new airship, now completing her tests, is accepted by the Navy. Officials expect her to meet requirements.

The Indianan, who has voiced opposition to large appropriations for the military establishments, said "It would be foolish to expend money for a construction program until the results of the conference are known."

Snell Sees All Vital Bills Passing House

(Associated Press.)

The prediction that all nationally vital legislation would be passed by the House in the coming session despite close division of party strength was made yesterday by Representative Snell, of New York.

He said he believed President Hoover's economic program would be approved in principle. Snell, one of those being pushed for the Republican Speakership nomination, said he felt that the Hoover proposal to amend the Federal reserve act to permit additional bank paper to be rediscounted would be passed early in the session.

CREDIT AID PRESSED ON NATIONAL BANKS

Comptroller Pole Declares Institutions Should Back Hoover's Plan.

(Associated Press.)

National banks last night were urged by Comptroller Pole to participate in the activities of the National Credit Corporation, organized at the instance of President Hoover to strengthen the credit structure.

The currency chief, in a formal statement, said it was not only lawful but desirable that national banks participate in the pool to the extent of 2 per cent of their net deposits, provided that such 2 per cent should not exceed in amount the limitation placed upon them by statute, which is 10 per cent of their unimpaired capital and surplus.

Pole's action resulted from numerous inquiries as to whether national banks could properly invest their funds in the corporation formed to extend aid to bankers of the country by discounting high-grade securities which can not be discounted by the Federal Reserve banks.

The comptroller said his office indorsed the National Credit Corpora-

Issue of Treasury Bills Heavily Oversubscribed

(Associated Press.)

A $50,000,000 issue of 90-day Treasury bills dated October 15 yesterday was heavily oversubscribed.

Secretary Mellon announced that the total amount applied for at the Federal Reserve banks aggregated $127,834,000. Except for three bids approximating $304,000 at prices averaging about 1 per cent, the highest bid made was 99.625, equivalent to an interest rate of 1½ per cent on an annual basis. The lowest bid accepted was 99.313, equivalent to an interest rate of about 2 3-4 per cent on an annual basis.

Urbina Leads Filibuster Down Coast of Venezuela

Rebel General Sails With Army of 200 to Start Revolution Against President Gomez; Leader Fled Jail to Avoid Extradition.

Colon, Panama, Oct. 13 (U.P.).—The departure of a filibustering expedition, led by the revolutionary general, Jose Urbina, for the coast of Venezuela, was announced tonight by Dr. J. R. Wendehake, rebel leader, who said he believed the insurgents had landed at some Venezuelan coastal town.

The expedition left Vera Cruz several days ago on the steamer Superior, carrying Gen. Urbina, about 200 men, at least 50 machine guns, and many rifles, Wendehake declared. They were believed to have landed, probably at Coro, in the Province of Falson, to launch a revolution against the government of President Gen. Vincente Gomez.

Although the S. S. Superior was reported missing and feared in the hands of Venezuelan rebels in advices from Vera Cruz several days ago, there was no definite confirmation of Wendehake's statement that the ship was to be used in an attack on a Venezuelan port.

Wendehake said, however, that one of the Panama friends of Gen. Urbina, long a powerful foe of President Gomez, had received a package of personal letters and documents from the insurgent leader with directions to burn the package if the expedition failed.

The Venezuelan government has long been threatened by rebels, but without serious results. The strongly organized Gomez army has been able to suppress all outbreaks without great difficulty.

Japan Resists Offers of Intervention; Briand to Push Efforts.

MARTIAL LAW HALTS CANTON RIOT THREAT

Hoover Presents Hopeful Reports at Session of Cabinet.

(Associated Press.)

The League of Nations Council heard both sides of the Manchurian controversy yesterday from the Chinese and Japanese spokesmen and adjourned to continue consideration of the matter in private conversations.

Japan, at Geneva, Washington, Tokyo and Nanking, continued to resist stubbornly diplomatic intervention by other countries and to insist that direct negotiations between Japan and China presented the only road to solution.

Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese spokesman, told the league council that even while the council was sitting Japanese planes were bombing two Manchurian towns. Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese representative, denied knowledge of the incidents, but promised to ask Tokyo for information.

Martial law was declared at Canton because of anti-Japanese demonstrations and Japanese nationals were expected to begin moving to Hankow from various points where they have been faced with hostilities.

Hoover Reassures Cabinet.

Washington was hopeful that the league council would find a solution. President Hoover submitted at a long Cabinet session reports which were said to be optimistic.

At Nanking it was announced that United States and British ministers would arrive there today from Peiping for conferences with heads of the Chinese government.

The Japanese government presented to the American charge d'affaires a set of principles agreed upon as a basis for discussions with China, which included a demand for putting down alleged anti-Japanese agitation and a declaration that Japan wants no additional rights and concessions in Manchuria.

At Moscow Japanese Ambassador Hirota had a long conversation with Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs.

League Hopes Renewed.

Geneva, Oct. 13 (U.P.).—Renewed hope for settlement of the Manchurian conflict was raised in League of Nations circles tonight after an extended meeting of the League Council under leadership of Aristide Briand, of France.

Despite the fact that neither Japan nor China would recede in the slightest from their conflicting demands, three new elements were seen as encouraging as Briand warned the nations of "the terrible responsibility" of causing warfare in the Far East.

The chief points on which hope of a settlement was pinned were:

1—The Chinese effort to raise the question from that of a local conflict to a world-wide question involving the 1932 world disarmament conference and the existence of the league as a peace organization, as well as the effects of a war on the world's economic crisis.

Second Meeting This Morning.

2—The fact that neither party has gone beyond its original demands before the league.

3—The skillful negotiation of Briand, who will be backed by the determination of France to save the entire structure of international cooperation as a collective guarantee of peace.

Briand closed the first day of negotiations with a solemn warning of "the terrible responsibility devolving upon nations causing a catastrophe whose effects would be worldwide."

He called a meeting of the council members for 9:30 a. m. tomorrow to examine the situation preparatory to another conference with Japanese and Chinese representatives, indicating he intended to act quickly to obtain an agreement by the week-end through direct negotiations for withdrawal of troops from the scene of hostilities.

Warned by China that failure of the league in its first major test as a peace organization would cause collapse of the 1932 world disarmament

EDISON, UNCHANGED, ANSWERS QUESTIONS

Seems Brighter Resting in Chair Two Hours; Circus Clown Calls.

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 13 (A.P.). Thomas A. Edison roused sufficiently to answer a question from Mrs. Edison, but his precarious condition was described late today as "unchanged."

Dr. Hubert S. Howe did not say what the question was, but described the aged inventor as "brighter" than he had been. A 5 p. m. bulletin from Charles Edison, a son, said:

"Mr. Edison's condition remains unchanged. He was in his chair for two hours this afternoon and is now in bed sleeping."

Earlier in the day Dr. Howe said the period in which six teaspoonfuls of stewed pears had been the inventor's only nourishment had increased to 96 hours and Mr. Edison was experiencing a "gradually progressive somnolence."

An interesting caller at the Edison home was Robert Edmund (Uncle Bob) Sherwood, often described as the last of the Barnum clowns. Sherwood, now 75 and an old friend of the inventor, recalled his first meeting with Mr. Edison.

A circus wagon bearing Sherwood broke down near Akron, Ohio, in 1886, at the home of Lewis Miller, father-in-law of Mr. Edison.

"He (Edison) is crazy," Sherwood recalled remarking to a member of the Miller family. "His new-fangled electric lights make an awful glare when we try to put on our make-up."

Sherwood was told that Mr. Edison then was in the yard of the Miller estate experimenting with the placing of a phonograph in an iron lawn horse of the mauve decade and producing a neighing sound.

Sherwood was called to meet Mr. Edison and became so charmed with the inventor's personality that he missed the circus parade of that day and remained for luncheon. Later Mr. Edison was his guest at the show.

Bar Group Plans 1932 Session Here

District Association Arranges to Welcome National Body.

President George Hoover, of the District Bar Association, announced at a meeting last night in the Mayflower Hotel that the American Bar Association had accepted an invitation to hold its 1932 convention here on September 28, 29 and 30.

Mr. Hoover will appoint committees to plan for reception of the 10,000 lawyers and their friends who are expected to attend.

The committee which reported the decision was composed of Mr. Hoover, George Gertman, W. C. Sullivan and Maurice Morris.

then slew their two children, Elizabeth, 15, and Mary Lee, 13, with a shotgun.

State's Attorney Child immediately left the Circuit Court room where he had been busy on another case to take the confession in writing and have it witnessed.

When the reported confession was brought from the jail, a crowd of several hundred persons, which had been in attendance at the regular Circuit Court session, assumed a threatening attitude, but officials expressed confidence it could be controlled.

The crowd about the jail had not during the day attempted any disturbance, but threatening murmurs ran through it after the confession report was received.

Seven heavily armed State troopers mounted guard about the jail, aiding deputy sheriffs and the regular county jail force.

Jones, the deputy who told of the confession said, declared he committed the murders Saturday night, ransacked the house and then returned Sunday night to feed horses and other cattle on the Davis farm. He confessed, the official said, that he slaughtered the family himself, and that no other person had any hand in the crime.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 13 (U.P.).—Orphan Jones was brought to the Baltimore City Jail tonight. State troopers and deputy sheriffs made the 130-mile trip with the farm hand after excited groups gathered about the county jail at Snow Hill, where he confessed. Earlier in the day 2,000 farmers had threatened to lynch Jones while he was being held temporarily at Berlin, near the scene of the crime.

tion, which he considered a highly constructive measure.

He pointed out the corporation had been "favorably received by both the bankers and the public.

New York, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—The National Credit Corporation, incorporated today under the laws of Delaware to aid and assist banks throughout the United States "to utilize their resources * * * to further the stabilization of financial economic conditions," will be permitted to carry on a banking business of great diversification.

It will be permitted to trade in, pledge, hypothecate, mortgage, and exchange securities of all sorts and properties, including real estate.

The company will be permitted to organize subsidiaries in any State, territory or country.

The corporation will have a perpetual existence, but it is expected that it may be dissolved when the purpose for which it has been organized has been completed.

Its capitalization consists of twelve shares of $100 par value each, one of which will be held by each of the twelve directors. This nominal capitalization was made necessary because of the legal prohibition on stock investments by national banks.

The funds within which the corporation will operate will be raised through the sale of debentures to the banks of the country on the basis of 2 per cent of their aggregate deposits, or the legal limit of investments, if that is lower.

These deposits aggregate $43,000,000,000. Corporations and private banking firms are expected to subscribe for the debentures also and it is possible that the total funds raised for the corporation will approximate $1,000,000,000.

The National Credit Corporation, the twelve directors of which have been called to meet for the first time in New York Saturday, is one of the proposals arising from conferences held by President Hoover with bankers, business men and congressional leaders to assist economic improvement.

Mortimer N. Buckner, chairman of the organization committee, announced tonight that local associations to participate in the credit benefits of the corporation are being organized in various parts of the country.

The Chicago clearing house has approved the plan, he said, and organization meetings will be held tomorrow in Detroit and Milwaukee.

John M. Miller, director of the National Credit Corporation for the Richmond Federal Reserve district, has selected bankers to organize local associations in North Carolina, Maryland, District of Columbia, West Virginia, South Carolina and Virginia.

Similar action is being taken in other districts, Mr. Buckner said.

The fact that the National Credit Corporation will have about $1,000,000,000 available "when and if needed is already creating a reassuring influence," Mr. Buckner said.

Reception of the plan has been so favorable, Mr. Buckner pointed out, that even savings banks are offering to subscribe to the debentures, although the original plan did not include them. They will be allowed to subscribe, however, if the laws of their respective States permit them to do so.

Copeland Will Support Hoover's Credit Move

(Associated Press.)

Support for the President's emergency economic program was announced yesterday by Senator Copeland (Democrat), of New York.

Senator Copeland disagreed with Seantor Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, and proposed to go even further than is contemplated by President Hoover's plan.

He would make first-class bonds, including real estate securities, available for rediscount by the Federal Reserve System. Senator Glass has declared against this and the administration has announced no decision.

CHANCELLOR BRUENING GIVES HIS PROGRAM OF GOVERNMENT

ly halts international economic and financial interchange."

No interference with the stability of Germany's exchange.

Restriction of imports and a back-to-the-farm movement to increase the domestic food supply.

Concentration of the state's organs of enforcement "against all attempts * * * seeking to threaten the state."

An economic program to be worked out by an economic advisory body.

In his discussion of the foreign policy, which is one of the chief points of attack by the Nazi opposition, the chancellor declared that "direct and open conversations, such as that at Chequers (with the British leaders), are to pave the way for a solidarity of nations."

"A possibility must be found," he continued, "to create clear and honest relationships and feelings between neighbors.

"Germany, while fully appreciating the vital necessities of her neighbors, demands the realization of the principle of justice and equality among nations."

The session adjourned after the chancellor's speech, and subsequently it was learned that President Paul von Hindenburg had written to Dr. Bruening, accepting chairmanship of the new economic advisory board.

The middle parties, from which the cabinet has been drawn, applauded the Bruening declaration of policy. The social Democrats remained silent and the Communists shouted "dictatorship" and "inflation."

Dr. Bruening pointed out that Germany had not been alone in taking exceptional measures to meet the exceptional situation of the last few months, but the German government, he said, had been the first to adopt such measures and thereby had incurred unpopularity earlier than others.

Improvement can come about only step by step, he warned, and he declared his willingness to allow some one else to head the nation during the period of adjustment.

"If the Reichstag demands it, I will resign immediately," he said.

"The ideal government would be one of men of good will, endowed with a sense of responsibility, but all my attempts in the past months have shown, alas, that no cooperation of parties to that end seems possible in present day Germany.

"I therefore decided the only alternative was to form a government which is still less tied by party considerations than my previous government."

Whether the Reichstag will call upon him to make good his promise to resign if repudiated is expected to be decided before the end of the week. On Friday, according to the present schedule, there will be a vote on the Nazi-Nationalist attempt to oust him.

New York Aldermen Urge Special Session

New York, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—The city board of aldermen today passed a resolution asking President Hoover to call a special session of Congress for discussion of a five billion dollar bond issue for unemployment relief. The vote on adoption was 56 to 3, with all Democrats approving it.

BISHOP CANNON SEES GLASS ATTACK LIBEL

Heated Denial of Charges in Broker's Parole Calls Senator "Cowardly."

(Associated Press.)

Bishop James Cannon, jr., last night issued a vigorous denial of an accusation by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, that the churchman's stock broker, serving a prison term for fraud, was paroled recently as part of an agreement intended to spare the bishop unfavorable publicity.

He described the Glass charge as "absolutely false" and said it was the statement "of a cowardly politician trying to save himself from a libel suit."

Early in the week, Glass wrote to Attorney General Mitchell asking if the parole granted Harry L. Goldhurst, who handled some of the bishop's stock market transactions, was "in pursuance of a blameworthy agreement made by Department of Justice officials in New York and elsewhere."

Mitchell ordered an investigation.

Glass Charges Denied.

Glass' letter said it was reported Goldhurst changed his plea from not guilty to guilty to avert the necessity of calling Bishop Cannon, "thus revealing the prelate's gambling transactions."

Bishop Cannon said last night "it has never been proved that Kable & Co. conducted a bucket shop." Glass had referred to Goldhurst, partner in this firm, as a "bucket shop adventurer."

The bishop said he had neither seen nor talked with Miss Fallor from the time she left Blackstone College 20 years ago until he asked her over the telephone when the Goldhurst case would be tried.

Tells of Conversation.

"She replied that she would refer my inquiries to Mr. Tuttle," the bishop continued, "and I went to see Mr. Tuttle in his office on July 8, 1929, and he stated that he could not tell me the date of the trial but said most emphatically that the charge was not for conducting a bucket-shop."

He denied that papers seized in Goldhurst's office "had after a visit of Bishop Cannon and one of his attorneys to New York been tightly sealed and access to them denied." This "implication" he said was "false" and "characteristic * * * of the recklessness with which Senator Glass makes baseless and venomous charges."

To Glass' reference to his departure for Brazil during a political campaign "largely precipitated by him" the clergyman said he had attended conferences in performing his episcopal duty.

"John W. Price, whom he refers to as 'Bishop Cannon's Washington lawyer,' has never been employed by me as my attorney at any time.

Flatly Denies Parole Influence.

"C. Bascom Slemp and myself never had an interview with Goldhurst at a hotel in New York City.'

"I do not know Judge Frank Coleman, who passed sentence upon Messrs. Goldhurst and Kable."

Bishop Cannon said he had "nothing to do" with advising Goldhurst to plead guilty and had not appealed to any one to sign a petition for his parole, "flatly" denying attempting to influence the parole board.

Alleged Confidence Man Gets Journey

Principal in Sailor Plaint Will Face Los Angeles Fleecing Charge.

Lem Harris, known to California authorities as L. N. Hill, and to La-Vaughn Cobb, sailor, as the man he charged with having taken $100 from him in a coin-matching game, was turned over to California authorities yesterday.

Harris is charged with having worked the old race track tipster game on Joseph Mills, a 77-year-old retired street car conductor, of Cleveland, Ohio, who was stopping at Venice, Calif., when he met Harris.

Mills was persuaded to go to his home in Cleveland, borrow $2,400 on his home and return to play the races with Harris. Naturally, the "sure thing" lost and after a month or so in which he failed to get his money back, Mills went to the police. One of the trio which allegedly mulcted him was caught and sent to jail and apprehension of Harris makes the second arrest. Harris waived extradition and agreed to go back to California with Detective Lieut. Edgar Edwards, Los Angeles.

Enlarged School Classes Caused by Depression

Increase in enrollment in public schools was attributed to lack of employment and business conditions by Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schols, yesterday.

Dr. Ballou pointed out that children who ordinarily seek employment between the ages of 14 and 16 are remaining in school because under the District laws they can leave school only if they are engaged in gainful occupations. The superintendent also observed that parents feeling the pinch of the depression are taking their children from parochial and private schools.

Woman Oil Operator Indicted.

Tyler, Tex., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—An indictment charging Mae Gregory, Fort Worth oil promoter with using the mails to defraud, was returned by the Federal grand jury here today. She will be returned from the Peoria, Ill., jail, where she is under arrest.

Anti-Fascists Flier's Story Of His Death Is Published

Paris, Oct. 13 (U.P.).—The story of "My Death," written by Lauro di Bosis, anti-Fascist aviator who dropped propaganda pamphlets over Rome last week, was published today by friends of the flier, who is believed dead.

Di Bosis wrote the story before starting his flight. He was the son of Mrs. Lillian di Bosis, native of St Louis and Syracuse, N. Y.

"Tomorrow in a meadow of azure I am going to meet Pegasus," the pilot wrote. "The sky of Rome has never been flown by an anti-Fascist plane. I shall be the first. After flying over Corsica, I will reach Rome at 8 p. m., and drop the pamphlets. I will do the last 20 kilometers gliding. My plane flies only 150 kilometers an hour. Mussolini's planes fly 300. There are 900 of them and they have orders to identify any suspicious plane, and bring it down with a machine gun if necessary."

Di Bosis' plane was chased away from Rome by Italian craft and was not reported later.

Boy's Modesty Nearly Costs Him Law Suit

Boston, Oct. 13 (U.P.).—The modesty of Joseph Bruno well-nigh cost him a $20,000 damage suit in Federal court today.

He screamed, kicked and refused to show a jury marks of an injury to his leg. Judge James M. Morton decided to accept the word of his physician that the scars existed, and the result was a $900 verdict. Joseph is 5 years old.

NEW CREDIT MARK SET BY ARGENTINA

Public Subscription Raises Half of Huge Sum Due to U. S. Banks.

Concrete example of a new spirit in Pan-American financial relations was revealed here yesterday when definite details of the recent transaction between the Argentine government and American bankers were made public by the Argentine Ambassador Felipe A. Espil.

Maturity of a $50,000,000 short term loan due American bankers October 1, threatened the Government of Argentina with serious financial crisis recently. The gold was held in the reserve of the Banco de la Nacion and other Argentine banks of issue but the sudden exodus of approximately 120,000,000 pesos at the current gold rate would have embarrassed the Argentine finance ministry.

Other South American countries, Bolivia, Chile, Peru and Brazil, had declared a moratorium to protect their gold holdings, but Argentina was prepared to ship the entire amount of $50,000,000 rather than injure her financial standing.

Drive Nets $25,000,000.

Ambassador Espil conferred with groups of American bankers and with representatives of important American export firms doing business in Buenos Aires. At the same time a patriotic movement was started in Buenos Aires similar to the liberty loans and drives of war memory in this country and a popular subscription was started which quickly mounted to $25,000,000.

American business firms then spontaneously offered to subscribe to the loan, and the General Electric, International Telephone & Telegraph, General Motors and several other companies took approximately $5,000,000 of it. This amount was subscribed in dollars at New York.

American banking groups then offered to underwrite the balance of the loan, which amounted to $20,000,000, and a costly gold movement of $25,000,000 from Buenos Aires to New York was avoided.

Commenting on a misstatement that had appeared in The Post in this connection, the Ambassador said yesterday:

Few Command Such Credit.

"It is a very well known fact that Argentina has fulfilled and is fulfilling most punctually all of her foreign obligations, and only very recently this attitude had a very strong recognition when half of a $50,000,000 short-term loan that fell due October 1 was taken up anew by American banks and industrial organizations. As it was then said, Argentina received in the New York money market a recognition as a credit risk which few other nations in the world could command at this time."

Dr. Orestes Ferrara, the Cuban Ambassador, made the following statement:

"The statement under quotation published by The Washington Post as said by me is exact. However, the specific references to countries which may have enacted moratoria are not mine. I have nothing to say about what other countries do and when I have to speak I only speak about mine.

"The inexact references to which I refer are:

"'Ambassador Ferrara denied that the Cuban Government intends to follow the example of such countries as Argentina, Brazil and Chile in seeking financial relief by means of a moratorium.'"

Alms Tale Touches Judge for Quarter

Policeman Wins Freedom and Cash for Man He Had Arrested.

Charged with begging, a man in Judge R. E. Mattingly's police court told such a touching tale that the justice reached into his own pocket for a quarter to make even more palatable his dismissal of the case yesterday.

The man is Leonard Connor, 33 years old. Policeman G. Walrodt, of the First Precinct, who arrested Connor when he heard him ask a man for "coffee" money, admitted in court that the prisoner had a story that touched him, and he told Judge Mattingly the story seemed to be true.

Connor said he had starved and deprived himself of everything for his wife and family in Tulsa, Okla., and that he would rather starve or steal than beg.

Bankers' Head Praises Credit Group's Purpose

(Associated Press.)

Harry J. Haas, president of the American Bankers Association, expects big things from the $500,000,000 credit corporation organized at the suggestion of President Hoover. "The plan will provide the quick assets that are necessary to banks," he said yesterday.

If more money is needed by the corporation, he is confident it will be forthcoming. The American Bankers Association at its recent convention indorsed the credit-easing project.

Wife Who Shot Brutal Husband Is Exonerated

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 13 (U.P.).—Mrs. Ina Koester, 41, was acquitted of murdering her husband, William Koester, today after Chief Justice William Penniwell instructed the jury to return a verdict of not guilty.

Attorney General Reuben Satterthwaite agreed to drop the case after Mrs. Koester had spent two hours on the witness stand, telling of her husband's brutalities. She said, in her testimony, that the killing was accidental.

JUDICIARY POWERS IN CUBA UNCHANGED

Text of Proposed Emergency Legislation Received Here Dispels Rumors.

(Associated Press.)

The Commerce Department announced late yesterday receipt of the full text of proposed Cuban emergency legislation showing there was no provision for curtailment of judiciary powers as previously indicated.

The department announced details of the Machado proposal Monday, reported by its officials in Cuba, as including the provision that the president be given full power to suppress judges or courts or alter their decisions within his own discretion.

Ambassador Ferrara, of Cuba, with the text of the proposal before him, yesterday denied as "absolutely unfounded that the President of Cuba has requested or is being empowered to alter the decisions of judges or courts."

Fixed Budget Altered.

The department said the full text of the emergency legislation proposed late last week was received yesterday and showed the Cuban executive would alter the fixed budget with respect to the judiciary and also reduce the number of courts and magistrates, but did not contain any provision for curtailment of judiciary powers as was first indicated in the preliminary cable report received by the Commerce Department.

Meanwhile Ambassador Ferrara continued to confer with Viriato Gutierrez, Cuban senator, relative to a plan for possible conversion of Cuba's short-term obligations of approximately $100,000,000 into long-term indebtedness. No announcement was made whether a plan was taking shape for presentation to the New York bankers involved.

Debt Increase Seen.

Cosme de la Torriente, former Ambassador from Cuba and now an anti-Machado leader in the United States, last night characterized the long-term plan under study here as an effort to increase the foreign debt of Cuba.

"The proposal of the Machado regime to seek a long-term loan of $100,000,000 for refunding purposes," he said in a statement issued to the press, "actually means that an effort will be made to increase the foreign debt of Cuba by $20,000,000, since it is the intention of the government to retire only $80,000,000 of the existing foreign debt with the proceeds and use the remainder to take up $20,000,000 in certificates which have been issued to Cuban contractors for public road construction."

Additional Police Guard Porto Rico Tobacco Farms

San Juan, P. R., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Acting Gov. Jose Padin today ordered the concentration of 100 additional police, armed with riot guns, in the tobacco districts as a result of the destruction last night of two tobacco seed beds at Cayey and Cidra by armed masked men.

Groups of about 30 men appeared simultaneously in the two places—they are about twenty miles apart—and fired on armed watchmen of the Porto Rican Leaf Tobacco Co. One was slightly wounded.

Gov. Padin ordered the insular police chief to recruit additional police if necessary. He said he would call out the militia if they were needed to protect tobacco raisers who want to plant seed.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Jennie Rutledge, 55, who killed her mother, Mrs. Alice Pyle, 83, because she would not eat bread and milk, was sentenced to serve from 7 to 10 years in the State penitentiary by Judge Howard C. Speakman today.

Mrs. Rutledge was convicted of manslaughter a month ago. Mrs. Pyle died from injuries allegedly received in a beating Mrs. Rutledge administered.

20 Per Cent of People Seek Dentist, Is Claim

That only 20 per cent of the people in the United States seek dental treatment was the declaration of Dr. Nye Goodman, of Los Angeles, Calif., before the District of Columbia Dental Society at its first fall meeting at George Washington University last night. The meeting was opened by Dr. Herbert C. Hopkins, president of the society, and Dr. Goodman was introduced by Dr. A. Rush.

PAN-AMERICANS END SESSIONS IN CAPITAL

Good Will Marks Passing of Resolutions on Tariffs and Currency.

(Associated Press.)

In an atmosphere of cordiality, representatives of 21 western republics yesterday signed resolutions adopted only after heated controversies and the fourth Pan-American commercial conference was declared at an end.

The measures approved held that excessive tariffs contributed to economic instability and that Latin-American nations should give further attention to steadying their monetary and credit situations.

Vice President Curtis presided at yesterday's closing ceremonies. In a series of addresses, the delegates exchanged expressions of good will. The conference was in session one week.

An attempt to have the gathering urge a parley looking toward the "remonitization" of silver in the final draft resulted in a recommendation that Pan-American governments "consider" submitting the possibility of "rehabilitating" silver to a world conference.

"Gold" Is Eliminated.

An additional recommendation in favor of adoption of the gold standard of currency by Latin-American republics was rewritten to eliminate the word "gold" and substitute the phrase "a monetary standard which will assure to the circulating medium the stability necessary to guarantee the normalcy of commercial operations."

Some proposals, however, which proved controversial when introduced, were put through in more specific form. The Mexican delegation obtained adoption of a resolution under which future conferences would be held in different Pan-American capitals. All Pan-American commercial conferences to date have been in Washington. Some delegates saw in the action a gain in Mexican diplomatic prestige in Latin America.

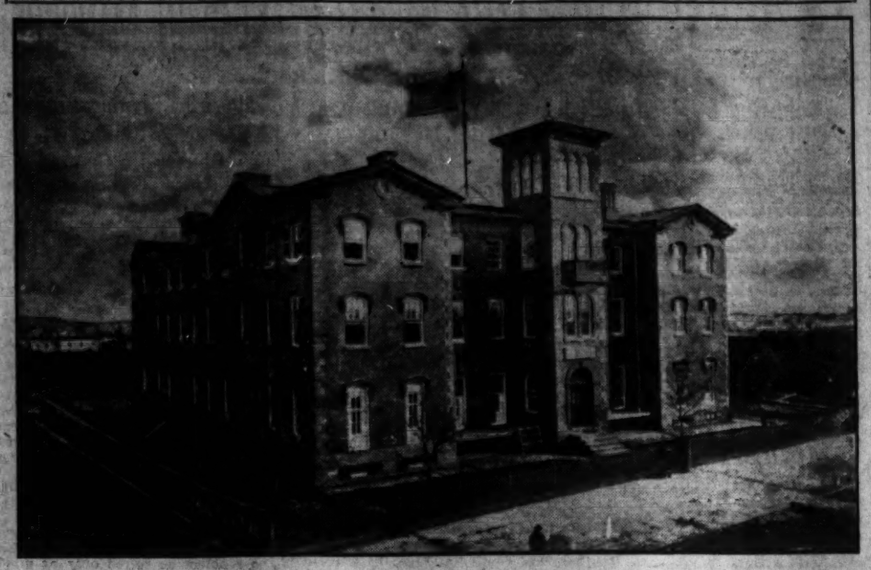
Argentines Win Resolution.

The Argentines, who have resented American sanitary regulations barring their beef from this country, departed with a resolution, declaring against using sanitary regulations as protective customs measures and proposing to deal with infected areas by zones instead of by countries.

United States delegates played an inconspicuous role in the conference. They made a minimum of speeches from the floor, and when they did, almost always emphasized that they spoke as individuals rather than as representing delegations of this country.

As the conference adjourned, about 45 of the Latin-American delegates prepared to leave for Baltimore on the first leg of a 15-day industrial tour that will take them to most of the leading business centers of the Eastern part of the United States. The majority of the delegates come to Washington directly from their homeland.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 74



FEW residents of Washington probably remember when this old building, then standing at Fourteenth and S streets northwest, was used by the State Department.

The department was moved from there to the present State, War and Navy Building in 1875.

It was while the State Department was quartered in this building that the United States purchased Alaska and added it to American domains.

The barrenness of that section of the city at that time may be noted by the lack of buildings near the old building.

Brooklyn Bank Robbers Take $16,860 and Flee

New York, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Three robbers forced the manager and four assistants from their desks today in a Brooklyn branch of the Irving Trust Co. and seized $16,860 from a cash drawer after firing shots at the feet of ten customers. The trio fled without attempting to reach the vault of the bank, which is located at Avenue M and East Nineteenth street.

Bank officials said the loss was covered by insurance.

GOVERNMENT RESTS IN TRIAL OF CAPONE

Defense Request for Two Days to Prepare Case Is Refused.

Chicago, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—The United States Government finished presentation today of its mass of evidence to show that "Scarface Al" Capone was guilty of income tax evasion.

The sudden resting of the prosecution's case soon after the noon recess—regarded as considerably shortening the anticipated length of the trial—left in the court record results of three years' investigation by scores of undercover operatives. When the skein of evidence is knit together in the final four hours of argument the court will allot each side, the Government hopes to convince the jury of tradesmen, farmers and merchants that Capone must go to prison.

Defense Surprised.

The defense, professing surprise at the conclusion of the prosecution case, asked an adjournment for two days to prepare itself, but Judge James H. Wilkerson declined to allow the delay and ordered Defense Attorneys Michael Ahern and Albert Fink to be ready at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Capone's counsel have not said definitely whether they would call witnesses to the stand.

All the evidence in the record has met objections from the defense on the grounds it does not show income of the defendant. Expenditures of thousands of dollars for fine motor cars, expensive garments and a palatial Florida home have nothing to do with the case, they insist.

If found guilty, Capone might possibly receive a sentence which would keep him behind the walls of Leavenworth Penitentiary until a score of years is added to his present age of 32. The defense has indicated, however, it would appeal any verdict of conviction.

The defense attorneys pleaded long and vigorously at the close of today's session for a "couple of days to round out our case." Judge Wilkerson replied, "Consider the jury and the crowded condition of the courts."

"I may decide to bring several witnesses here from New York," said Attorney Fink. "One of the witnesses might be summoned from Washington, another from Philadelphia.

May Show Losses.

"These witnesses would be able to prove losses which this defendant incurred in the only business (presumably gambling) to which the Government has referred during this trial. I would have no time to bring them here unless we are given a few days' time."

Additional evidence was given today concerning what were known as "Capone gambling joints" in Cicero, but as in previous testimony concerning the gambling establishments no direct evidence was given that the profits from the enterprises reached Capone's pockets.

The addition will connect the junior high school and the Tower Elementary School. Eleven bids were offered, and the highest was $73,972.

Boobs of World Differ But Little, Says Shaw

By JOHN J. DALY

IN Russia they do things differently. The dear old boobs of America have fizzled, according to that eminent authority and sage, George Bernard Shaw, of the firm of Shaw, O'Shawnessey and O'Pahaw.

The lad should know. Recently he has been in Russia. While he has never visited America, he knows America and the Americans. They and their British cousins have given the Sage of Socialism most of his worldly goods, earned under a capitalistic system that permits him to make capital out of its shortcomings by selling it short in the marts of ridicule.

• • • •

"HUMAN NATURE," says the wily Irishman, "is like a piece of putty. You can twist it and pat it and model it into any shape you like. And when you have shaped it, it will set so hard that it could never take any other shape on earth. The Russian putty is like the American putty except that the American putty is softer in the head and sets harder."

Out of the pastime of putty-patting, this is undoubtedly what brings about the hard-headed American business man.

Though the deliberations of the jovial Shaw have all the marks of St. Martin's jewelry — counterfeit gems—these Brummagen ornaments pinned on the chest of the world politico are rather useful at this time since they serve to advertise the latest Shavian book. He is writing a treatise on Russia and its revolutionary experiment to be sold to the dear old boobs of America.

As a matter of fact, taking them by and large, and in mass formation, there is little or no difference between the boobs of America, the boobs of Russia, and, ahem, the boobs of Great Britain. In this category, of course, Mr. Shaw, the disinterested, can always be counted out—for Lucullus will sup tonight, as he always did, with Lucullus.

• • • •

WHETHER in Russia or the good old U. S. A., nothing is so little esteemed as the minds of the multitude.

Cicero, beating Shaw to it, said: "Though a thing be not foul in itself, yet it can not but become so when commended by the crowd."

The mobs of Russia have gone communistic and the masses in America materialistic. Somewhere in between is the golden garden we like to think of as Paradise, but the unfortunate part of it all is that such a place is not on earth. If so, no one has made the discovery of discoveries. It must be in the ocean, between America and Russia, or under the ocean, or in the heavens that hover over the ocean. At any rate, no man—not even G. B. S.—knows where it is. Until the millennium, America will probably keep on worshiping its capitalistic gods, the swarthy sons of socialistic Russia swinging in line behind their saints and saviors, and Mr. Shaw writing books.

In the meantime, as one boob to another, here's to Russia and America—and may the best boobs win.

Jobless in Great Britain Decrease During Week

London, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Unemployment in Great Britain for the week of October 5 decreased by 33,252 from the previous week. The total was 3,791,520, which was 615,329 more than at the same time a year ago.

The popular explanation of the decrease is a revival of British industry because of abandonment of the gold standard.

DISSENSION BLOCKS RAILWAY PAY CUTS

Southern System President Tells Stockholders Plan Lacks Unanimity.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—A lack of necessary unanimity among railway executives has prevented any steps toward bringing about a reduction in wages of railway employes, Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern Railway Co., told stockholders today at their annual meeting here.

He asserted several members of a group of executives considering the wage question had contended that the present is not the time to bring on congressional discussion of the matter.

"The railroads can be operated on a paying basis if given a free hand," Mr. Harrison said. He added that one road, however, can not initiate wage reduction negotiations, but that such a movement must come from all.

Mr. Harrison said the wage question had been considered for several months by a group of seven executives, of which he was one. He declined to discuss the dividend question, and asked the stockholders to continue to have confidence in their directors.

PASS PLAN STUDIED BY CAR OPERATORS

Street Railway Companies Also Awaiting Taxi Rate Hearing.

Washington traction officials yesterday admitted that consideration has been given to adoption of the pass system for the two street car companies, but no indication was given that they would follow the example of the Washington Rapid Transit Co. and ask the Public Utilities Commission to permit issuance of passes.

Both the Capital Traction Co. and the Washington Railway & Electric Co. are known to be awaiting with considerable interest the taxicab hearing scheduled for next Monday. Whether or not they will participate in the hearing is conjectural, but they are reported to be gathering data on the local taxicab situation.

Since the inauguration of the zone system by the majority of taxicab companies, and particularly since the rate war and the establishment of the present low scales of fares, the street railways have suffered losses in passengers; just how much is difficult to determine, however, because of the raise in traction fares a year ago and the inauguration of the 3-cent school fare last spring.

The application of the Washington Rapid Transit Co. probably will be acted upon by the commission at its semiweekly meeting tomorrow. As it is on an experimental basis and as the bus company's rate of return on its own valuation is low, the request is expected to be granted.

Taxicab fares will be raised slightly, it is believed, following the hearing.

TACT IS DEMANDED IN ORIENTAL CRISIS

League Must Rely on Moral Force to Bring China and Japan to Peace.

Editor's note—In view of the widespread interest in the League of Nations' attitude in the Manchurian dispute between China and Japan, the following explanation of the league's powers in such cases is timely. It shows that if moral suasion fails to achieve a peaceful settlement, a world-wide boycott of the offending nations might be undertaken.

Geneva, Oct. 13 (U.P.).—The League of Nations Council, attempting to solve the Manchurian crisis, has been forced to rely on moral pressure and diplomacy in an effort to break the deadlock between China and Japan. Only in event of a resort to war by Japan or China, could the league consider such measures as severance of trade or financial relations or use of military measures to maintain world peace.

The league movement, to which both China and Japan subscribed, declared that any war or threat of war is a concern of the league and that the league "shall take any action deemed wise and effectual to safeguard peace." It was under this condition, contained in Article XI, that China asked the league to intervene and investigate the quarrel. Japan opposed the request and a decision has been postponed.

Arbitration Is Issue.

The members of the league agree that any dispute "which they recognize to be suitable for submission to arbitration" will be put before the World Court or otherwise arbitrated. Japan has contended that the present Manchurian dispute could be settled satisfactorily only by direct negotiations with China.

The established method of arbitration would be through the World Court, but in case that method is not followed out in any dispute, Article XV of the covenant provides that the controversy will be submitted to the council, which shall endeavor to effect a settlement. This is now being done.

If the effort fails the council will publish a report of the facts and make recommendations to the league members. If China or Japan or both object to the recommendations, the league members are bound not to go to war with any party to the dispute which complies with the recommendations. If necessary, the council may refer the dispute to the league assembly.

Boycott Possible.

Should China or Japan resort to war in disregard of the league's efforts or recommendations, that nation would be deemed to have committed an act of war against all other members of the league, which would "undertake immediately to subject it to severance of all trade or financial relations, the prohibition of all intercourse between their nationals and the nationals of the covenant-breaking state, and the prevention of all financial, commercial or personal intercourse." This would involve a declaration of complete boycott against any nation resorting to war.

The council would then recommend to the governments involved what military measures should be taken, if any.

They refused to answer questions of Assistant United States Attorney Gwyn Redwine during the trial of William H. Neblett, law partner of Mr. McAdoo, who pleaded not guilty to a criminal charge of contempt of court involving the alleged sale of $85,000 worth of bonds contrary to a restraining order. They are Robert B. Powell, an attorney, and E. D. Flaherty, the law firm's office manager.

CHINESE FORT SET AFIRE

ASIATIC FLEET BASE SHIFTED TO ALLAY JAPANESE CHARGES

dered fleet movements to cut off the Japanese line of communications between Port Arthur and Japanese ports.

Secretary Stimson denied the report categorically. Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, was even more explicit. He said:

"That is a damned lie put out for the purpose of creating sensational news. You can print it just that way."

It is understood Secretary Stimson ordered the American ships—seven submarines and a tender—recalled after talking over the telephone with Admiral Pratt but without consulting Secretary Adams. The naval Secretary was reported to have said last night that he not only did not know of the recall of the submarines, but never knew they had been sent to Chefoo on Monday.

The rumor had, however, more serious implications for the State Department. Press dispatches from the League of Nations had indicated that Secretary Stimson had received no assurances from the League of Nations that the American observer, Prentiss Gilbert, was to be invited. Opposition on the part of the Japanese delegate, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, was reported to be responsible.

No confirmation of these reports could be obtained from the department, but, nevertheless, in view of the ample assurances given the league by the Secretary of State that the United States would cooperate with it in the settlement of the Manchurian situation, presence of the American observer was naturally taken for granted.

A false report cabled to Tokyo of any American reprisal would have seriously compromised the efforts of Premier Wakatsuki and his minister of foreign affairs, Baron Shidehara, in their endeavors to restrain the Japanese war lords.

Accordingly, the department issued the unusual statement that the instructions for this American fleet movement had been countermanded and the destination changed. The eight ships of the United States Asiatic fleet, which have for the last twenty years spent the fall and early winter in Chefoo on account of favorable conditions for the sailors, were ordered to Shanghai, far to the south and well removed from any proximity to Japanese ship lanes.

The State Department declared:

"In view of the sensational information that has been given out by unauthorized sources, the movements of a section of the American Asiatic fleet, which constantly for the last 20 years has been taking its winter cruise from Tsingtau to Chefoo, have been countermanded. In order that there be no misunderstanding about these movements, the State Department has consulted with the Navy Department and as a result the movement of the ships has been routed from Chefoo to Shanghai, some 400 miles south of their original destination."

It was furthermore announced that these orders were of such casual importance that they were not given from Washington. The admiral in charge of the Asiatic fleet, M. M. Taylor, issued them as perfunctory instructions.

The situation in Geneva and in Manchuria was believed to be considerably more serious than any one in authority here in the State Department had been willing to admit. This is believed to be the explanation of the very vigorous and prompt denial put forward by the Secretary of State.

While some American disappointment would be felt, it is believed, if Mr. Gilbert were not invited to sit in with the delegates as a mere gesture of cordiality to the United States in view of its spontaneous cooperation, the department would be prepared to waive this act, if some definite peace move comes out of the league council.

H. G. Wells Arrives For Month's Visit

Author Has Economic Plan for World Ills, but Does Not See Acceptance.

New York, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—H. G. Wells came to the United States tonight for a month's visit and brought with him a six-point economic plan, which he thinks would solve the world's ills, but which he said there is no hope of any one adopting.

For an hour the author talked of revolutions, the imminence of another world war he thinks will be fought principally with gas and planes, of the futility of all economic schemes, and of the crash he expects twentieth century civilization to take in the near future.

Roman Attitude Affecting Marriage Reasserted at Rochester.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Resolutions condemning birth control and reasserting the Roman Catholic attitude on marriage and the Christian home were adopted today at the closing of the sessions convention of the National Council of Catholic Men.

"The propaganda of so-called birth control is an infidelity of God, a denial of individual dignity of man and woman and a selfish betrayal of our country's welfare," the resolution read.

Asserting that "much of the crime and evil of our day is due to a departure from the standards of the Christian home," the convention urged that its members advance the "unity and sanctity of the Christian home."

OUTSIDE EFFORTS DEFIED BY JAPAN

Nipponese Diplomats Say Direct Negotiations Are Only Solution.

Tokyo, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Japan, by iteration in Geneva and Washington as well as here and Nanking, stubbornly resisted tonight the diplomatic efforts of the rest of the world to solve the Manchurian problem, insisting direct negotiations between Japan and China presented the only road to solution.

Nevertheless, lights burned late as newly received dispatches from the council chamber of the League of Nations were scanned by officials.

The interest of the United States Government in the situation was acknowledged by presentation to American Chare d'Affaires Edwin L. Neville of a set of principles agreed upon by Japanese civil and military officials as a basis for discussion with China of a Manchurian settlement.

Principles Outlined.

Briefly, the principles fell under two divisions:

First, the anti-Japanese agitation in China, which Japan says is endangering Japanese lives and property must be put down.

Second—The treaty rights and privileges of Japanese nationals in Manchuria must be acknowledged and protection provided for Japan's vast interests.

In connection with this second principle Japan would make it clear she has no desires for any additional rights or concessions.

Announcement of these principles followed closely upon the conference yesterday of the Chinese Minister to Japan, Chiang Tso-Pin, and the Japanese foreign minister, Baron Kijuro Shidehara.

Reports today in vernacular newspapers of the conference said Minister Chiang had insisted upon withdrawal of Japanese troops from Manchuria as a prerequisite to negotiations. Baron Shidehara, it was stated, took the contrary attitude that Japan's principal interest in Manchuria was protection of Japanese and Korean lives and property there and that before the troops could be recalled assurance first must be given by China that these would be properly safeguarded.

Argument Upheld.

Military dispatches today from Mukden, headquarters of the Japanese army in Manchuria, upheld the foreign minister's argument, but of course they were from Japanese sources. They said many of the scattered soldiery of former Gov. Chang Hsueh-Liang had taken to banditry and were living off the land, and that those remaining under Chang's control were withdrawing to a point south of the Great Wall—in other words, out of Manchuria altogether and into China proper.

This last development was probably inspired, however, by a Japanese warning to Chang against a possible repetition of the recent clash with the Japanese forces of occupation, which resulted a few days ago in the bombardment of Chinchow, Manchuria, where Chang had established a temporary capital.

The warning to Chang was tempered with the statement that Japan would not take action likely to complicate the Manchurian situation unless the Chinese first took the offensive.

Nanking, China, Wednesday, Oct. 14 (A.P.).—Nelson T. Johnson, the American minister, arrived here today from Peiping for a series of conferences with heads of the Chinese government.

Mr. Johnson said he came to Nanking under instructions from Washington, owing to the critical Sino-Japanese situation.

The American minister was accompanied by his wife, whom he married only recently. The British minister, Sir Miles Wedderburn Lampson, was expected here today for the conferences.

Mr. Johnson's arrival heartened Nanking officials and the public and was regarded as tangible evidence of America's interest in the Manchurian crisis. His presence here tended to allay panic, which recently caused 10,000 inhabitants to leave Nanking, fearing Japanese naval action.

They will not meet the Japanese minister.

Sporadic Fighting Resumed In Manchuria Trouble Zone

Number of Casualties Reported in Clashes; Bandits Reported to Have Killed 380 Japanese and Koreans Since Occupation; Hunt Begun

London, Wednesday, Oct. 14 (A.P.).—A dispatch to the Daily Express this morning from Mukden, Manchuria, said that Japanese troops marched out of the city yesterday afternoon planning to encircle the entire Chinchow area and to advance eastward along the Peping-Mukden Railway in what they said was a drive against bandits.

The dispatch also said it was reported a Japanese air squadron was fired on by a Chinese troop train near Kaopengtze yesterday and that the airplanes retaliated by dropping three bombs, which did no damage.

Japanese reports were credited with saying that 260 Japanese and Korean civilians have been killed by alleged bandits inside Japanese-controlled area and 120 outside of the area since the Japanese occupation.

Peiping, China, Oct. 13 (U.P.).—Fighting between Japanese and Chinese soldiers in Manchuria was resumed sporadically today in defiance of the League of Nations' urgent efforts toward peace.

Foreign military attaches were informed at the same time that wholesale Chinese troop movements had been started northward from the Yangtze region of central China, apparently anticipating possible warfare as a result of the unbroken deadlock between Chinese and Japanese representatives at Geneva. Japan has an army of 15,000 men in Manchuria. Presumably most of Chang Hsueh-Liang's Manchurian army of 200,000 has been withdrawn southward toward or into China proper.

The Chinese Nationalist army, commanded by Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, and numbering hundreds of thousands, has been concentrated far to the south in recent months, when Chang Hsueh-Liang controlled the Peiping and Manchurian areas as an ally of China.

A Manchurian communique charged that Japanese aviators had renewed attacks on Chinese troops by bombarding three trainloads of soldiers at Tahushan this morning. Casualties were not known. Reports of disturbances came from the Peiping-Mukden railroad area, where Japanese authorities previously had claimed a dangerous situation existed.

Chang Hsueh-Liang was informed by Japanese representatives of the danger of an outbreak in the region of Shanhaikwan, which is in China proper, a short distance from the Manchuria border. The Japanese charged that 2,000 Chinese soldiers from the Mukden region were retreating from Chenchow, which was bombed last week, to Shanhaikwan, where 150 Japanese guards are stationed. It was feared the forces might clash during the movement.

Other reports from the stations of Tahus and Choachiatun, along the railroad, said bandits had robbed a train at Kaoshantze and driven off a Chinese guard. There were 30 casualties in the fighting.

LEAGUE HEARS CHARGES IN MANCHURIA BATTLE

conference and plunge the Orient into turmoil which would increase the world's economic distress, the European statesmen began an urgent series of public and private sessions which Briand said he was convinced would achieve a settlement.

The deadlock between Japan, demanding direct negotiations for peace, and China, which will accept only league intervention, continued unbroken.

Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese representative, reiterated that China would never accept direct negotiation with Japan while Japanese troops remained on Chinese soil and reparations were unprovided. He said the Chinese attitude was prompted by knowledge that such negotiations could never succeed.

Japanese Presents Defense.

He said China placed the case in the hands of the league for a decision, adding that it would be useless to convoke the world disarmament conference if each nation must count on itself for national protection.

"If we fail now, when the United States is collaborating with us, what chances have we of establishing a permanent organization of peace on a basis of disarmament," Sze said. "China counts on a triumph of the forces of civilization."

Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese representative, said military operations were at a standstill in Manchuria, but that Japanese troops were still obliged to protect nationals there. Airplanes had been obliged to follow movements of Chinese troops, he said.

Yoshizawa said the important immediate task was to relieve tension between the two nations by mutual cooperation to attain an agreement on certain main principles which would lay the foundation for normal conditions. This would result in withdrawal of troops, he said.

"We are ready to negotiate with the Chinese immediately on these fundamental principles," he said. In Tokyo the government had made known that these principles involved cessation of all anti-Japanese agitation in China.

Briand, who was asked by Salvador de Madariaga, of Spain, to take over the chair at the meeting, said the council had hoped it would be unnecessary to hold the present session, but that the Manchurian situation had become worse rather than better. He said the United States was in full harmony with the league's actions. Efforts to arrange for the presence of Prentiss Gilbert as American observer were abandoned because it would have required a unanimous vote of the council. It was believed Japan would have opposed the action.

Four Hold Secret Session.

Lord Reading, of Britain; Dino Grandi, of Italy; Madriaga and Gehard von Mutius, of Germany, attended a secret session prior to the public meeting.

In summarizing the situation, Briand said Japan and China had reiterated their assurances of avoiding violences, and he admonished both nations to refrain from aggravating incidents.

U. S. SEES SOLUTION NEAR IN MANCHURIA

Failure of League to Act on Japanese-Chinese Issue Causes No Dismay.

(Associated Press.)

The hope of the American Government that a solution of the danger-laden Manchurian dispute may not be far off, yesterday continued undiminished.

The fact that the League of Nations council at Geneva adjourned without taking definite action toward peace between Japan and China caused no dismay in official Government circles.

Well acquainted with the slow processes of diplomacy, Secretary Stimson and his associates had not expected the difficult problem to be solved in a day. It was felt that time, if combined with an absence of hostilities in Manchuria, would find a way out.

The present apparent impasse was created by a Japanese demand that the problem be solved only by direct negotiation and the Chinese stand that no negotiations be undertaken until Japanese troops have been withdrawn.

The interplay of proposal and counterproposal, both at Geneva and at the seats of government in the Orient, was followed with the keenest interest here.

Optimistic reports were laid before President Hoover and discussed at his Cabinet meeting.

While it was not indicated how much time the President had devoted to the Manchurian situation, it was considered significant that the Cabinet meeting was somewhat attenuated.

It also was noted that President Hoover canceled his usual press conference and that Secretary Stimson refrained from making any announcement on the Manchurian matter. This was interpreted as indicating a desire on the part of the Government to give the league free play in its efforts toward peace.

Studying the unfolding developments on the situation on opposite sides of the globe, the Government had as its eyes at Geneva, the American Consul General, Prentiss Gilbert, who made a full report on the league session by cable, and the American observers in the Manchurian trouble zone, George Hanson and Laurence Salisbury.

A detailed account of conditions in Manchuria compiled by Mr. Salisbury and Mr. Hanson and not made public here, was among the documents which the League of Nations had for its guidance in its efforts toward pacification.

Hirota and Litvinoff Talk About Manchuria

Moscow, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Koki Hirota, Japanese Ambassador to Russia, had a long conversation today with Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet commissar for foreign affairs.

The Japanese ambassador earlier had handed the Soviet authorities a copy of the recent Japanese note to China on the Manchurian question.

H. BARRETT LEARNED DEAD IN CALIFORNIA

Former President of District Education Board Victim of Sudden Attack.

Dr. H. Barrett Learned, who became president of the District Board of Education last February after the sudden death of Dr. Charles F. Carusi, died unexpectedly yesterday at Leland Stanford University in California, where he had gone last month as professor of history.

Dr. Learned, according to reports from California, was found dead in his campus apartment. The exact nature of his death had not been learned early last night.

Less than a month ago, Dr. Learned quietly resigned as president of the Board of Education to accept the chair of history at the California University. He had confided his plans to Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, but the resignation was not learned by other board members and school officials until Harry O. Hine, secretary of the board, called at the Learned home to have correspondence signed and was informed by Mrs. Learned that he had resigned.

Returned to Stanford.

Shortly before leaving here Dr. Learned personally delivered his letter of resignation to Chief Justice Alfred Wheat, of the District Supreme Court, in which he said that financial and professional reasons made it necessary for him to return to Stanford University, where he had previously taught.

Dr. Learned, who was 68 years old, was appointed a member of the board on July 1, 1917. He resigned on December 21, 1921, and was reappointed July 1, 1925, to succeed Julius I. Peyser. He continued as a board member and was reappointed last July for four years. When Dr. Carusi died last February, Dr. Learned was elected to succeed him as president.

Since Dr. Learned's departure from Washington, the board has deferred election of another president until the vacancy was filled by appointment by justices of the District Supreme Court. Mrs. Philip Sydney Smith is acting as temporary chairman.

Native of New Hampshire.

Dr. Learned was born in Exeter, N. H., and educated at Harvard University, the University of Chicago and at Yale University. He also did graduate work at the University of Leipzig. He was headmaster of a private school at Plymouth, Mass.; a teacher of history at the University School in Chicago; director of the department of history, Armour Institute of Technology, Chicago, and had been an assistant professor at Harvard.

He served with the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice from 1917 until 1919. His other educational activities included lecturer of history at Sheffield Scientific School, at Yale, lecturer on history at Wesleyan University and lecturer and associate professor of European history at Stanford University. He was widely known as biographer and writer on historical subjects. He is survived by his widow, formerly Miss Emilie Cheney, of Manchester, Conn., and three children, John, Frank Cheyney and Horace Bushnell Learned.

WOOD URGES DELAY ON NAVY FUND VOTE

least two decades. He said no one wanted war at this time, and that it would be "foolish to build aircraft and naval warcraft that would be obsolete in the next war.

The House member also expressed the opinion that the United States will never again build a huge battleship, and that the next war will be fought in the air and with chemicals.

In this connection, he said a chemical process had been discovered with which the entire population of New York City could be killed in 48 hours, provided six enemy airplanes could pierce the city's defenses.

At the War Department, however, officials said, they knew of no such development. Progress in improving the gases used in France has been made, they said, but no lethal gas of a type that might wipe out whole populations has been discovered.

Representative Wood also advocated maintenance, but not expansion, of the Nation's air forces, and he added, the engineering department must keep up to the latest notch in the development of airplanes.

During the day Mr. Wood conferred with a group from the women's International League for Peace and Freedom, which called to thank him for his stand against big outlays for the Army and Navy.

The knife which is slashing the Navy's budget has spared the proposed sister ship to the Akron, queen of the world's dirigibles.

Provided the Akron's official tests, which neared completion yesterday with a ten-hour speed cruise over Ohio, meet the present expectations of the department, the Navy plans to ask funds for building another ship.

Secretary Adams said yesterday the proposed airship would not be among the items cut from the $401,000,000 budgetary estimates for 1933. President Hoover has set $340,000,000 as the amount he desires the Navy to have. The contract for the ship has already been let, conditional upon the Navy's accepting the Akron.

OLD NEW YORK BOND FIRM CLOSES DOORS

Kountze Brothers Suspended by Stock Exchange; Several Banks Fail to Open.

New York, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—The old investment banking house of Kountze Bros., formed in 1870, was suspended by the stock exchange for insolvency today.

The firm had at one time ocupied a prominent position in bond underwriting, but has been less active in recent years. Its difficulties were attributed to the severe decline in the bond market in the last two months. The firm was not active in stocks. It maintained no out-of-town offices. The Irving Trust Co. was appointed equity receiver. Liabilities total $6,934,000 and assets $7,884,000.

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 13 (A.P.). Five West Virginia banks closed today, and with the suspension of business by the Second National Bank of Morgantown, that city was left without a banking institution. The Grafton Bank & Trust Co. at Grafton and the Citizens Bank of Weston were closed to conserve assets, the directors announced. They were State institutions.

Had $1,900,000 Deposits.

The Morgantown bank had capital stock of $100,000, surplus of $250,000 and deposits totaling $1,900,000. The Grafton bank had capital of $100,000 and deposits of $784,294.

Two national banks in McDowell County were closed by their boards of directors. They were the Gary, at Gary, and the First National at Anawalt. Notices on the doors said they would remain closed until further notice.

Somerville, Mass., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—The Highland Trust Co., of Somerville, closed at noon today. It had commercial department deposits of approximately $1,300,000 and savings deposits of $4,100,000.

Monessen, Pa., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—The First National Bank & Trust Co. here closed its doors today. The bank had total resources of $3,935,882.28 and deposits totaling $3,176,622.14, according to its statement last June 30.

Massachusetts Bank Fails.

Revere, Mass., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—The Revere Trust Co. did not open today. As of July 30, 1931, the total deposits of the commercial department were approximately $600,000, and deposits of the savings department approximated $900,000.

Westmont, N. J., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—The Westmont National Bank closed its doors to business today. Its deposits, according to the last public statement, approximated $463,000.

Coatesville, Pa., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—The Coatesville Trust Co. failed to open for business today. The bank's official statement last week listed deposits of $1,011,000 and resources of $1,586,000.

Philadelphia, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—The Manayunk Trust Co. and the Roxborough Trust Co., comparatively small institutions in outlying sections of Philadelphia, closed their doors today.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 13 (A.P.). Fourteen banks, with resources of $63,000,000 have been merged into four under the terms of a merger announced today by Herman M. Sypherd, chairman of the Atlantic City Clearing House Association.

evening and reporters were barred from the building.

Cyr, meanwhile, had telegraphed the office of Gen. Fleming, commanding, that the troops be disbanded and that "the courts decide who is the governor of this State."

Cyr has been a bitter political and personal foe of Gov. Long for months. The breach between the two was opened during the famous impeachment case against Long in 1929, when Cyr took the floor of the State Senate and denounced Long as a "cruel political tyrant."

FINANCIAL EXPERTS OF FRANCE IN U. S.

Purpose of Visit, However, Is Kept Secret, Except for Conferences.

New York, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Two of the leading experts of the Bank of France arrived today to discuss world financial affairs with bankers here.

The men, Vice Governor Charles Farnier and Robert Lacour-Gayet, director of the bank's economic section, smiled but refused to talk.

"We come to return the visit which Governor George Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve Bank made to France last year," said Lacour-Gayet. "We plan to discuss problems of mutual interest."

The two bankers expect to be here Silent About Cause.

Asked if they would discuss problems arising from the fact that the United States and France are the two principal countries remaining on the gold standard, they responded:

"We can only repeat that we plan to confer on matters of mutual interest."

Before leaving Paris the two bankers conferred with the governor of the Bank of France on possible repercussions of the Hoover credit bank project upon world conditions.

Paris, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—J. P. Morgan saw Premier Pierre Laval today in what was described as a "courtesy call" prior to the premier's departure for Washington October 16 to visit President Hoover.

The conference between the American banker and the head of the French cabinet stirred curiosity here in view of numerous talks Mr. Morgan has had recently with leading French financiers. Since his arrival in Paris last week he has visited Gov. Moret of the Bank of France.

Merely Polite Call.

The premier's office declined, however, to comment on today's visit and a spokesman for Mr. Morgan said, "it was merely a polite call, that is all."

The French members of the joint Franco-German commission to consider ways of strengthening the financial standing of the two countries were expected to be named tomorrow and meet for the first time Thursday, before the premier leaves for the United States.

CATHOLIC RELIGION REJECTED BY SPAIN

Brazil as having abolished the church-state connection in 1899.

The Soviet government, by its decree of January 23, 1918, disestablished the Russian Orthodox Church, appropriated some of its properties and raised atheism to the status of a state dogma. In Italy the Catholic Church is still closely asociated with the state.

Oviedo, Spain, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Several thousand persons bearing red banners and crying "Down with the church and the clergy!" paraded the streets tonight to celebrate the Assembly's rejection of Catholicism as the state religion. Police were strengthened to suppress disorders.

Vatican City, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Vatican officials tonight expressed disappointment but no alarm at the action of the Spanish Assembly in rejecting Catholicism as the state religion.

None of the church leaders would be quoted, but the general trend of their comment was that the action could have been expected under present conditions in Spain.

They voiced confidence that when the situation in Spain has been clarified it will be found that the church's position has not been seriously damaged.

The Rev. S. J. Neville, president of Georgetown University at Washington, listed the following countries as definitely maintaining the Catholic Church as an established state church:

Belgium, Irish Free State, Italy, Poland, Bolivia, Colombia, Venezuela, Brazil, Argentina, Peru and Paraguay.

Tax Cancellation To Aid Workers

Unemployed Union Men to Benefit by Sum of Half Million.

Unemployed members of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International Union in the United States and Canada will be benefited to the extent of approximately half a million dollars through the cancellation of the monthly per capita tax on members of the organization for November, December and January.

Announcement of the aid for its unemployed members was made by the organization last night and the move was described as "the greatest single financial relief move ever made by an American union." All officers of the union, of which George T. Thornton is president, joined in sponsoring the statement.

"Our membership probably has been as hard hit by unemployment as any union membership," the statement said. "Relief is necessary for these men, many of whom have been loyal members for long periods. The remitting of the per capita tax for three months will, in many cases, mean the difference between maintenance of membership and cancellation."

JUDGE DESCRIBES CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Speaker Reviews Works of Mary Baker Eddy at Fourth Church.

A lecture on "Christian Science: A Study of the Law of Man's Being," was delivered last night in Fourth Church of Christ, Scientist, by Judge Frederick C. Hill, of Clinton, Ill. Judge Hill was introduced by Charles P. Rouse, first reader of Fourth Church. He said in part:

"That Mary Baker Eddy is the discoverer and founder of Christian Science is now generally accepted and conceded. From childhood she was deeply religious and was an efficient and progressive student of the Bible. Through an earnest study and research of the Scriptures she proved that perfect trust and confidence in God's laws are followed by fixed and absolute results.

"She furthermore proved that God governs His universe, including man, through infinite intelligence; and that infinite intelligence constitutes and embraces absolute law. She likewise proved that absolute law is immutable, unchangeable, and that it can be understood and intelligently applied; and when understood, and accordingly applied, absolute law sets aside and nullifies the false beliefs oft designated and termed natural or human law.

"During her investigation and research an injury, caused by an accident, led her to apply these absolute, immutable laws to her then apparently helpless condition; and through her understanding and the intelligent application of these laws she was healed. Through this experience she had proved for herself that God's laws are immutable, available, and operative. She discovered the divine laws of life, truth and love and she named that discovery Christian Science."

PLEASED AUDIENCE GREETS STOKOWSKI

Philadelphia Symphony Has Good Program at Start of Season Here.

The concert season in Washington opened auspiciously last night in a memorable program by the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra at Constitution Hall, with the incomparable Stokowski as leader.

The concert was under the local management of the T. Arthur Smith Concert Bureau. Regret was expressed over the sudden death during the summer of T. Arthur Smith, the impresario, who has been bringing the Philadelphia orchestra to Washington for many seasons.

The program was an orchestral bouquet of several schools, with Handel's exquisite "Water Music" and a Bach group the outstanding selections of the evening.

Leopold Stokowski proved anew in his conducting of the aggregation that the Philadelphia orchestra is a perfect union of orchestral production. The musicians responded to the slightest movement of their leader's hands, which need no baton to indicate his wishes to his men.

All the old-time fire, the vivid interpretation, the poetic emphasis which has become associated with the name of Stokowski was present. Washington, which had been deprived of hearing him very often through his illness for several seasons, greeted him with an ovation when he appeared on the conductor's stand.

The opening number was excerpts from Monteverdi's "Orfeo," classic in theme and enchanting in melody. A group from "Lulli," following, was well received, while a stirring "Trumpet March" by Purcell gave novelty to the program.

The audience also appreciated Vivaldi's Concerto Grosso in D Minor, with its three movements vying in beauty and musical excellence. Still another facet to the evening's musical gems was the overture to the tragedy, "Castor et Pollux," by Rameau. E. E. P.

GERMANY IN SUSPENSE.

Amid Communist shouts of "Dictator!" and "Inflation!" Chancellor Bruening yesterday outlined before the Reichstag his plans for the rehabilitation of Germany. It is a comprehensive program that proposes first of all to maintain law and order against all agitators. Opposing the antagonistic attitude toward the French evidenced at the Nationalist meetings at Harzburg on Sunday, the chancellor gave assurance that efforts to promote Franco-German accord would be continued.

No test of the legislative strength of the government was made and the motion for a vote of confidence will not be offered until Friday. The Hitlerites and Nationalist opposition members absented themselves from the opening session. They will not appear until the showdown on Friday, which will determine whether the government is to be supported or the Reichstag adjourned and general elections called.

The line-up of votes at that time is difficult to forecast. If no radical changes have taken place in the numerous minor party followings the government should count upon a majority of 20 to 30. This will come from the Middle Socialists, Centrists, People's Party, State Party, Christian Socialists and a few minor organizations, comprising in all about 300 members of the total 577.

The National Socialists and Nationalists number 148 and the opposing Communists count about 76, while to these opposition forces are to be added the scattered votes of the Economic Party and the Agrarian League and such help as they hope to win from other minor groups. The government probably will secure majority support on the confidence vote even if it can not count upon the same adherence to all of its measures later on.

There still remains a wide diversity of opinion upon the advisability of the proposed measures on economy, debt payments, and financial questions. It is considered a source of strength for the Bruening regime, however, that President Hindenburg announced his acceptance of the head of the new economic board. Speculation and political activity will continue unabated in Berlin until Friday when the actual voting will determine the strength of the government's position.

LEADERSHIP IN MEDICINE.

Medical men are thinking seriously of means to make their services more available to the public. Two addresses delivered at the annual clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons in New York give hope that the profession may take leadership in a movement to put the practice of medicine on a more businesslike basis.

Dr. C. Jeff Miller, retiring president of the College of Surgeons, pointed out the dangers of State control over medicine and the impracticability of health insurance. "Public and municipal hospitals are filled with medico-political appointees whose ability is frequently negligible and whose ethics are frequently doubtful," he said. "One has only to look at the corruption of State and municipal governments all over the country today to question very seriously the claims which are made for further State control over anything."

Dr. Miller's remarks leave no doubt that the profession is apprehensive lest a dissatisfied public demand State control over the practice of medicine. Under the present arrangement the wealthy obtain ample medical care and charity cases are not neglected, but vast numbers in moderate circumstances do not have the guidance and treatment of competent medical men. As a result quacks still flourish and millions of dollars are spent on worthless remedies. The need for better organization of the medical profession to serve the whole public at reasonable costs becomes more acute every year.

One means by which the profession may extend its services was suggested by Dr. Allen B. Kanavel, president-elect of the College of Surgeons. Medical ethics should be overhauled, he said, to meet the "startling changes" in the social structure. The public demands medical services at reasonable prices. The public does not want inadequate or unscientific service. But unless the medical profession takes leadership in the movements to make preventive and curative medicine more available those movements are liable to fall into the hands of inferior practitioners. Dr. Kanavel urged medical men "not to let the initiative slip from our hands" because of a "supposedly sacrosanct code of ethics."

If the profession takes upon itself the responsibility of organizing for better service, there is little danger that the States will extend their control over the practice of medicine.

THE RED PROPHET.

George Bernard Shaw, who paid a ten-day visit to Russia last summer, has set himself up as the exponent of communism to America. In his doddering years he finds comfort in the fact that poor, downtrodden Russia is trying out some of the theories that he copied from Karl Marx. It is well that the veteran Irish writer explained this personal interest in the Bolshevist experiment, as otherwise the halo he casts around Russian poverty, ignorance and failure would be quite incomprehensible.

It is interesting to find Shaw, who has spent his life trying to rid the world of certain illusions, steeping his own intellect in mere sentimental blubber about Russia. In a short visit to Moscow he found the Soviet to be a new Utopia, where every man and woman is employed, where scentific agriculture is multiplying harvests and American engineers are constructing gigantic new factories. Ten days convinced the bearded Irish philosopher that "the Russian ship is the only big one that is not rolling heavily and tapping out S O S on its wireless." All others are on the verge of going under. Mr. Shaw has always liked to be distinctive. Apparently he takes this means of setting himself apart from every observer who has made a study of Russia. Of course, Mr. Shaw would not hesitate to admit that he could learn more in ten days under the guidance of Soviet agents than any one else could learn in months of impartial investigation in all parts of Russia.

George Bernard's garrulity about the new Utopia is especially pathetic because it comes at a time when Russia has departed from the dream which the Irish wit copied from Marx. Communism in the Soviet has gone the way of the kulaks and the intelligentsia. It has been liquidated. Stalin and his followers found that the powerful industrial state of which they dreamed could not be built under communism, which required every one to work according to his capacity and rewarded him according to his needs. So communism was scrapped in favor of state capitalism, under which the people are slaves of the dictatorship. Even the Soviet authorities admit that they are evolving a sort of iron-fisted capitalism.

All during the time while Russia was floundering in the throes of communism George Bernard Shaw held aloof from the Soviet's rough game. He made no effort to join with his red brothers across the Baltic in the attempt to "remake man." Now that the rough boys have calmed down somewhat, and found that the pretty dreams of Marx and Lenine wouldn't work even after the intelligent class had been driven out or slaughtered, Mr. Shaw takes them into his bosom and proclaims the success of communism.

Mr. Shaw loves communism from a safe distance, like an artist admiring a battle through a powerful glass on a far-away mountain peak. But the world hears of no movement to divide the fortune he has accumulated through his wisecracks with the underfed Russian millions. Even his British brothers cry for food and demand higher doles from a depleted treasury, but the appeal of socialism does not open the Shavian coffers. If the radicals should gain control of Parliament and inflict socialism upon Great Britain, Mr. Shaw might have to come to this country and live among American boobs so that he could protect his fortune and acclaim the promulgation of "his theories" from a safe range.

CURBING SHORT SALES.

The new rule, issued at the beginning of last week by the New York Stock Exchange, for the purpose of restricting short sales, has effectively impeded bear operations. The regulation forbids the execution of short-selling orders at quotations lower than the price at which a stock was last sold.

No intimation has been given by the exchange as to whether this rule will be merely temporary. The measure resulted from widespread criticism of the recent bear drive. Several members of Congress had stated their belief in the advisability of making such sales unlawful and were preparing to introduce antishort-selling bills at the next session. Under its own constitution the Stock Exchange has been able to handle the situation, and legislative action probably will not be necessary.

The new restrictions have accomplished their aim by giving preference to orders for liquidation of long stock, which may be executed without limitations as to price. The resulting delays and difficulties on short sales have not only curtailed such transactions, but they have virtually killed the practice of raiding.

The custom of raiding consists in holders of stock offering it for sale at steadily declining prices. This decline, recorded by the ticker, frequently induces frightened liquidations which permits raiders to cover their short lines. This practice can frequently demoralize a market when it is low, yet it can conceivably serve a purpose in finding a firmer foundation for prices when there is a boom. It is unjust to consider the whole problem of short selling only in the light of a period of depression.

The classic document regarding short sales is the report of the committee appointed by Charles E. Hughes when he was Governor of New York to consider the laws of speculation. The committee reported that it considered short sales in no way wrong and that free speculation tended to overcome the "fluctuations in prices, otherwise violent and disastrous." The action of short sellers in trying to sell when prices are high and to buy when they are low tends to lessen advances and diminish decline, according to the report.

Napoleon regarded short sellers as traitors, but the efforts of his able minister of finance finally changed his mind. In the middle of the eighteenth century the British Parliament enacted a law imposing a fine of 100 pounds for selling securities short. The law was not long enforced, and soon fell into disuse, but it was not repealed until 1860. A later statute attempting to curb short sales of bank stocks, on the ground that such transaction might cause embarrassment to the institutions, was not found satisfactory and was also repealed.

The drawbacks of the bear methods of trading, at times appear to outweigh all benefits, yet short selling makes possible many favorable transactions. The distribution of new security issues as now carried on is dependent upon short sale machinery, as is the odd-lot business which allows a small investor to buy a few shares only. It also permits persons outside of New York to sell securities on deposit in that city. Owners of stocks, locked in deposit boxes, would be unable to sell them while traveling abroad except for the short sale system. Furthermore, it permits manufacturers to protect themselves against fluctuations in the prices of raw materials which they have contracted to deliver in the form of finished goods.

MacDONALD IN JEOPARDY.

One of the most interesting political dramas in recent history is being enacted in the constituency of Seaham, England, where Premier Ramsay MacDonald has begun his campaign for reelection. Mr. MacDonald might have stood for election in a number of districts that would have given him overwhelming support. But he chose to fight it out with the Labor organizations of Seaham that have repudiated his leadership and are supporting his former campaign manager for Parliament.

William Croxton, the regular Labor candidate, is appealing to the voters on the ground that he stands for the policy that Mr. MacDonald has betrayed. But the premier defiantly answers that he is a Labor candidate, that Labor is in his blood and will remain there until the end.

Mr. MacDonald confronted a large and angry audience of miners who consider him a traitor to his party. With characteristic political astuteness he spoke to them of "the old days" when he paid for the party's postage stamps and lent his coal scuttle as a chair. He made a vigorous defense of his action in leading a coalition of Censervatives and Liberals in a fight for stabilization of the nation's finance. But the problems of state will probably mean little to the miners who work long hours for a meager living. The outcome of the election will probably depend upon Premier MacDonald's personal appeal to his former supporters.

This contest attracts particular interest because it involves the possibility that Mr. MacDonald will be defeated. In that event what would happen to the coalition which he has held together to meet the national emergency? A considerable number of Liberals yield to the leadership of Mr. MacDonald, but they probably would balk if a Conservative took the helm. Defeat of the premier would rob the coalition of its effectiveness as a national government and leave the Conservatives with doubtful control. British history will unquestionably be influenced by the result of the fight between Premier MacDonald and his former campaign manager.

A STEP BACKWARD

From the Christian Science Monitor.

One of the by-products of the British suspension of the gold standard has been an impetus to the advancement of all manner of economic panaceas. One which may be expected to gather volume is that silver should be added to gold as the world standard of value.

In Great Britain a silver association, the membership of which includes many distinguished leaders of opinion who are entitled to a hearing, has been formed. In Paris the meeting of a silver subcommittee of the International Chamber of Commerce attracted a degree of attention in Europe which astonished the participants. Even in the United States, where a surfeit of gold is in evidence, an active movement is in progress which seems destined to keep the subject to the forefront of discussion.

It is unfortunate that attention should be focused on panaceas which are outmoded. When the Western world decided to abandon a bimetallic standard, it knew what it was doing, having already accumulated enough experience to prove that a single standard was preferable. The arguments of 40 years ago are even more appropriate today. Our chief economic problem is to iron out the fluctuations in commodity prices as expressed in gold. Think of the added complications of having first to correlate gold with silver before the nations could concentrate on the correlation of both with business activity.

A constantly changing rate of output of the two metals is more or less inevitable. This would drive the dearer metal into hoards, a result which would keep monetary authorities as busy as they were in the nineteenth century in changing the ratios so as to keep both metals in circulation. The task would leave them no time to attend to the twentieth century duty of promoting a relative stability in the commodity price level.

Of gold, notwithstanding figures of mine output, there is no actual present shortage. Gold has been economized to such an extent that a new generation is growing up which has never seen it in coinage. The metal that used to circulate from hand to hand as currency has been mobilized in the vaults of the world's central banks and on its base there has been erected a vast superstructure of credit, as expressed in checks and currency. The United States, for example, owns about $5,000,000,000 in gold, but the total sum of all the bank deposits outstanding aggregates $55,000,000,000, or eleven times that amount. Yet these deposits are promises to pay—gold!

If 11 volumes of bank deposits can be reared on a given gold base, why not 15, 20, or even 100? Because the faith in circulation has not yet grown fast enough to permit of its use as a money base at that rate. But it has grown so enormously that in civilized countries a person who insisted on being paid a debt in hard cash would be rated queer. A century ago he would have been called very sensible. It should be the duty of governments to improve the conditions whereby the valuable asset of confidence may continue to grow.

To add silver to gold as a world standard would be as socially retrograde as it would be economically unsound. As for gold, the shortage is a shortage of forward-looking gold policy in distribution of the metal among the nations. Silver is, indeed, depressed, but the way to help the metal is surely not to throw a new monkey wrench into our money machinery. Its price will be improved along with that of other commodities when business turns upward. And the competition between mine silver and surplus treasury silver, which has been a special cause of the metal's low price, should be susceptible to correction at the monetary conference which has been proposed.

How That Boy Has Grown!

POST HASTE.

The shade of Cristobal Colombo, looking down, must have been disappointed that his big anniversary, celebrated in New York, did not rate a holiday in the American Capital.

The "final act" adopted by the Pan-American Commercial Congress contains so many helpful suggestions as to how North Americans can help South Americans, we fear the United States delegates were too modest in reciprocating the favor.

For instance, Peru made it quite plain that lower tariffs on her cotton and sugar would be useful to Peru and hardly noticed by the U. S. But no one seems to have suggested to Peru that if she would forego the luxury of six revolutionary overturns of government next year she could probably buy more American goods, not to mention meeting public debt charges.

The belligerent anti-American sentiment in the conference, led by Mexico, feeling her oats somewhat as the new member of the League of Nations, was squelched by her Latin neighbors, who tendered unusual evidences of appreciation to their banker and best customer.

There is one thing that would make us forget about threatened troubles in the Far East—that is the scrambled European situation that would result from a Hitler triumph in Germany this week.

Welcome and well named the clipper ships of the air, that clip off more miles an hour than their old namesake did in a day!

We trust Senator Brookhart is enjoying his usual health, but it looks suspicious that yesterday missed announcement from him of either a program of broad national reform or a new scheme of international finance.

Yes, you are right, it is Representative Patman, of Texas, who has decided the Legion boys do not know their own minds on the bonus question and is preparing to lead the fight in Congress for immediate payment.

Cables from Ireland report "preparations for an uprising more serious than the civil war of 1912" against the Free State government, but no one, apparently, has as yet attempted to explain why.

President Machado asks the Cuban Congress for "open" dictatorial powers. Does he think he has been working under cover heretofore?

Peru suggests lowering of duties for her cotton, as it "would not mean much to the United States, but would be of great benefit to Peru." On the same principle Uncle Sam could take over the entire budgets of a number of small countries.

Russians are being told by the Soviets that 90 per cent of Americans are starving. We can stand it if that makes black bread and cabbage soup any more palatable.

NEW WAR CASUALTIES.

World War casualties are still mounting despite the fact that the armistice brought hostilities to a halt more than a dozen years ago, according to the Springfield Union. The other day an Italian soldier was killed and three others were wounded when a shed containing shells excavated from the old Italo-Austrian battle fields blew up. From time to time reports come from France of accidents occurring on the battle fields there when some one picks up a shell or a grenade which has not been exploded. There is also the menace at sea of mines which were placed in the water during the war and which even yet are not all discovered.

Machine Made to Grind Sausage Isn't to Blame if It Grinds Fingers

By ROBERT QUILLEN

Do you remember the story of the man who created a monster to serve him and then was unable to control it, so that in the end it destroyed him?

Such a monster is the modern phenomenon called publicity.

Developed as a servant of commerce and industry; harnessed to serve personal vanity, private ambition, charity, corruption, war, peace, and every other cause sponsored by good and evil men, it became at last the arbiter of destiny and determined the policies of nations as it controlled the thoughts of the people.

Publicity selects our foods, our garments, our remedies and our imaginary disorders. It chooses our heroes and our villains. It provides our hates and prejudices. It fixes the degree of our envy or gratitude. It develops and perfects our moral standards and awakes or silences the voice of conscience.

Publicity calls us away from our peaceful pursuits, prompts us to meddle in the affairs of our neighbors, and fills us with a great zeal to kill our fellow men in the name of righteousness. It manufactures our enthusiasms—our patriotism, our pity, and our passion for service. It fills us with a craving for easy money and so benumbs our wits that we mortgage our homes and our future to buy worthless stocks.

It is a dreadful thing, this publicity, and only those who realize its power can understand the long continuation of so-called depression in a land of plenty.

One industrial giant pays its usual dividend and the fact is chronicled in ten lines. Another fails to pay and headlines shout the dismal tidings from coast to coast. A small bank fails and distant millions who were unaware of its existence read the story and lose their appetite for breakfast. Story after story of woe and disaster.

Day after day and month after month this greatest of monsters made by man labors on in his service; but all the while it works slyly and adroitly to break his spirit, benumb his reason and fill him with imaginary terrors.

The servant has become a hard master.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

The Hoover Tonic.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

The principal virtue of Mr. Hoover's credit plan, which he announced after consultation with prominent business men and with leaders of both political parties in Congress, is its purpose—to dissipate the "foolish alarm," which, as the President aptly says, is "wholly unjustified in view of the thousand-fold resources we have."

Depression has continued because the country has been in a funk. Mr. Hoover is wrong when he asserts our difficulties are "not of our own making." They are of our own making and Mr. Hoover himself must share, in some degree, responsibility for the hysteria which has caused the conditions his credit plan is designed to cure.

Particularly promising is the plan's first provision, for mobilization of the banking resources of the country, with a contributed fund of at least $500,000,000. For if this organization can be made, it can be made at once without waiting for any action by Congress.

Foreign Loan Control.

Baltimore Sun.

President Hoover, in reiterating before the Pan-American Commercial Conference his advocacy of restriction of foreign loans to "productive purposes" as opposed to purposes of budget balancing and armaments, expressed an ideal with which few sensible people would quarrel. The attainment of this ideal, however, is far more difficult of accomplishment than its statement.

At present the issue is, unhappily, more or less academic because of the "drying up" of the foreign loan market in this country. With the revival of that market the issue of loan supervision promises to precipitate a major struggle. In that struggle all parties will be agreed with Mr. Hoover's statement of the ideal. There will not be agreement that he, as a validator of the State Department's procedure, has shown how it can be realized.

No Beer for Farmers.

Christian Science Monitor.

The farmer is a better business man than many suppose. For some time antiprohibitionists in the United States have been trying to sell him a "gold brick" in the form of the theory that a resumption of brewing would provide a market for his surplus grain. Thus far, apparently, the only ones deluded by the argument are a few brokers in New York. The farmer knows where his grain goes and his money comes from.

The National Grange, an organization of 800,000 farmers representing every State in the Union, has answered the beer proposal with flat rejection. Louis J. Taber, national master of the Grange, calls it "tragic to find so-called national leaders" urging modification as a prosperity measure and says studies made by his organization "show conclusively that the resumption of the brewing industry in the United States would be detrimental to the interests of agriculture."

Grange members are sensible enough to see that what men spend for beer will not add to what they spend for other things. Instead, almost certainly that amount and probably more will be subtracted from what they spend now for milk, butter, cheese, ice cream, soft drinks, bread, pastry and candy. Some manufacturers of automobiles, radios and other products would do well to investigate what effects liquor would have on their sales.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Explaining How Stocks Are "Sold Short," Subscriber Urges More Rigorous Regulations for Stock Exchange.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: About this short-selling business now so much talked of in financial and business circles, we should first ascertain the modus operandum of a short sale. It takes nerve to sell something you do not have. Unfortunately, under the rules of the exchange you can eat your cake and have it, too; that is to say, you can go short of a stock and keep it locked up in your strong box.

Suppose I own 1,000 shares of Steel. I believe a bear raid is under way and that the market will go down. With my certificate for the 1,000 shares of Steel locked up I go to a broker and order the sale of 1,000 shares. The raid succeeds and Steel drops $50 a share. To make this sale the broker borrows the 1,000 shares, putting down the market price therefore and paying the premium if the stock is not loaning flat, also any dividends that may accrue, receiving interest on the money so placed. Having a substantial profit, I cover by ordering the broker to buy 1,000 shares of Steel.

In this transaction I have never gone near the strong box, but have kept my Steel carefully locked up, believing that with the return of prosperity it will resume its former market price.

Herein, it seems to me, is the milk in the coconut. The Stock Exchange must make stiffer regulations in regard to these bear raids. If they do not, Congress will. It is, however, unthinkable that short selling will be done away with. Had there been this cushion in the market when the big drop took place October 23, 1929, the market would not have gone down so precipitately. Just as gold must continue to be our single standard of money, so short selling under better regulations must be permitted.

JEREMIAH JOHNSON.

Housewife Is in Quandary as to What Is Right Course to Aid Those in Need.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In a recent letter to The Post, "Disgusted Housekeeper" tells how an unemployed girl refused an offer of part-time work, and how a needy man, to whom she offered food, would not come and get it. Now, Mrs. Housekeeper's motives were entirely commendable, but isn't she wrong in becoming disgusted? Or isn't she disgusted with the wrong set of people? Don't blame the man who shrinks from marching up to Mrs. Housekeeper's back door, in full view of the neighbors, to receive a plate of left-overs. And don't blame a girl who is trying to find full-time work at the regular rates.

We housekeepers are eager to do our part in the present emergency, but puzzled as to how to go about it. Are we not, in fact, absolutely helpless? All we have is our ability to work, and a few nickels and dimes, and the left-overs from our tables. Our family budgets can't include wages for even one full-time worker, and in our rented houses, repair jobs are the landlord's affair.

Personally, I want to do what I can to relieve distress, even though it is only the temporary palliative offered by the approaching Community Chest drive. I can save $2.20 a week by doing my weekly cleaning. I hate scrubbing floors, but if it means saving people from starving, I'll do it. And I can postpone some dental work, go less often to the movies, wear my hair uncurled, &c. But there will be those who will tell me I am doing the wrong thing; that these very expedients, if carried out by very many of us, will increase unemployment, and make more charity necessary. I give it up.

HOUSEWIFE.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

ACHIEVEMENT.

Let him who will go running for the lights that gleam afar,
Where the music's tuned to dancing and the crowds of people are,
Give me the restful evenings with the family gathered round
And the few friends, tried and faithful, and that little patch of ground,
With its lawn and beds of posies, which reflect the care I give,
And I'll build a thousand memories to cherish while I live.

When I long for entertainment just to pass the time away,
I've no lack of mirth and frolic—with the children I can play.
Or in need of some diversion, as a happy group we'll go
Hand in hand to sit together at a neighboring picture show.
But we'll keep our wants in reason and we'll keep our pleasures sweet
And try to find the gladness that adorns our little street.

Oh, the book of life is written not in scarlet inks or gold
Or in deeds of dash and color. As a simple tale it's told.
When you reach the final chapter and you glimpse the pages through
All that memory has recorded as the worth-while side of you
Are the joys and passing sorrows which the family has shared,
With the failures and achievements and the few good friends who cared.

'Tis the little house and garden where the lifetime labors count,
Not in dollars but in friendships with our satisfactions mount.
Has the home place been a haven where the children joyed to be?
Do they turn and look upon it with a happy memory?
If, in spite of hurt and sorrow, the old walls have known content,
You have filled your life with glory and your days have been well spent.

REDS ISSUE DEMAND FOR RAISE OF DOLES

MacDonald Carries Battle to Communist Center; Silences Heckling.

London, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—The Communist party today issued a campaign manifesto calling for higher unemployment benefits "to meet higher prices," free street car and bus fares, free distribution of food and clothing from the warehouses of profiteers to needy workmen, no tariffs and no tax on the incomes of workers and poorly paid employes.

Lord Beaverbrook, noted newspaper publisher, was cheered and booed when he took the stump in the East End of London tonight in behalf of a Conservative candidate.

A reference to Prime Minister MacDonald was received with cries of "traitor!" Communist members of the audience sang "The Red Flag."

MacDonald Beards Reds.

Seaham Harbor, Durham, England, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Ramsay MacDonald carried his campaign for reelection to the House of Commons into the stronghold of his opposition among the radical miners tday.

This evening he spoke in halls packed with miners at Seaham Harbor and Murton. In the afternoon he addressed an audience at Dawdon, known locally as a communistic center, and, with one retort to a young Communist, he silenced heckling that made the start of the meeting uncertain.

"I'm a Communist, and I'm against you!" the heckler shouted.

"Of course, you're against me," the prime minister retorted. "A Communist is always against the interests of the working classes."

As on the occasion of his opening campaign speech in his constituency last night, he put much effort into his explanation of the world situation and Britain's national emergencies, so that men who toil underground and whose horizon is limited by local affairs and the size of their pay slips, might understand.

Pasty-faced miners, in slouch caps and with mufflers twisted around their necks as collars, heard him.

They never took their caps off except when rising to ask questions. One old fellow with bowed back, gnarled hands and the coalpit fear on his face, asked, "Will Mr. MacDonald nationalize the Bank of England?"

Upholds War Debts.

"If we started on that now people would get so frightened there would be no Bank of England to nationalize," the prime minister replied. "Solve our present difficulties first, and then we must consider the reconstruction of our financial institutions. That is all I shall say now."

To another questioner, who insisted that the war debts be repudiated, he replied, "Rubbish. Dishonesty in national affairs will not profit you any more than dishonesty in your homes."

DEMOCRATS START $1,500,000 DRIVE TO PAY FOR 1932 FIGHT the man to whom a large part of the deficit is owed, said that the willingness of such a notable committee to raise money at this time indicates the "widespread interest in the party's success in 1932."

Mr. Raskob was scheduled to meet in New York last night with a group of prominent Democrats for the purpose of discussing ways and means of raising the victory fund.

At the conclusion of the exciting meeting which the Democratic national committee held in the Mayflower Hotel here last March, Chairman Raskob made public a plan for raising $6,000,000, part of which was to wipe out the pending deficit, and the remainder of which was to finance campaigns of the future.

The announcement came as a sort of anticlimax after the wild battle over Raskob's "home rule" liquor plan, and consequently little attention was paid to it.

Since then, professional fund raisers have been hired to round up contributions. Evidently their efforts have not met with much success.

In the statement which was made public for Mr. Davis by Mr. Shouse last night, the 1924 nominee said that the victory fund is about to be gathered at a time when the political position of the party is "almost impregnable."

Victory Prospects Bright.

"Its prospects of victory," he added, "were never brighter. Justifying the party's optimism are the elections in and since 1930, decisive proof of the growing sentiment for administrative change and at once an indorsement and an indication of the success of our efforts for victory next year.

"Not in generations has there been greater need or greater likelihood of Democratic victory, but as great as is the need and the opportunity we can not expect a mere victory by default. The party must present more than an outstanding candidate and a sound platform in 1932. It must present a strong national organization ready to mobilize the country behind both, and for this adequate funds must be available."

Washington residents on the victory fund committee are T. T. Ansberry, John F. Costello, Charles W. Darr, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Breckinridge Long, Dr. Sterling Ruffin, Daniel J. Callahan, J. Harry Covington, Joseph E. Davies, Wilton J. Lambert, Arthur O'Brien and Joseph P. Tumulty.

Commercial Travelers Drop Pullman Tax Fight

(Associated Press.)

The United Commercial Travelers have given up their fight on Pullman surcharges.

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday dismissed the complaint of the organization against surcharges on Pullman sleeping car tickets and discontinued its investigation. The order said the organization had notified the commission on August 5 that it was no longer interested in the proceeding and was willing to have the complaint dismissed.

Political Battle Looming in Dail

Cosgrave Government May Find Its Position Untenable Soon.

Dublin, Irish Free State, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—One of the most bitter parliamentary battles in Free State history will be fought out in the Dail Eireann in the next few days. Political observers declare it is not at all improbable that by the end of the week the government of President William T. Cosgrave will find its position untenable and will carry the battle to the country in a general election.

The conflict will devolve upon the public safeties bill which the government is introducing, when the Dail convenes tomorrow, as a result of disturbances and terrorism during the last few months. It is understood it would confer extraordinary powers on the police to deal with emergencies.

St. Aloysius Church Services Begin Today

Services in veneration of St. Margaret Mary will begin today at St. Aloysius Church, North Capitol and I streets northwest, and will continue through Friday. A series of talks, one on each of the days, will feature the services.

Subjects of the talks, to be given by the Rev. James M. Cotter, S. J., will be, for today, "The Modern World and the Sacred Heart;" Thursday, "The Claims of the Sacred Heart on Us," and on Friday, "Surrender to the Sacred Heart Builds His Kingdom on Earth." Blessing will also be pronounced at each service with St. Margaret Mary's relic.

MRS. HOOVER VIEWS GIRL SCOUT PARADE

First Lady's Speech at Convention Is to Be Broadcast.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the President, visited Buffalo today and was swept immediately into a round of activities which ended with a reception at the Twentieth Century Club tonight.

Buffalo and Niagara Falls vied with each other in doing honor to the First Lady of the Land. Mrs. Hoover made a hurried visit to the Cataract City this afternoon and was entertained at a tea by the Niagara County Girl Scouts Council. She found time for a glimpse of the falls. Before leaving the city Mrs. Hoover reviewed the Girl Scouts.

Arriving in Buffalo this morning, Mrs. Hoover was met at the station by Mayor Roesch and members of the national executive board of the Girl Scouts.

With only a brief pause for breakfast, Mrs. Hoover spent the entire morning at a meeting of the national board of directors of Girl Scouts.

The board meeting lasted until well after noon. Mrs. Hoover was then the guest of honor at a closed luncheon given by Mrs. Nicholas Brady, of New York.

Tomorrow morning Mrs. Hoover will speak at the opening session of the convention. Her address will be broadcast from Station WBEN. In the afternoon she will christen the Girl Scouts Peace House, situated near the peace bridge and facing the Niagara River.

American Fliers Crack Up in China.

Shanghai, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—A message received here today from the Standard Oil Co.'s Foochow office said the airplane of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Day, of Ridgewood, Hawaaian Territory, was damaged slightly in an attempted take-off there, but neither was injured.

Missouri Group Calls on Hoover

Kansas City Delegation of Good Will Lauds Jobless Program.

(Associated Press.)

Recollections of the Republican national convention that nominated President Hoover were brought to him yesterday at the White House by a good-will delegation from the Chamber of Commerce of Kansas City, where the convention was held. The President also was given some insight into the political situation in Missouri by Dr. E. P. Clementa, Republican national committeeman from that State, who dined with him at the White House.

The Kansas City delegation complimented Mr. Hoover particularly on his efforts to institute unemployment relief. It was headed by Conrad H. Mann, president of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, and also a member of the President's emergency relief organization.

Others were Dr. I. D. Brock, who ended yesterday his 696th consecutive daily flight, which has carried him into every State of the Union and part of Canada. He was accompanied on part of this trip by Col. Ruby D. Garrett, who likewise was presented to the President. The party left by plane.

Southern Asks to Cut Rates on Denim Cloth

(Associated Press.)

The Southern Railway applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday for authority to reduce rates on denim cloths from Rock Hill, S. C., and Greensboro, N. C., to Lynchburg, Danville and Alta Vista, Va., in order to meet motor truck competition.

The request made was that permission be given to publish on short notice emergency rates ranging from 20 to 40 cents per 100 pounds, replacing present rates of 24 to 61 cents per 100 pounds.

ALEXANDRIA WOMEN HEAR MISS LAMBIE

Business and Professional Group Told of Benefits by Washingtonian.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Miss Margaret Lambie, of Washington, spoke before the meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club last night, in the George Mason Hotel, being presented by Miss Eleanor H. Watkins, the membership chairman.

Miss Lambie, who specializes in international law, is a member of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. She stated that as October has been designated as membership month, she felt constrained to tell of her affiliation with the organization, and that her joining was first from personal friendship with Miss Marian H. McClench, the immediate past national president, but since becoming an active member the work of the organization had held her interest to such an extent that she continued her membership.

Mrs. Albert M. Briggs, the program chairman, and Mrs. Joseph Hoeft, sang several duets, with Mrs. D. C. Book at the piano. Two former members applied for reinstatement, Miss Kroes Ficklin and Mrs. Helen Springman, teachers, who had resigned owing to special study for the past year. Miss Pitts, supervisor of the elementary grades in the public schools, was received as a new member.

A petition received from the national federation, for signatures to be presented at the Geneva conference in February, 1932, asking for disarmament, caused lengthy discussion, and was not accepted by the club as a body, only one member of the club stating any intention of agreeing with such a movement.

The school board of Alexandria, at an informal meeting Monday night, spent several hours studying the school survey recently made by three Virginia educators appointed for the purpose by the State superintendent of education, and will hold another meeting tomorrow night to complete their study. The recommendations of the board will then be submitted to the city council at a joint conference to be arranged later.

It is understood the board will first recommend the construction of a new high school building, and probably the acquisition of a lot in the newly-annexed territory. The city now owns approximately 17 acres of ground on which the present high school and Jefferson School buildings are situated, but the recommendation of the board of educators was that the new high school be located midway between the present Alexandria High School and George Mason High School buildings. The city formerly owned approximately 14 acres of ground on which the old almshouse was located and which would closely correspond to the location recommended for the new building, but this land and building were disposed of about two years ago.

A number of questions relative to the bicentennial year in Alexandria were discussed Monday night at a meeting of the chamber of commerce, among them being the housing problem and a place for the conventions which will be held there during the year.

Business Manager Dan S. Hollenga, in reply to queries by Representative Howard W. Smith, stated that the majority of the larger conventions would be held in the auditorium of the George Washington Masonic Memorial Temple, or in the Armory. The latter building, it was stated, is in bad condition, and if it is to be used immediate steps should be taken to place it in proper repair. The building is the property of the city.

In regard to housing the convention visitors, Mr. Hollenga stated it is his intention to place in the hands of each school child a questionnaire for the parents to answer, stating what facilities they have for renting rooms, and he also hopes to enlist the Boy Scouts in the cause.

Mr. Hollenga referred to the meeting held in Quantico last week with a view to having the section of the Washington-Richmond highway between Alexandria and Fredericksburg widened and the curves straightened. Another meeting is to be held at Triangle tomorrow afternoon, he said, and the matter is to be presented to the State Highway Commission on Octboer 27.

Suit Seeks to Open Doors Of Double-Locked Church

Injunction suit against a minister who fought fire with fire, locking his congregation out of the church after it had locked him out, was filed in Prince Georges County Circuit Court yesterday by trustees of the Highland Park, Md., Baptist Church.

The minister is Hezekiah H. Thompson, of Washington, who serves without pay. A series of difficulties with his congregation, which is colored, was climaxed last month when it asked his resignation. He declined and tried on two successive Sundays to conduct services. Each time, however, all the congregation save one or two walked out, the bill states.

After this, the trustees placed a lock on the building. The minister took off the trustees' lock and put his own on. The trustees took off the minister's lock and put on another of their own. The minister then put on a second lock, so that there are now two on the structure.

The suit, filed through Attorneys Lansdale G. Sasscer and Waldo Burnside, asks that the minister be restrained from interfering with use of the building by the congregation.

They are Miss Mary Hickey, teacher of English in the Hyattsville High School; Miss Mary Lee Clendennin, first grade teacher at the Beltsville School, and Miss Caroline Collins, elementary teacher at the District Line School. Appointment of a fourth teacher, Miss Bernice C. Farmer, has been made necessary by the resignation of Miss Evelyn O. Burrows at the Bradbury Heights School. Miss Burrows, who taught the primary grades, resigned because of ill health.

Mrs. Esther S. Cramer, sixth grade teacher at the Capitol Heights School, has resigned, effective November 1, as her husband is moving to Richmond, Va., Mr. Orem said.

LETTERS BARE BASIS FOR U. S. DENIAL OF SOVIET RECOGNITION

ernment was displayed in a telegram from Secretary of State Lansing to American Ambassador Francis, in Petrograd, on February 14:

"Department desires you gradually keep in somewhat closer and informal touch with Bolshevik authorities, using such channels as will avoid any official recognition."

President Woodrow Wilson dispatched a message to the people of Russia by the intermediary of the Soviet Congress in which he promised the Russian people "to secure for Russia once more complete sovereignty and independence in her own affairs. The whole heart of the people of the United States is with the people of Russia in the attempt to free themselves forever from autocratic government."

The volume also contained a statement of Trotzky in which he rather superfluously announced that Soviet Russia could never consider an alliance with the United States.

Tenor of Exchanges Changed.

As soon as it became apparent that the clever Bolshevist diplomats had been merely playing the allies against each other, with the purpose of gaining time, the tenor of the diplomatic exchanges was entirely changed.

On July 16, 1918, the then Assistant Secretary of State, Wilbur J. Carr, dispatched a message to American Consul General Skinner at London, in which he stated:

"In view of the attitude assumed by this Government, the Department (of State) believes it is advisable that you should have no dealings whatever with Bolshevik representatives in Great Britain."

The British government had preceded this statement with an informal talk between American Ambassador Page in London with Lord Balfour. This message stated

"Mr. Balfour now informs me that should you see fit to take any steps to prevent the recognition of the Bolshevik government by neutral powers, the British government is ready to lend its support."

An ardent dissenter from this official view against recognition was Lieut. Col. Raymond E. Robins, in charge of the Red Cross relief. Col. Robins was one of the first supporters of Bolshevism and tried to convert the American Ambassador and the State Department to his attitude.

Plaintively Ambassador Francis besought the cooperation of the State Department when he said:

"May I suggest advising the Red Cross and Christian Association to instruct their representatives to confine their activities strictly to the line of their work. Striking examples of unsatisfactory class of socialistic fanatics and sensational newsmongers are . . ."

No explanation of the identity of the dots was forthcoming yesterday.

On June 1 Secretary of State Lansing was able to cable the news to Ambassador Francis that "the Red Cross has ordered Robins today to continue journey home."

The volume terminates with a compendium of telegrams and documents dealing with Bolshevist propaganda in the world. American Minister Schmedeman, in Norway, cabled the State Department on January 10 with regard to red propaganda:

"A representative of the Bolsheviks now in Christiana recently stated it was the intention of his party to spread their doctrines in Scandinavia and that similar efforts would be made in England and in the United States as soon as agents could set to work."

Your gas water heater is on, let us say, operating steadily, and you light your gas range to prepare dinner. That demands more gas from the pipe which a moment ago was carrying just enough for the water heater alone.

Never fear, it will be there—plenty of it, at ample pressure to give you the heat you want. A little device you may never see—a governor control—takes care of that for you.

Somewhere near your home is a big gas transmission line which feeds the gas main leading to your house. At the junction is a governor valve, allowing just enough gas to pass through it to meet the demands you put on your main.

But you need that gas at ample pressure to give you a big enough flame so that it won't take all evening to cook dinner. The moment you light your gas range the control knows it, and in mechanical language orders the governor to open a little wider and give you the gas for your range at the pressure you need.

These governors and controls are a new addition to your gas system. They are one of the many ways we have modernized that system to assure you all the gas you want, whenever you want it, at a pressure sufficient to do the job you have in hand.

MARLBORO HIGHWAY MONEYS ARE SOUGHT

Prince Georges Commissioners Will Ask State for Road Funds.

The Prince Georges County commissioners yesterday decided to ask the State Roads Commission to finish entirely the Ritchie-Marlboro road, on funds to be loaned to the county by the commission. Construction of 2½ miles of this road was recommended in the report sent by the county to the commission last spring. Money available for road work was expended before the work began.

J. Y. Christmas appeared before the board yesterday to complain about the condition of the Woodyard-Mellwood road, saying that the route was almost impassable. The board of commissioners will write the committee, asking that the road be repaired. It was also decided to get an estimate of the cost of a concrete bridge on Dyer's road over Butler's branch in Piscataway district.

William A. Duvall, John Fink and L. C. Donaldson were appointed a board of examiners to report on the Fletchertown road in Bowie district. A delegation from the Lanham-Severn Road Association appeared to ask that the county recommend to the State Roads Commission construction of 2 miles of the highway next year. No action was taken.

Henry M. Brunk, of Brentwood, appeared before the board to resubmit an application for a change in zoning on lots 21 and 22 in block A. Zoning of a number of nearby lots was changed from residential to commercial, and he stated that he needed the change of two more to make the establishment of a gas station possible. The bond of Herbert Hodges, new constable at Laurel, was approved by the board.

The report of the police court for last month showed total county fines and costs of $3,368.70, while $2,684 goes to the State for motor vehicle cases. A total of 326 motor vehicle cases were docketed, while 207 others were tried.

INSPECTOR SHELBY TO QUIT AS AID TO PRATT IN 2 WEEKS

Organized Police School.

When Inspector Shelby quits the department he will leave a record of administrative achievement. It was through his efforts that the police school in the department was organized and he was its instructor for two years. In addition he wrote the curricula for study in the school. Many of the subjects which he compiled have been used as models in police schools throughout the country.

Always a deep student of police problems, Inspector Shelby fostered development of the scientific crime detection laboratory which is now being assembled at headquarters under Lieut. John Fowler.

Practically all of the administrative work in the department was under his direction. It was Inspector Shelby who planned the present organization system of the department and the division of the District into police districts in command of inspectors.

Exonerated by Trial Board.

Two years ago he and Capt. Edward J. Kelly were the storm center of an investigation. They were condemned by a grand jury for their handling of the suicide of Virginia McPherson. They were relieved of their posts. Complete exoneration was given them by a special civilian trial board and they were returned to their posts. Inspector Shelby retained his position as chief of detectives until several months ago when he was promoted to his present position as senior assistant to Maj. Pratt.

At the time of the Virginia McPherson case he was prevailed upon to retire because of illness, but he refused to leave the department while his office was under attack. Both the investigations in the Mary Baker murder case and the Beulah Limerick case are believed to have taxed his strength.

Maj. Pratt is reluctant to have Inspector Shelby leave the department. For the last few years he has been regarded as his chief adviser. The question of his successor centers about Inspector Frank S. W. Burke and Capt. L. I. H. Edwards, with Capt. Edwards regarded as the most likely choice.

Edwards' Promotion Seen.

Retirement of Capt. Emerson October 31 will likely see appointment of Lieut. Joseph C. Morgan to a captaincy. Inspector Shelby's retirement will automatically leave a vacancy, which may be filled by an inspector or a captain. If Capt. Edwards is selected, it will probably result in the elevation of Acting Capt. Kelly to a full captaincy.

Inspector Shelby was born in Thompsonville, Ky., in 1874. He served in the army from 1895 until 1902, participating in the battle of Santiago in the Spanish-American War. He joined the Police Department in 1902.

He served in various precincts until 1907, when he was made a desk sergeant in the Fourth Precinct. In 1913 he was detailed to the office of corporation counsel, where he served until 1917, when he was detailed to headquarters.

Maj. Raymond L. Pullman assigned him as contact officer. In this capacity he addressed more than 150,000 children on the principles of Government, responsibilities of citizenship and the rights of property and rules of safety.

Made Captain In 1922.

August 10, 1919, he was promoted to the grade of lieutenant. On January 16, 1922, he was made a captain, having passed the civil service examination at the head of the list, as he had done on previous occasions.

In this capacity he served one month at the Eleventh Precinct and was then brought to headquarters as administrative aid to the late Maj. Daniel Sullivan. He was given the full rank of inspector July 1, 1924. He has held the title of assistant superintendent since 1927. In 1929 he became head of the detective bureau.

In his capacity as administrative aid Inspector Shelby handled police arrangements for the inaugurations of Presidents Harding, Coolidge and Hoover, for the Harding funeral, for the Shrine convention and the Lindbergh reception. For his services incident to the Lindbergh ceremonies he was commended by the Commissioners.

Inspector Shelby has been secretary of the Washington Lodge of Elks for eighteen years. He is also a member of Dewey Camp, United Spanish-American War Veterans, the Woodmen of the World and the policemen's association. He lives at 3706 Thirty-fourth street northwest with his wife and 14-year-old daughter, Mary Elizabeth.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

A Mail Order Marriage.

DEAR FRANCES McDONALD:

Please tell me what I am to do. Twelve years ago I married a war veteran I met through correspondence. I was a widow with five children and thought he was a good sensible man. I now have four children by him. He is abusive, drinks, makes home brew, and in about every way imaginable is an unfit parent.

My three oldest children by my first husband practically supported this man and took his abuse. Now that they have gone he makes life unbearable, demanding that my other children be taken out of school to support him and the children I have had by him. He threatens to throw me out because the oldest of my own children is going to night school after work. She gives me all she earns and just because she needs a little for night school he raves. My girls who are married never had one stitch of store clothes until they married although they made good wages. They would hand me $10 a week each all the years they worked. And he would give me $5—if he felt like it. The older set of children have been loyal and true. My son worked like a slave to plant our garden so that we could have vegetables for the children. You may know how hard I work when I tell you I can 300 quarts a year from that garden. My husband refuses to plant it or help with it. And without it we would starve. This same son who does not live home pays me $1 a week for his bit of washing to help out. They are wonderful children and keep encouraging me along although he hates them and forbids their coming here. He feels they should have stayed and paid for his home brew.

We are buying this home of 10 rooms. He says he can throw me and my first husband's children out and keep the house and the young children. Can he do this when we have all put our very lives into the place and he has done nothing but make life a burden? What should I do?

MOTHER.

Ask your doctor to give you some harmless emetic that you can slip into every bath of home brew—just as a starter. You can manage to do this without detection. And home brew will lose its charm. Next have him arrested the first time opportunity offers. And when he is haled to court, see that you press the charge.

I have known women to have a man arrested for habitual brutality to infant children and then refuse to press charges simply because they did not wish to be separated from their mate—however much a brute. If you are that type, I am now wasting very valuable time, as I write this. If you are, however, a self-respecting woman, and if you wish your older children to respect you as a human being, make up your mind to have this man put where he belongs. After that you can divorce him or not. But see that he is not taken back into your home. Have him bound over to the probation department, put to work and made to contribute to the support of his minor children.

It is a crime for any mother to allow her children to support an able-bodied brute. And it is a rare case when such children fail to despise her for it. Children have intelligence and can figure situations out pretty accurately, and in their own way they place their mother pretty low in the scale of human beings when they see themselves deprived of their earnings, even of decent clothing, because mother has met a drunken soldier who appeals to her. Put him out by the simple expedient of having him arrested. And keep him out by stating that his conduct imperils the moral fiber of your minor children. Simple enough. But have I been wasting my time in telling you all this? I just wonder.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"LIBRA."

IF October 14 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:45 a. m. to 9:50 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 8:50 p. m. The danger hours are from 10:30 a. m. to 12:50 p. m., and from 3:20 p. m. to 5:50 p. m.

October 14, so the stars foretell, will be pregnant with opportunity. Those who have the nous to grasp it will reap a rich reward, although it may involve drastic changes. In social life, the omens point to success, and romance will make its appearance, and happy engagements will result. In domestic circles, there will be freedom from worry and anxiety.

A natural tendency to rely on others, rather than on their own efforts, will be noticed in children born on this October 14. They will need outside help at school, in business, and in the home. Their own judgment will be "wobbly." They will lack self-confidence. As a compensation, their natures will be sweet and their dispositions most kindly.

If born on October 14, you are quick, original and emotional. No matter the complexity of the problem, you, in your mind, solve it immediately, and here in lies your danger. Your diagnoses are often based on insufficient data and your remedies, at times, aggravate rather than ameliorate conditions. You are not a lover of routine or a respecter of conventional usage. You are always ready to scrap old methods—no matter how good they may be—for new systems. You are extremely sensitive, as well as jealous. You show your emotions—largely evanescent—too clearly and too frequently.

Extreme in all things, you become impatient with those who do not immediately subscribe to your tenets and beliefs. You are never willing to admit that there is to any question any side other than your own. Rather a poor judge of "humans," you are easily beguiled by attention or flattery. Losses are indicated by this trustfulness in those who do not merit it.

Your horoscope indicates some grave disappointments in early years, and permanent success is only foretold for later years, when experience has made you realize that "to err is human," and that you are not the only soldier in the regiment that marches in step.

Art Interprets the Mode

New York, Oct. 13.

OFF in a class by itself, paying no attention to anything but developing itself in as many and as beautiful ways as possible, the scarf is having an awfully good time these days! With so many new ideas in clothes themselves, scarfs didn't see at all why they shouldn't have some of the fun and the glory, too.

For daytime, to brighten up woolens and dark silks, and for plain dark, or neutral suits, plaid ribbon scarfs give interesting and perky touches. This ribbon, stiffened taffeta, by the way, is used either as an Ascot tie, or is tied in a bow if the wearer's years and face permit. And these scarfs, which are worn with little suits, are taken off when the jacket is removed, but are wrapped twice around the left sleeve of the blouse, and tied saucily there—'n' this is highly effective when the blouse is of the same dark color as the rest of the suit.

And an extremely clever trick has been played with a scarf on a fur-collared coat I saw recently in one of our very smartest shops. This scarf, of the same gray-blue material as the coat, and oddly bunchy and wrinkly looking, was on the inside of the coat when I first saw it—it detached and fits right over the chinchilla collar of the coat if it rains, and it's waterproof, and it makes the all-cloth coat version just as smart as the cloth-and-fur version.

Of course, for evening, we have reversible scarf-capes of fur and velvet, and velvet or lame (lah-may) scarfs bordered with fur, or we have, for very special types, of course, ostrich or aigrette scarfs, boas and collars.

• • • •

Stateliness and dignity have definitely taken their place in the evening mode—a very prominent place, too! For women whose "beau ideal" of evening wear is elegance, not the latest fashion tricks, couturiers are creating gowns in the 1931 manner which show this restraint clearly. And beautifully—if one may take the frock I illustrate today, from Redfern, as an example! This frock is of red velvet, dull in finish, and it is gathered into a band of smocking at the front of the bodice. The long sleeves, attached to the gown, are banded in black fox, and the skirt falls straight and full to the ground.

'N', of course, jackets accompanying all smart evening gowns, so the little Redfern jacket, sketched above, is made also of the red velvet, with smocking at the front hem, and sleeveless, but making up for this with a sumptuous collar of the black fox fur!

• • • •

The sleeve question's up to you—if you want 'em on the frock and not on the jacket, as I have shown today, it's very smart! Yet the "vice-versa" is very smart, too.

• • • •

When is a blouse not "just a blouse?" When it is a vestee, or a part of a two-piece frock, my deahs, and of the very latest and smartest design, too! No foolin' though, blouses are such interesting and charmingly different things these days that no woman can have enough of them. The most economical way to manage this lavishness is to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope right off to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet which tells all about the way these fascinating and double-or-triple purpose blouses are made!

Au revoir!

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

BLANKETING YOUR GARDEN.

THE middle of October means that the first frost is just around the corner and is the last call for all rutters and diggers "to be up and to arms." After the first heavy frost, it will be too late to do much of the work that should be done at this time.

There is still time to make over a perennial border, unless your garden happens to be in a region where there has been little or no rain for several weeks. In such a case, it is better to wait until spring to make the necessary changes.

The next two weeks will be a good time to plant tulips or to rest lilies-of-the-valley. Be sure, when planting these bulbs to use a generous quantity of bonemeal. Divide the plants so that you have about six roots to a clump. Set the roots about 2 inches under the ground. Beds of lily-of-the-valley should be made over once in four years.

Be sure to make a ring of earth around any shrubs or trees which were set out this spring or even at this time. The object of these rings is to hold as much rainfall as possible. They may be mulched after the ground freezes.

In the rose calendar we are told to prepare rose beds for next spring's planting. Rigidly destroy by burning any leaves that show black spot; then give a last application of Massey dust. Massey dust is composed of nine parts dusting sulphur and one part lead arsenate.

We know that roses we wish to plant this fall may be set out after the 20th of this month. It is not well to begin applying a winter protection until after the first freezing of the ground.

After a decided freeze, such as is not apt to occur until the end of November, we must cover up the plants for winter, tying down the long canes to prevent their being whipped about.

Hardy lilies are often held over until spring, but it is much better to plant them, when possible, in the autum or early winter. This is particularly true of lilium auratum, which deteriorates rapidly over winter.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

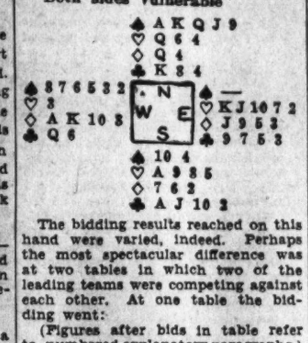
ALL LOST SAVE HONORS.

IT must have been some one with a particularly Machiavellian turn of mind who provided that players at Bridge should receive a reward for honors held in their own hands or those of their partners. To a great many people this reward has seemed entirely unjust, rather in keeping with the scriptural injunction, "To him that hath shall be given," but actually the paltry count for honors is one of the most effective ways to steer the players away from the correct contract that has been devised by the mind of mortal man.

The object of bidding, as every one knows, is the selection of the best bid, taking into consideration the 26 cards held by the partnership, but the lure of the honor count quite often makes that selection extremely difficult and more often than not results in the choice of the wrong final bid.

The hand below, played in the national mixed pair championship for the Mrs. Olga Hilliard Trophy last summer, is a case in point.

North—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable



The bidding results reached on this hand were varied, indeed. Perhaps the most spectacular difference was at two tables in which two of the leading teams were competing against each other. At one table the bidding went:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West
1♠	Pass	2♣(1)	Pass
2♣(2)	Pass	3NT(3)	Pass
Pass(4),	Pass

1—A better bid here would be two notrump. North has a right to expect that his partner's bid of two clubs is based on a five-card suit. The bid of two notrump would be a better picture of honor holding and distribution.

2—North is entirely justified in rebidding the spades, both on account of their length and exceptional strength.

3—South now corrects his previous error.

4—A very fine pass, indeed. This North was not led away by the mirage of the honor count to assume a dangerous and, as it proved, impossible contract.

Sitting opposite them, their partners had arrived at the following bidding. At this table the teammates of the players sitting North and South were sitting East and West, and the teammates of the players sitting East and West were seated North and South.

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West
1♠	Pass	2NT	Pass
4♠(1)	Pass	Pass	Dbl.(2)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A very bad bid. Three spades would be fully justified, but the bid of four spades, shutting out the shortest road to game, is an invitation to disaster.

2—A questionable Double. The expectation of defeat is not great, even with 2 tricks in diamonds and six trumps. West believes that the contract can be defeated, and, as it is a team match, victory may be determined by the question of whether or not the contract has been doubled.

The play was no less amazing. Against the contract of three notrump, West opened the 8 of diamonds. Actually, a better lead would have been the diamond King, to get a look at the Dummy and determine the better line of defense. South, knowing that it was now or never that he would make a diamond trick, played the Queen and it held the trick. Mentally chastising himself for insisting upon playing the hand in notrump, he now led from the Dummy the Ace of spades, but, when East failed to follow suit, his view of the correct bid underwent immediate and radical revision.

Upon the five rounds of spades East was compelled to discard and possibly made his selection unwisely. Be that as it may, he discarded two clubs, two diamonds and one heart. South had a reasonably accurate count upon the West hand. He knew that there had been six spades originally in the West hand, and four diamonds. This left only three cards in clubs and hearts After running the spades the King of clubs was led from Dummy and followed by a small club, but South refused to finesse. The Queen dropped, thus establishing all the clubs for South.

On the two last rounds of clubs East was again forced to select discards and parted unwisely with his last diamond. South had now taken ten tricks, and his contract, of course, was safe. He could lay down the Ace of hearts and call it a day, as he knew that West now held in his hand one heart, one spade and the last diamond. If West's heart was the King, the lead of a low heart would cost South one trick, but East's first heart discard had been the 7 and his second heart discard the 2. Therefore, South felt confident that East held the heart King. He led a small heart, and when West played the 3 he played a small heart from Dummy and East won with the 10. This, however, was the only trick for East and West, as East was forced to lead a heart, permitting the declarer to win the twelfth and thirteenth tricks with the Queen in the Dummy and the Ace in his own hand. He thus scored a total of 105 points for making three notrump, a bonus of 500 for game and 105 points for the 3 extra tricks under the rules governing Duplicate play—a grand total of 710 points.

At the other table North as Declarer with spades as trump, meanwhile was having his difficulties. East had selected as his opening lead his fourth best diamond and West won the first two tricks in that suit and led a third round, which the Declarer ruffed with a trump honor. North then laid down another trump, only to find that East was void of the suit and West held six.

Seeking to save something from the wreck, North now played his King of clubs and led a small club and finessed the 10, which West won. West led another round of trumps, taking the last trump from Dummy and reducing North's holding to two.

North was entirely helpless and was compelled to concede six tricks to his opponents, being defeated three tricks for a total of 1,000 points, less the bonus of 100 for the honors held, but surely a difference of 1,610 points was a high price to pay for holding the four top spades.

POLICE CHIEFS URGE CIVIL COOPERATION

Florida Convention Favors Stricter Curb on Use of Narcotics.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Cooperation between law enforcement officers and the Department of Justice was stressed at the annual convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs today as a necessity in curbing crime.

Lack of such cooperation, speakers declared, would be so great a handicap to all branches of law enforcement that none could operate with the highest degree of efficiency. They urged officers to compile more accurate data on crime and forward it to Washington.

Among resolutions adopted by the association was one urging ratification of a treaty formulated at Geneva last July by 36 nations to limit manufacture of narcotics.

Another resolution requested that radio channels for police use in crime detection and prevention be given prior consideration by the Federal Radio Commission. Among today's speakers were S. J. Anslinger, commissioner of narcotics at Washington; J. Edgar Hoover, William P. Rutledge, Detroit, and Bruce Smith, director of a committee on uniform crime records.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

AND so I received a letter—somewhat as follows and to wit:

My Dear Doctor:

Have you been corrupted by the other sex, or are you merely cowed? Surely you did not actually muff the message brought to the Belasco Theater last night through Gilbert Miller's production of Bourdet's "The Sex Fable?" Or can it be that you are not aware of the menace alleged in this French dramatist's peal of alarm?

"And this," one fancies one heard M. Edouard Bourdet say to you and other mere males last evening, "and this, mon cherie (my use of the masculine is deliberate), and this will give you at least a rough idea of what we men are up against!"

Yet you, the one unmarried male now reviewing plays for Washington readers, you dismiss "The Sex Fable" with a casual puff of praise. Given first chance to spread the gospel, you have pulled a boner and thrown one high and wide to cut off an imaginary run at the plate.

Didn't you hear the vital lines spoken with deadly earnestness last night? Didn't you follow the hopeless fight of a younger son in Paris against seduction by an American heiress? Didn't you grasp M. Bourdet's insinuations that European lads are now being led astray by married women from the States, who dangle before their dazzled eyes the promise that an early divorce will be used to legitimatize a shameful relationship?

Why do you deliberately misstate the case of Carlos Pinto, the Argentine gigolo who tried to turn square? It was not a handsome solitaire bestowed on him by the wife of another man that recorrupted Carlos. He wanted to go straight. He applied for the job of a secretary. But what did he discover? What was he up against? After all, even a reformed gigolo must eat. Faced with a bitter choice he, like Eugene Walter's heroine, chose the easiest way.

And why do you say the Campbell role is by no means the most important part? Never has Mrs. Pat shone so brilliantly. She is responsible for the deeply sinister note of the story. She was magnificent in the scene where Antoine causes Philippe Leroy-Gomez to parade his charms before her expert eyes. In the creation of this character, so superbly portrayed, M. Bourdet must have borrowed from Ouida's Tom Massarene, the oil king who gloated over his intended victim like a tomcat on the tiles peering down on some gorgeous feline form moving gracefully through the gardens below. What man could watch Mrs. Pat's inspired acting in "The Sex Fable" and fail to shudder?

Don't be misled by cynicism. The fact that Earl Carroll sat tranquilly through the premier last night means nothing. He, through years of creating gorgeous girl shows, is inoculated. Possibly a custodian of a reptile farm, after absorbing stepped up doses of venom over a period of years, might with impunity kiss a rattlesnake in August. That has nothing to do with your duty to the susceptible youths of this community. Urge them to see "The Sex Fable." If Bourdet is right, innocence, even the most perfect unsophistication, is no defense against the new school of women. Let serious-minded Washingtonians give careful attention to this stage story of why boys go wrong.

(Signed) FRANK P. MORSE.

This, I take it, is what makes horse racing!

The good and erudite Prof. Morse and I see "The Sex Fable" through different eyes.

To me Mrs. Patrick Campbell does not sound the keynote of the comedy, gorgeous piece of character work that she does. The gist of the play, to my jocosely termed mind, is embodied in the character of Isabelle LeRoy-Gomez, the perturbed mother who has a mess of children on her hands and no bank account.

The Countess Polaki, portrayed with consummate skill by Mrs. Pat is a dowager past the grateful age, who is merely prowling about the hotel lobbies in the forlorn hope that something exciting will befall her—and it almost does.

And as far as the minute analysis of Mons. Bourdet's message is concerned, neither the good Prof. Morse nor I is a fit subject to go on at any length about it. Why two old bachelors, for whom the lure of matrimony and its suggested concomitants have long since ceased to exist, should get into any such mixup as this about the danger of the younger generation is beyond me!

But the countess might have been interested in us at that!

What do you think—if anything?

Injured Workman's Employer Files Suit

Company Asks Recompense From Auto Driver for Compensation Paid.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. yesterday filed suit, on behalf of an employe who had been injured, against Walter G. Campbell, director of regulatory work of the Department of Agriculture, Thirteenth and B streets southwest.

The employe, Oscar M Harkness, was struck by an automobile operated by Campbell while he was walking through an alley near Seventh and B streets southwest, and through the workmen's compensation act, the Metropolitan Co., by its surety, Travelers' Insurance Co., has already paid out $1,602.20 and will have to pay out more. Acting under the compensation act, the company now sues "for use of Oscar M. Harkness." The suit asks for $50,000.

Harkness has been in a sanitarium since June 3, 1930, and the company, through Attorney Edwin A. Swingle, asserts he will be incapacitated for an indefinite period.

Scratched Paint on Auto Results in $15,000 Suit

William F. Hines, 129 Webster street northwest, was named defendant in a suit for $15,000 yesterday. Merrill I. Pitcher, 625 Upshur street northwest, complainant, charged that he had been arrested last September on a warrant sworn out by Hines, and that he was accused of destroying private property.

The destruction was said to be scratching the paint on an automobile to the extent of $30. Pitcher was acquitted in Police Court and he charged that there was no probable cause for the issuance of the warrant.

2 MEXICAN CLAIMS GROUPS HELD ENDED

Comptroller McCarl Rules Funds No Longer Exist to Continue Work.

Whatever hope that has been held out for the resumption of the work of the American-Mexican General and Special Claims Commission has faded with a decision by the Comptroller General that under the law the commissions no longer exist and that compensation is not now available for their expenses, it was learned yesterday.

The opinion of the Comptroller General, which allows funds to be used in the future only "for the protection and preservation of the records," was rendered in response to a letter from the Secretary of State in which was outlined that "negotiations are now actually being carried on with the Mexican government and by the American Ambassador to Mexico for the continuation of the life of the commissions," and that "it is essential that the present organization of the agency of the United States shall continue to function, at least in some reduced form."

The convention establishing the special claims commission expired on August 17 and that of the general claims commission on August 30, but that it was believed that an extension would be made which would enable the commissioners to continue hearing cases which involved claims totaling more than $600,000,000.

At the present time the agent for the United States, Clement L. Bouve, and his staff, are occupying offices in the Investment Building, and it is believed that any funds which may have been paid to them since the expiration of the conventions will be classified under "the protection and preservation" allowances of the comptroller's decision. About 60 employes are affected.

The cessation of the commissions' activities follows closely on difficulties which were encountered early in the summer when the American Commissioner, Fred K. Nielsen, objected to secret conferences which were reported to have been held between the Presiding Commissioner, H. F. Alfaro, of Panama, and G. Fernandez Macgregor, of Mexico.

Commissioner Nielsen, who only yesterday returned to his home from a hospital where he was confined with a serious eye infection, is reported to be leaving shortly for Egypt where he will take up duties to which he was appointed last June by the President, in connection with a claim settlement.

Rabbi Metz Compares Science With Religion

Rabbi Solomon H. Metz, of the Adas Israel Synagogue, was speaker at first of a series of round table talks held at the Jewish Community Center last night.

Rabbi Metz compared religion and science as applied to the conquest of nature. He stressed two extremes with which man has attempted to overcome natural forces, the first being in medieval days when men tried to conquer nature with mystic charms and the second in modern times when man is attempting to see into the beyond with scientific methods. Neither have made any progress, he said.

School Head Addresses Wheatley P.-T. A. Meet

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, was the principal speaker yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Wheatley School, Montello avenue and Neal street northeast.

Mrs. Florence Rogers, supervising principal of the sixth division; Mrs. Ruth Hall, art instructor, and Mrs. Walter C. Jones, also addressed the meeting. Prizes for the best school gardens during the past year were awarded to Norma Abernathy, Vivian Dwyer and William Green.

Heart Attack Kills Man Telephoning for Police

Samuel Kaplain, 43-year-old shoe jobber, fell dead last night in his brother-in-law's store at 2405 Benning road northeast, at a telephone by which he was summoning police to end an argument between his wife and her father. He succumbed to a sudden heart attack.

TOWN TERRORIZED BY BANK ROBBERS

Gang Shoots Up Village After Taking $4,000 and Makes Escape.

Lizton, Ind., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Reminiscent of the depredations of the James boys, a gang of safe blowers early today wrecked the Lizton State Bank, shot up the town and escaped with approximately $4,000 in currency.

The robbers, two automobile loads of them, obtained hammers, crowbars and tarpaulins from a nearby railroad shed, broke their way into the bank through a side window and then opened the front door. For an hour and a half a series of nitroglycerin charges were set off until the door on the time-lock safe finally gave way, crashing through a partition of the banking room.

Meanwhile, Marion Bailey, 72-year-old president of the bank, who lives across the street, engaged in a gun fight with one of the bandits barricaded behind a pile of benches in front of the bank building.

Residents of the village of 200 inhabitants, midway between Indianapolis and Crawfordsville, were unable to communicate with authorities as the robbers had cut telephone lines.

Rather than face the gun fire of the bandits they remained in their homes while the wrecking of the bank was completed. Damage to the bank interior and the building probably will exceed $2,000 it was estimated.

Picking up their loot, the robbers, firing in all directions to intimidate the citizens, drove out of town. Bailey, the aged bank president, said he was awakened about 1:45 a. m. by the first explosion.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

"I love to shop among the stores and shops of CONNECTICUT AVENUE

The people are all so courteous and I am astounded that so many nice things are so surprisingly Low in Price

THERE is a certain charm of inherent fashionableness and refinement individual to Connecticut Avenue. It adds much to the enjoyment of shopping along this esplanade.

There is also a certain nicety of merchandise and graciousness of service in the stores and shops, making shopping on Connecticut Avenue that much more pleasant for the shopper.

And whether it be in women's wear, furniture, luggage, personal photographs, flowers, beauty parlors or restaurants . . . there is a distinctiveness of style, worth or service which is most welcome to those who seek or prefer above-average quality and value.

Pricings, quality considered, are most moderate . . . quality for quality and worth for worth, probably the greatest values offered by any group of merchants in Washington.

Stop off or stroll over to the Connecticut Avenue shopping district today . . . particularly delightful at this season of the year. Step into and look around some of the shops and stores. HOW TO KEEP WELL

FLORIDA CONTROLS MALARIA.

THE Florida board of health is interesting itself in malaria control, and with results that are satisfactory. Its records show that malaria increases in wet years and decreases in dry ones. A chart of malaria and rainfall shows that the two rise and fall together. The explanation is that in the wet years mosquitoes find many places in which to multiply. The dry years are those in which there are few mosquitoes.

One county stands out above all the rest for its malaria rate, or rather it once stood out. The people became interested. They put in a county health department and they went after mosquitoes. In certain years the malaria death rate of this county was fourteen times that of the State as a whole. By 1930 the malaria rate had fallen to the level of that of the remainder of the State and the hope is that the 1931 record will be much better still. An old resident of this county told the health officer that he can now sit on his piazza in the evening without discomfort from mosquitoes, and this for the first time in 15 years.

The plan that is being executed consists of control of mosquito breeding, screening the houses, and in treating all who have malaria until they are no longer capable of spreading the disease. The report of the State board of health gives a method of treating malaria used by Sinton in India, but does not say whether it has used it much in Florida. This treatment is begun with one dose of three grains of calomel. This is followed by one ounce of salts dissolved in one ounce of warm water. After this has acted the direct malaria treatment begins.

Mixture A: Bicarbonate of soda, 60 grains; citrate of soda, 40 grains; carbonate of calcium, 3 grains; water to make one ounce.

Give one ounce of this. Repeat in an hour. Repeat again three hours after the first dose. One-half hour after the third dose of this A mixture a dose of Q mixture.

Mixture Q: Sulphate of quinine, 10 grains; citric acid, 30 grains; salts, 60 grains. Water to make one ounce.

After that give one dose of A three times a day. Follow each dose one-half hour later with a dose of Q. Continue for one week. Once a day give one-quarter of a grain of plasmochin. That is all.

Relapsing cases are given the above for one week. In the second week two doses each of A and Q are given daily.

Chronic relapsing cases are given the treatment for one week, as above, except that the dose of plasmochin is increased to one-half grain. It is given in two doses after meals. At the end of one week the plasmochin is discontinued, but the A and Q mixtures are kept up for two weeks.

RINGWORM OF NAILS.

Mrs. B. E. L. writes: You recently mentioned something about the large toenail being dead looking and very thick. You said the correspondent probably had ringworm of the nail, and to use ringworm remedies for it. As I am bothered with the same thing, will you tell me the accepted treatment for toenail ringworm?

REPLY.

The nail must be thinned, as much excess nail and skin as possible must be removed, the nail and tissues around must be treated with crystol. Castellani's carbol fuchsin paint, or other ringworm remedies with high penetrating powers. The chance of curing ringworm of the nails by home medication is very slim.

SMART DAY DRESS.

Black crepe satin enlivened with white crepe satin is popular choice for all-day wear.

Style No. 973 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material with ¾ yard of 35-inch contrasting.

Mauve-brown canton crepe is another smart suggestion with pastel-red collar and cuffs.

Black sheer velvet with lace is delightfully lovely.

WEDNESDAY OCTOBER 14, 1931 SPORTS

INVADERS MENACE MARYLAND AND G. W. RECORDS

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Mr. John Heydler,
President, National League,
New York, N. Y.
Dear Mr. Heydler:

Now that the world series is over and the Cardinals have made matters safe for the National League, methinks you owe a large debt of gratitude to several of the boys.

The suspicion was growing, you know, that the National League was just a minor league compared to the American, as a result of all the beatings your champions had been taking since 1926. Specifically, during the four world series from 1927 to 1930, inclusive, your boys won only three of the nineteen games played, twice losing the series in four straight, which was very discouraging, I am sure. I know I don't need to remind you of this, but it is just my way of illustrating just how much thanks the Cardinals are due.

I suggest that the league take some official cognizance of the work of Pepper Martin and Wild Bill Hallahan and Burleigh Grimes and Gabby Street, who shattered Connie Mack's dream of three straight world series titles and incidentally restored your league to a place of high standing.

I can imagine that it was very embarrassing for you and your National League magnates during these four lean years when the American Leaguers were knocking over your boys with such fine regularity. It was especially noticeable at the annual winter meetings of the two major leagues, the joint meetings, where your magnates were observed to slink through the corridors and ferret out secret hideaways to avoid the haughty presence of the American Leaguers, who had begun to assume a very patronizing air toward your magnates.

Of course, next winter your magnates will be able to enjoy the annual joint meeting again, and even offer the American Leaguers a bit of consolation in view of the superior work of your Cardinals, and for this favor it would seem that your league ought to be very thankful.

Some expression of appreciation to Pepper Martin, especially, would not be amiss. More than anybody else, Pepper tore down the aura of invincibility that had cloaked the mighty Athletics for three seasons, with his hitting and base running. The way he injected some old-fashioned baseball into the world series made your league look like a smarter league and that should be particularly gratifying to you. By medium of Pepper you handed the American Leaguers some inside stuff that they couldn't handle and it all redounds to the credit of your league.

Wild Bill Hallahan and Burleigh Grimes were in there winning two ball games apiece for your league against some of the greatest sluggers in baseball and after the series of 1929 and 1930, when Al Simmons, Mickey Cochrane and Jimmy Foxx made your best pitchers look like so many minor leaguers, you ought to be thankful indeed for the work of Hallahan and Grimes.

And Gabby Street ought to be remembered, too. The old sergeant pulled all the master minding that there was in the 1931 series and outsmarted old Connie Mack himself. Give Street credit for giving Martin the signal to steal those five bases and give Street the credit for manipulating his pitchers the way he did. That was a master stroke, withholding Hallahan from the fourth game when Street realized he couldn't beat Earnshaw and give him credit for lifting Grimes in the ninth inning of the last game and putting a game guy like Hallahan in there when it took a fellow with plenty of courage to beat back the Athletics in a spot like that. He chose the right pitcher then.

And perhaps you had better not overlook Mickey Cochrane, who was also a great help to your champions in the series. Not only did his poor throws assist Martin in getting around the bases with such salutary effect, but his .160 batting average coming in third place in the A's line-up helped the Cardinals over a lot of rough spots. Don't forget Cochrane. YOURS TRULY.

C. U. Cubs Play Varsity For Rockne Fund

With the proceeds to be donated to the Knute Rockne Memorial Fund, the varsity and freshmen football teams of Catholic University will play a regulation game in Brookland Stadium on Friday, commencing at 2:30 o'clock. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged.

"This is to be a 100 per cent testimonial game," Dutch Bergman, Catholic head coach, declared yesterday. "Approved officials have volunteered their services gratis and every cent taken in will be turned over to the construction of the field house at South Bend, Ind., which is to commemorate Rockne, the greatest character, the greatest coach in the annals of football."

Barnett Plays McKimmie in Golf Final

Houghton Defeated on 19th Hole in Mid-Atlantic Play.

Treder Also Loses to McKimmie on 19th in Semifinal.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE final round to decide the championship of the Middle Atlantic Professional Golfers Association will be played today on the course of the Woodmont Club between R. Cliff McKimmie, White Flint Club, and Robert T. Barnett, Chevy Chase, competition being 36 holes match play.

Barnett won the title when the event was last played two years ago and McKimmie was formerly a noted amateur, having won the Middle Atlantic Golf Association championship in 1924 at the Hermitage Club, Richmond, and also the Bannockburn Club championship when he was a member of that club.

McKimmie reached the final round yesterday by defeating Al Treder, Manor, on the nineteenth hole. Treder lost his match because his putter proved a most unreliable club. He was one down on the tenth tee, missed a 5-foot putt for a win on the tenth green, another putt not over 10 feet for another win on the eleventh and an 18-inch putt for a win on the twelfth.

Treder Misses Putt On Eighteenth.

The match was all even on the eighteenth tee. Treder's iron shot to the green left his ball about 4 feet short of the cup, while McKimmie's ball was 20 feet beyond the pin. McKimmie over ran the hole with his third shot down hill but holed out his 4. Treder putted and missed his 3, halving in 4, and carrying the match to the nineteenth.

On this decisive hole Treder sliced to the right, was half-stymied by a tree and played his second shot into a trap. McKimmie's tee shot was over 200 yards straight down the fairway and with his second shot on the green won easily in a par 4 to Treder's fatal 5. Barnett, 4 up at the turn, defeated Charles P. Betschler, Rogers Ford, 2 and 1.

Houghton Beaten On 19th Hole.

The 19-hole match between Treder and McKimmie was much less spectacular than the 19-hole struggle between Betschler and A. L. Houghton, Kenwood, which ended in Betschler's favor on the nineteenth green. After a tight battle in which Houghton was always in the lead, the pair reached the fifteenth tee with Houghton 2 up and only 4 to play. At that point Betschler turned the dial and another program came in.

On the fifteenth green Betschler ran down an 8-foot putt for a birdie 3. On the sixteenth a 6-foot putt gave him another birdie 3. The match was suddenly all square. On the seventeenth Betschler, driving over the green and playing from trap to trap, took 6, while Houghton missed a birdie 2 and easily won in a par 3. Houghton was now 1 up. On the eighteenth hole, however, Betschler negotiated a half-stymie putt for another birdie, Houghton missing a 3 and the match being again all square.

Chips Into Cup For Eagle 2.

On the nineteenth hole came the spectacular finish. Betschler chipped into the cup for an eagle 2 from a distance of 40 yards off the green, and the match was over. In the last five holes Betschler had scored three birdies and an eagle 2, a record which eliminated Houghton. The summary:

SECOND ROUND—Al Treder, Manor, defeated J. Monro Hunter, Indian Spring, 2 up; R. Cliff McKimmie, White Flint, defeated Cliff Spencer, Forest Park, 4 and 3; Robert T. Barnett, Chevy Chase, defeated George Diffenbaugh, Indian Spring, 3 and 2; Charles P. Betschler, Rodgers Forge, defeated A. L. Houghton, Kenwood, 1 up, 19 holes.

SEMIFINAL ROUND—McKimmie defeated Treder, 1 up, 19 holes; Barnett defeated Betschler, 2 and 1.

PAIRING FOR TODAY—McKimmie vs. Barnett.

Sothoron to Join Browns as Coach

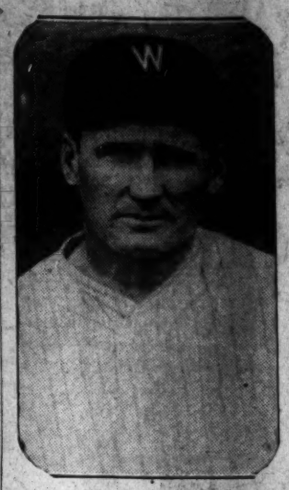
St. Louis, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Allan Sothoron, for the last three years manager of the Louisville American Association Team, has been appointed a coach for the St. Louis Browns for the next year, Business Manager Bill Friel announced tonight. His acquisition gives the Browns three coaches, the others being Jimmy Austin and Earl McNeely. Whether both McNeely and Austin will be retained next year is to be decided later, Friel said.

Sothoron, a former pitcher, played with the Browns at one time. He also has seen service with the Cardinals.

Friel, in announcing the signing of Sothoron, said he could have remained at Louisville, but preferred to accept the job as Browns' coach.

Johnson Signs to Manage Washington Club for 1932

Griffith Is Satisfied With Direction of Team in 1931.



WALTER JOHNSON.

THE management of the Washington Baseball Club for the 1932 season will be intrusted to Walter Johnson again, President Clark Griffith announced yesterday after a conference with the former pitching idol.

A one-year contract will be tendered Johnson, who this season finished a three-year term as manager of the Nats. Griffith declined to reveal the salary terms.

Griffith declared that he was pleased with Johnson's management of the team during the past season despite the fact that the Nats finished third behind the Athletics and Yankees after holding second place until the final week of the season.

Says Johnson Deserves Another Chance.

"The team floundered in spots," said Griffith, "but on the whole, Johnson did well under the circumstances and is deserving of another chance. His record during the three years he has managed the team speaks for itself and he has proved to me that he can be a disciplinarian. I liked the way he handled our players."

Under Johnson's direction, the Nats have finished out of the first division only once in three years. During his first season as manager, the Nats were fifth behind Philadelphia, New York, Cleveland and St. Louis but in 1930 Johnson confounded the experts by bringing the team up to second behind the Athletics. For a great part of last season the Nats were the chief contenders of the Athletics before dropping to third behind the Yankees.

Griffith is seeking to bolster the Nats in two departments, the outfield and pitching. For four seasons

Boxing Aided By Sharkey's Victory

Interest in Sport Revived as Sailorman Redeems Self.

$129,700 Paid to See Bostonian Batter Huge Carnera.

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Jack Sharkey, man of moods, given to gusty displays of rage and lack of control that have ruined many a heavyweight spectacle, finally has paid part of his debt to boxing.

There was new life, new interest today in the heavyweight division, the barometer by which the success of the game as a whole is measured, and it was due to but one reason—the sailor's spectacular thumping of Primo Carnera in the biting winds that swept Ebbets Field last night.

Although a complete accounting was still lacking, Jimmy Johnston, the most versatile promoter since the late Tex Rickard, said today that 25,900 paid prices ranging from $3 to $15 and braved the football weather to see the first thorough testing of the Italian giant.

The gross receipts were $129,700, and with Government taxes subtracted $107,070 was left for the fighters and the management. The warriors split $53,535 evenly, about $26,767 each, and there was plenty of profit for the promoter who finally has forced his rival, Madison Square Garden, to capitulate and take him into the fold.

Johnston to Stage Big Matches.

Johnston moves into the Garden the 15th of this month to take complete charge of boxing, vice president and general manager at a $25,000 a year salary, plus a chunk of stock, and he brings with him a rejuvenated heavyweight division. As soon as he is settled he plans to match Sharkey and Carnera for a return battle indoors this winter. He also plans another Sharkey-Tommy Loughran go and a bout between Carnera and Paulino Uzcuden.

Not since the wild-eyed sailor smashed down the black menace, old Harry Wills, just five years ago to the night, and immediately catapulted himself into the front ranks of the heavyweights, has Ebbets Field seen a battle to equal Sharkey's latest conquest.

Sharkey's victory was every bit as important as his defeat of the big Negro. Earlier this summer he fought a miserable fifteen-round draw there with an overstuffed middleweight, Mickey Walker. He had fouled Max Schmeling when pulses were racing and temples drawn for a great spectacle, over a year ago. A rank in-and-outer, hailed as a great fighter if he only would, Sharkey went into the ring with the vast Venetian on sufferance as a heavyweight contender for the last time.

Rejuvenated Sharkey Hailed as "Great."

He came out rejuvenated, hailed again as a great boxer and a merciless, destructive puncher. He whaled the huge bulk of the Italian for fifteen rounds, flooring him once in a riotous session in the fourth round in which Primo might have been disqualified for going down to take the full benefit of a nine count without being hit after he already had pulled himself groggily to his feet at "six." Only the Italian's courage and ability to absorb punishment saved him.

Meanwhile Carnera has answered his critics in fair fashion. He is something other than a huge circus freak, possessed of the largest body in modern fight history. He is faster than most fighters half his size, he has been perfectly schooled in defense, he has unlimited courage, tremendous strength and stamina.

But it seems conclusive now that Primo never will be a puncher, despite his size. He stabs neatly with a left jab, but his right hand, backed by 261 pounds of muscle and bone, is no more damaging than the boisterous shove of a subway guard.

Columbia Clubwomen Face Golf Semifinals

The semifinalists in the contest for the women's championship of the Columbia Country Club, to be played this morning, are Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, former club champion, Mrs. J. W. Beller, and Mrs. Norman B. Frost vs. Mrs. S. F. Colladay, who is also a former title holder. Mrs. Colladay survived by virtue of winning on the nineteenth hole from Mrs. H. King Cornwell. The summary:

First flight—First round—Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes defeated Miss Elizabeth Brawner, 4 and 2; Mrs. J. W. Beller defeated Mrs. Dorothy Marr, 2 up; Mrs. Norman B. Frost defeated Mrs. H. R. Quinter, 5 and 4; Mrs. S. F. Colladay defeated Mrs. H. K. Cornwell, 1 up, 19 holes.

Second flight—First round—Mrs. George T. Bell defeated Mrs. Herman Stabler, 5 and 4; Mrs. E. D. Grewson defeated Mrs. A. S. Gardiner, 4 and 3; Mrs. William S. Corey defeated Mrs. Charles R. White, 7 and 5; Mrs. Frank Tomlinson defeated Mrs. J. Curtis Walker, jr., 3 and 2.

G. W. Back Field Threat

ARTHUR KRIEMELMEYER,

185-pound full back, whose forte is punting and line plunging, will be in the George Washington back field Friday night against Tulsa University. A Tech High graduate, Kriemelmeyer's play has been one of the bright features of the Colonials' early campaign.

Davis-Elkins to Play West Va. for Charity

Elkins, W. Va., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Davis and Elkins College today agreed to meet West Virginia University in a postseason charity football game proposed by the West Virginia division of the Salvation Army. Davis-Elkins and the university severed athletic relations two years ago.

Harry A. Stansbury, athletic director of the university, said he had not received any formal request for the charity game and had no comment on the proposal.

Pitch-and-Putt Golf Event for Schoolboys

The Welfare and Recreational Association will stage a pitch and putt golf tournament, open to high school boys, on the last day of the month and November 1. Seventy-two holes of medal play, 36 a day, will be the order of play.

The tournament will be run as a team event. Each school is permitted to put in a team of six players. The winning outfit receives individual prizes and a trophy for the school.

Entries are being received by Winfree Johnson, 1046 New Navy Building.

Big Kentucky Team Plays Old Liners

Wildcats Fresh From 45-0 Victory Over W. & L. Eleven.

G. W. to Face Tricky Foe in Tulsa U. Friday Night.

By JACK ESPEY.

DARK threats against the undefeated records of George Washington and Maryland loom in the games these institutions have scheduled this week-end with Tulsa and Kentucky, respectively. On the basis of past performances the two Capital elevens will upset the dope if they continue their winning streaks, each of which lists three victories.

Tulsa will bring a heavy, fast team to Griffith Stadium Friday night to battle George Washington. This is the team, with one or two new faces, which beat the Colonials at Tulsa last year by 14 to 6. Kentucky will appear on Saturday at College Park against Maryland with the reputation of being one of the five strongest elevens in the Southern Conference, numbering 22 teams.

With "Ish" Pilkington, 190-pound fullback, and Bill Volok, 220-pound guard, Tulsa has defeated the powerful Texas Christian outfit among others this year. Sports scribes in the Southwest, especially in the State of Oklahoma, are boosting this pair of giants for all-America ranking. That Coach Gus Henderson's crew accomplished something by turning back T. C. U. may be inferred from the fact that the Christians lost only two games in 1930 and held the Southwest Conference championship in 1929.

Kentucky to Outweigh Maryland.

Hendrix and Oklahoma Baptist, Tulsa's other victims of the early season, were beaten, respectively, by scores of 26-0 and 25-0. Those results, however, shed little light on Tulsa's ranking.

Kentucky, conqueror of Washington and Lee by a 45-0 count last Saturday, will place a team on the College Park field that will outweigh Curley Byrd's Old Liners by an average of 10 pounds to the man. At the center position the Wildcats' advantage will be tremendous, with Scale, their snapper-back, weighing 220, and John Mitchell, of Maryland, tipping the indicator at 50 pounds less. If Skippy Faber gets into the game for Maryland, Scale will be benefitted by another 10-pound margin.

But while holding an edge in avoirdupois, Kentucky will not suffer for lack of speed, for reports of its tussle with Washington and Lee included several long runs and numerous pass interceptions. W. and L. tossed passes after pass, but the Wildcats either intercepted or batted down 75 per cent of them.

Pixlee Drives Charges As Byrd Eases Pace.

Preparations in the local camps are being pursued along different lines. Coach Jim Pixlee is giving his Colonials hard work in large doses, while Curley Byrd is easing his men along hoping to avert injuries. The Marylanders, however, reached top form more than a week ago, so there is not as much necessity for hard training on their part as in the case of the Colonials.

Johnny Fenlon, Colonial quarter back, suffered another injury yesterday to his already battered ankle. In carrying the ball during scrimmage he fell across the legs of a team mate and had to be carried from the field. Whether he is likely to face Tulsa will be determined today when X-ray pictures will be taken to learn if the injury is a fracture or sprain.

Prospects are bright for large attendances at these games. George Washington and Tulsa not only will be holding the stage alone but will be playing the initial night game of the season as well. Many of the curious should be out to augment the regular fans. Prices of tickets for each attraction, by comparison with the Navy-Maryland prices last Saturday, are "depressionistic."

BALL HELPED CARDS, SAYS HEYDLER

Gives Team Credit for Adapting Tactics to Deader Ball.

(This is the first of two interviews with John A. Heydler, president of the National League, in which he describes the effect of the less lively baseball.)

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—When the National League fathers, with nothing more important to do for the moment, decided last winter to take a little of the exuberance out of their official pellet, they didn't have the slightest idea they were writing a very important chapter in baseball history.

They just advised the manufacturer to stick on a little more leather, sew it up with one more strand than had been customary and deliver a few thousand gross in the spring. Then they promptly forgot all about it. They might have continued to forget about it but for the St. Louis Cardinals, who literally rode to a world championship on that momentous memorandum.

But, let John A. Heydler, president of the National League, tell you about it.

Could Not Foresee Vast Difference.

"I didn't have any idea what we were doing to the game," he admitted today while neatly stacking a pile of congratulatory telegrams that had poured into league headquarters. The one from Connie Mack, venerable manager of the defeated Athletics, he placed on top.

"All we did was have them add about a paper-thickness of leather and bind the ball with four strands of thread instead of three. Of course, we though it might make a slight difference in favor of the pitchers, but didn't foresee it would change the whole game and give us our first championship since 1926.

"That's what it did, though. The Cardinals realized what had been done, they adapted themselves to that new ball quicker than the other clubs, based their attack and defense on it and fought their way to the title.

"But that's not the last of it. It has definitely put the game back where it was ten or twelve years ago, where a fast, quick-thinking club like the Cardinals has the advantage. The era of slugging is over so far as the National League is concerned. Only two of our teams, the Cardinals and the Giants, really adapted themselves to the new ball this year, but every manager in the league will be playing it for all it's worth next season.

BOWIE SEEKS MATCH RACE FOR $20,000

Purse Offered Owners of Top Flight and Burning Blaze.

Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 13.—At a conference between officials of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association, conducting the Bowie racing, which included J. P. Boyle, T. K. Lynch and Joseph McLennan, it was decided to offer a purse of $20,000 for a special race for C. V. Whitney's fast filly, Top Flight, unbeaten in six stake races, and the Valley Lake Stable's Burning Blaze, foremost of the juvenile colts, to be arranged for the Bowie meeting in November.

The arrangements for the special, coupled with an invitation to the owners of the best of the 2-year-olds, will be forwarded to Mr. Whitney and P. E. Nash at once. This special would create widespread interest, once arranged. Top Flight is expected to start in the Selima for fillies, and will start in the Pimlico Futurity. Big Blaze is not eligible to the Futurity. Hence a special is the only chance of a meeting of the two.

J. E. Widener's Mr. Sponge, which lowered the 6-furlong record in the Capital Handicap last week, may press the mile mark in the $10,000 Laurel Handicap. He worked an easy mile this morning in 1:43. His running mate, Curate, stepped the distance in 1:42. W. R. Coe's Carusa breezed five-eighths in 1:03. Clock Tower breezed a mile in 1:50.

The Breeders Futurity, $5,000 added, to be run for the first time Saturday, is expected to attract a capacity field. It is for Maryland bred 2-year-olds. Step Lix worked a half in 0:51 2-5 this morning, training for this Futurity.

Seagram horses will arrive from Canada Thursday.

A. C. Bostwick's Mate arrived at Pimlico yesterday from Chicago. Mate will be pointed for the Maryland Handicap.

The sum of $438,000 was handled by the pari-mutuels yesterday, a high mark for a Monday.

John J. Fitzgerald, turf writer for the Morning Telegraph, was called to New York by the news of the illness of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzgerald, who died soon after his arrival.

Willie Harvey, veteran jockey who has ridden for years on Maryland tracks, was seriously injured at Jamaica yesterday when Rubberneck fell with him.

Yale's Tribute to Stagg To Take Form of Licking For His Team, Elis Hope

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 13.—Admittedly the Yale Football Team played one of those now-what-am-I-supposed-to-do-games against the University of Georgia last Saturday. Some of the boys disrecalled their lessons, some of them got in Albie Booth's way, the backs had to scoop up a lot of grounders on the passes from center and the whole line was a long way short of the Georgia line in proficience.

The difference between the Georgia line and the Yale line may be accounted for by the fact that Yale didn't start practicing until September 15, whereas Georgia was at work two weeks earlier. This reason is freely suggested at Yale, where there is a strong pull between the tendency to deemphasize football and the old Yale pride in the varsity.

The presidents of Yale, Harvard, and Princeton agreed to defer football practice until September 15, forgetting, however, or ignoring the fact that their respective teams would be meeting other teams every year whose practice began much earlier. Now that the Yale varsity has begun the serious business of the season with an emphatic defeat by one of those early-practicing teams, it is natural of the Yales to wonder how much better their team and how different the score might have been if Yale had begun football practice the day Georgia started.

Certainly, after this short week's additional work and last week's experience with the rebels, the Yales will be much more coherent when they meet the University of Chicago in Chicago next Saturday in a game which will take the character of an unprecedented testimonial to a coach, A. A. Stagg. It is a strange mission which takes Yale to Chicago for one of those rare Yale forays beyond the limit of a $3 railroad ticket.

They are going West to honor Stagg, who is a Yale, himself, of the class of 1888, and their idea of a signal honor to the old man is a licking for his current football team.

Beyond the ivy covered walls and one historic old saloon, now converted to sinless purposes, where an exhuberant fellow-student once almost pressed a glass of beer to Lon Stagg's lips while celebrating Lon Stagg's

Street Gives Team Full Credit, Telling Hosts He Is Lucky Man

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—When Max Bishop's fly settled into the hands of "Pepper" Martin for the last putout of the world series, and the St. Louis Cardinals became 1931 champions of the Baseball universe, Charles E. (Gabby) Street, Card manager, said to himself:

"Gabby, you're a lucky man. You've only done what other bush league managers might do if they got the breaks."

Street related this at a business men's luncheon today honoring him, and gave all the credit for the victory to his team.

"You know, I don't care how smart the manager, he has to have the men to win for him," continued the 49-year-old manager, unspoiled by success. "A baseball team makes the manager; the manager doesn't make the team. What a manager can do is promote harmony, keep the players hustling and handle his pitchers properly.

"In the series last year I knew I was just a bush league manager playing against Connie Mack, and I let that fact cause me to play conservative baseball. I didn't take chances. I decided to be different this year. We threw caution to the winds. And it worked, didn't it?"

Street said the world series hero, Martin, had earned a raise in salary, was not merely a "flash in the pan," and was of a type to take his success without letting it unsettle him.

Mad Play, Winner of $136,000, Trails $450 Platers, Ruled Off

COLLINSVILLE, Ill., Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Mad Play, famous race horse of other years, will run in no more cheap plater races, at least at Fairmount Park.

The entry clerk today had this ruling from the stewards:

"Reject entry of Mad Play for future races.

"He has kept the faith."

Winner of approximately $136,000 in purses while racing under the colors of Harry F. Sinclair's Rancocas Stable, old Mad Play, under new owners, was entered Saturday in the last race on the program, with victory worth only $450 to the winner.

Twelve horses went to the post, a field which in another day would have caused the gallant old thoroughbred no trouble whatever, but he could get no farther to the front than fourth, and he passed the judges' stand with six horses ahead of him. As he passed the stand he went lame. Jockey Dubois eased him up as carefully as he could, and when the old horse came to a stop at the clubhouse turn, the jockey hopped off and led him back to the judges' stand.

The stewards knew what Mad Play had done in his day—knew that he richly deserved pleasant pasture, but they couldn't arbitrarily order the horse to pasture. They could and did, however, rule that the entry clerk reject entry of Mad Play for future races.

RISQUE WINS LAUREL POCAHONTAS HANDICAP BY LENGTH

Steffen Rides Favorite to Victory

Withstands Challenge of Polly Play in Stretch Drive.

Sun Thorn Pays $20 Mutuel in Winning Fourth Race.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL RACE TRACK, Oct. 13.—Mrs. John D. Hertz's entries ran first and third in the Pocahontas Handicap for fillies and mares. Risque, with E. Steffen up, winning, and Valenciennes getting third. Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Polly Play was second.

This was the feature of a good day of racing under most pleasant conditions, witnessed by a large crowd. The field was reduced to five starters by the scratching of Con Amore. This took from the Hertz entry the most dangerous competition. There being but four interests involved, no show betting was permitted. The winning entry was odds-on favorite, paying $3.60.

Risque won by a length. The winner of the rich Alabama Stakes at Saratoga led all the way in the Pocahontas, and hung up the good time of 1:43 2-5 for a mile and 70 yards. Valenciennes leaped into the air as the barrier was sprung and was last most of the way, but she ran a fast finish through the stretch and was only beaten for place by a length.

Measure was contender on the back stretch until Polly Play rushed up second.

Eager Play Scores In Sixth Race.

Eager Play was another favorite to score, winning the sixth race by a length and on his own courage, V. Roussell, the jockey, disdaining the whip. Kadiak was second and Fetish third. The winner was favorite, paying $5.60. He ran the mile and a furlong in 1:52 4-5. Eager Play won last week and there was some criticism of the race. He ran better today. Kadiak went to the front on the back stretch, but Eager Play was leading through the stretch.

Mrs. W. L. Brodie's Sun Thorn, well ridden by N. Godfrey, Washington lad and apprentice, upset three favorites to win the fourth race by a neck. M. Garner, on Bubola, was second and D. Meade brought Your Flag in third. The winner paid $20. Sun Thorn raced Bunama into submission and took the track, but just lasted to win. The winner's time was 1:46 1-5, a mile and a sixteenth. Bubola was backed to favoritism, but Your Flag and Angry Plume were short priced also.

Greentree Stable Has a Winner.

The Greentree Stable's luck changed at this track, and Bird Nest, Kurtsinger up, won the third race for maiden 2-year-old fillies. Boscobel, from the Sylvester Labrot Stable, finished second, beaten three-fourths of a length. Big America, in the field group, was third, a neck back. The winner, off the early pace, showed good speed from the sixteenth, and paid $11.80. Donnella ran out. Boscobel was favorite. Big America, showing her usual early speed, led the field to the top of the stretch. They were timed in 1:13 1-5.

Valley Lake Stable's Grand Prince won the second race by a neck from Capt. Parr's Dunlin's Lad, nipping Harvey Pierce's The Heathen for place by a nose in an upset which did not please the large crowd. The Heathen, favorite, which led from the start to the sixteenth, was all in at the finish, when both Grand Prince and Dunlin's Lad passed him. Portcodine was close to the early pace. He was displaced by Grand Prince, W. Garner up, and never let up. The winner paid $12.60. Time, 1:12 4-5.

Boots and Saddle's
(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)
—Laurel Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 13.—The $5,000 added Chevy Chase Steeplechase Handicap has attracted the best field of jumpers so far seen in action, and will be run as the third race tomorrow. Fanciers of steeplechase races and society leaders of the hunting set will come from miles away for the fashionable Chevy Chase.

Nine horses make up the field of the Chevy Chase. Beacon Hill, which C. V. Whitney had sent down for this race, is an absentee, because while working out over the course he went down and showed a dislike for the hard infield.

INDIGO appears best for the 2 miles through the field, with 4 pounds advantage over BEELZEBUB, which carries top weight of 160 pounds. The fact that Mr. Widener's Arc Light, the best jumper in his string, remains in the barn shows the stable's confidence in INDIGO. BEELZEBUB has won several large stakes in the cross-country sport, and should be a keen contender. ICICLE is best of the others. ARGONAUT ran well Monday. The rearrangement of the fences on the steeplechase course here makes a big difference with horses not accustomed to the change, and speed counts more than jumping here, where the fences are lower than at many other tracks.

FIRST RACE—BARCELONA PETE is on edge, has finished third in his two last races, and should win the opener. LADFIELD has run in the money several times, but seems not to improve, and was outrun by BARCELONA PETE in their most recent outing. He should be the contender. DUTCH FLIER showed speed at Havre de Grace, and has worked well.

SECOND RACE—The second race also is for 2-year-olds, but is at a mile, and the Sagamore Stable's MEA probably will go the route. She won two races at Saratoga in faster company than she meets in this. MEA is named for Mrs. Margaret Emerson Amory, owner of the Sagamore Stable, and the filly's name is a combination of Mrs. Amory's initials. BRANDON ROSE is rated the contender. She was third to Sir Jonathan in New York last week. WORTHINGTON is better than his last race shows.

FOURTH RACE—The fourth race also is for 2-year-olds and is at a mile. BLUE DAMSEL, third to The Crane last week, looks best, and her winning would give Max Hirsh a double if he lands the first with Barcelona Pete. LADINO is rated next best and won at Havre de Grace. PHANTOM ROCK won his last, which was in New York, and probably is dangerous.

FIFTH RACE—SUN MEADOW is selected for the Georgetown, fifth race and secondary feature. This colt has been rated third among this year's 3-year-olds, next to Twenty Grand and Mate. He is in light and should win all the way. FOLLOW ON is a consistent horse and won his last Laurel race. He should be the contender. REPENTANCE surprised by defeating Black Majesty and Balko on Monday and should get third.

SIXTH RACE—FAIR BETH stands out in the sixth race. She was beaten a nose by Strongheart last out. DOCTOR RANKIN is obviously the contender, with RED TAM having a chance to show.

SEVENTH RACE—WORKLESS is best in the curtain race, made up of cheap horses. WAYFARER'S last gives him the call for place, and FOUNDATION STONE should improve, and is picked for third.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SOME KNIGHT, $6.70, $3.70, 2.90; LINE OF FIRE, $4.40, $3.00; SHIVA, $3.30.

SOME KNIGHT moved into command after the first sixteenth mile, drew clear when approaching the turn, and held sway thereafter. LINE OF FIRE, slow to get going, worked his way up on the outside and finished courageously in the final test. SHIVA followed in nearest pursuit of the early pace, made a strong effort entering the home stretch, but was not good enough. TRICYCLE saved ground entering the home stretch and held on well. COUNTRY TOM, sluggish in the opening furlong, improved his position steadily during the final stages. CHOSEN PAL made up a lot of ground. WISE SELLER weakened after moving into contention.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:20. Off at 2:26½. Winner, Valley Lake Stable's b. g. (5), by Baby Grand—Slim Princess. Trained by J. B. Partridge. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48, 1:12 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GRAND PRINCE, $12.60, $4.80, $2.80; DUNLIN'S LAD, $3.40, $2.50; THE HEATHEN, $2.80.

GRAND PRINCE began quickly, raced along stoutly to force a stiff early pace, gained a slight lead at the final furlong pole and, withstanding a tedious drive, just lasted long enough. DUNLIN'S LAD, hurried into contention, was forced wide into the home stretch when moving up, came with a determined effort and finished strongest of all. THE HEATHEN, hustled hard from the start, saved ground wherever possible and continued stoutly after being displaced. BACCIOCCO had a lot taken out of him to reach a forward position and he failed to improve his position in the closing drive.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300. For maiden 2-year-old fillies. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:55. Off at 3:03½. Winner, Greentree Stable's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BIRD NEST, $11.80, $5.00, $3.30; BOSCOBEL, $4.00, $2.60; BIG AMERICA (field), $4.30.

BIRD NEST, securing racing room next the inner rail directly after the break, raced to a commanding position, wore BIG AMERICA down when straightened away into the home stretch and outstayed BOSCOBEL. Latter stoutly urged from the beginning, closed gamely under punishment. BIG AMERICA displayed good speed and held on gamely for the final issue. DARK CHARMER was unable to improve her position. DONNELLA lacked early speed. RISK, a distant trailer early, closed an immense gap and was racing strong near the finish. HAPPEN had no mishaps.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:35. Off at 3:36½. Winner, Mrs. W. L. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUN THORN, $20.00, $6.40, $4.50; BUBOLA, $3.20, $2.60; YOUR FLAG, $3.10.

SUN THORN, rated along until midway of the back stretch, reached BUNAMA after five furlongs, saved ground when taking command and, holding on resolutely, outstayed BUBOLA. Latter moved up sharply when put to a drive, drew even terms with the winner at the final furlong pole, but hung during the final sixteenth mile. YOUR FLAG, rated close up, was unable to reach the first two in the final drive. MUSKODAY passed tiring horses. ANGRY PLUME appeared to sulk.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $2,000. The Pocahontas Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward, fillies and mares. Start good from stalls for all but Valenciennes. Won handily, place, driving. Went to post at 4:10. Off at 4:14½. Winner, Mrs. J. D. Hertz's b. f. (3), by Stimulus—Risky Time. Trained by W. Knapp. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $400; third, $200. Two-dollar mutuels paid—RISQUE (entry), $3.60, $2.20, out; POLLY PLAY, $3.60, out; VALENCIENNES (entry), out.

RISQUE outran her field to the first turn, was allowed to race on her own courage for the first six furlongs, was shaken up stoutly when approaching the home stretch and was under strong urging at the finish. POLLY PLAY saved ground at both turns, made repeated efforts and came with excellent courage in the closing furlong. VALENCIENNES, handled at the barrier, was freed too break out of hand and into the air when the start came. She was put to pressure early and showed a winning effort. MEASURE, well up from the start, weakened in the final quarter mile.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:40. Off at 4:41½. Winner, Mrs. H. L. EAGER PLAY, close up from the start, assumed command when leaving the back stretch and held KADIAK safe in the final drive. Latter took the lead without effort when moving into the back stretch, raced close to the inner rail throughout and continued gamely. STAR LASSIE could not menace the leaders when called on. FETISH had speed in spots. COLONEL CRUMP tired after seven furlongs.

BOB'S PLAY, kept forwardly placed from start, displaced the leaders leaving the back stretch, was steadied in front thereafter and held TANTALIZING safe. WESTERN TO REGAIN FORMER STARS

Draper, Payne Return to School

Full Back and End to Be Eligible After Nov. 3.

Business Will Have Heavy Line Friday in Series Opener.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

COACH DAN AHERN, grid master of Western High, has a couple of aces up his sleeve, which he will lay on the table of the high school football series once the first advisory period is past. Jim Draper and Bill Payne, a full back and an end, have returned to Western, scene of their first football days. Both big, and veterans, Draper and Payne played last year for Emerson Institute. Both were all-high in 1929 with Western.

Western needs them badly. Draper, one of the hardest plunging high school backs in the last five years, will give punch to a back field whose only thrust is in Jackie Lynham, a 130-pound half back, and big Bernie Buscher, a reformed end, not yet versed in the ways of the ball carriers. Draper retains his unorthodox method of hitting the line almost upright, but has the weight and the speed to overcome this in high school football.

Pair to Miss First Two Games.

Payne is a big, fast boy, almost of college age, who will more than fill Buscher's empty spot on end. Neither boy is eligible to play against Business Friday, nor Tech October 23, but will be in the Eastern game, November 3, and the Central game, November 13.

Things are beginning to look up at Eastern, where Mike Kelley is experimenting with new plays and players. Tony Palmer, a sophomore track man, is developing like a mushroom at the Budweiser plant. The hefty boy has plenty of leg drive and was cracking a second team's line yesterday for consistent gains of 15 and 20 yards. Eastern's other forte is a new aerial attack, with young Bert Metzler doing the spiraling.

The Eastern line this year, an experienced crew, is being coached by Bill Heintz, former Maryland University regular.

Heavy Business Line To Face Western.

Business has a couple of surprises for Western Friday when the two open the high school series at Central Stadium. The Stenog line actually averages around 170-175, with several experienced men in the pits, including Bobby Cook, center, and Bert Kalinsky, guard. Kalinsky weighs 200 and Cook 180. Flynn and Keller are the mainstays of the back field. Flynn, a near 200 pounder, is playing for the first year, but is a natural gridder. Keller is smaller and somewhat reminiscent of Bill Duryee, spark plug of the team last year.

Gloom still pervades Tech. Hatos and Gormley, regular backs, are injured and the old Tech plays have not been clicking. But the team and its coaches are worrying about only one team in the bunch, Central, which, most followers of scholastic football will agree, is enough.

Gonzaga takes on its third public high team tomorrow when Eastern is played at Eastern.

HEYDLER SAYS CARDS PLAYED SMART GAME

"Will the American League follow our lead and further deaden its ball? There's no telling. Maybe they think their ball is all right. After all, there is not a great deal of difference. They took some of the life out of their's, too.

"The three world series games at Philadelphia proved there wasn't much difference in the balls. They used the American League ball there, and those were the best-pitched games of the series.

"That dashing, spectacular game the Cardinals played to demoralize the Athletics wasn't thought up on the spur of the moment. They had been playing that way since the middle of the season, running the bases smartly and going for one run all the time. Gabby Street realized he didn't have a team of sluggers, but he did have speed to burn, so he built his attack around it. The Athletics hadn't been playing against that kind of baseball.

Steals Carefully Planned.

"Maybe some of the fans thought those steals of third base by Martin and Hafey were accidents. They weren't. They were carefully worked out plays the Cardinals used regularly. So was that play in the last game, where Watkins scored from third base after Orsatti had struck out and made Cochrane throw to first. I saw them win a game with the same play during the regular season. They were dangerous even when they were striking out. They made speed a factor in every play, and that's why they won.

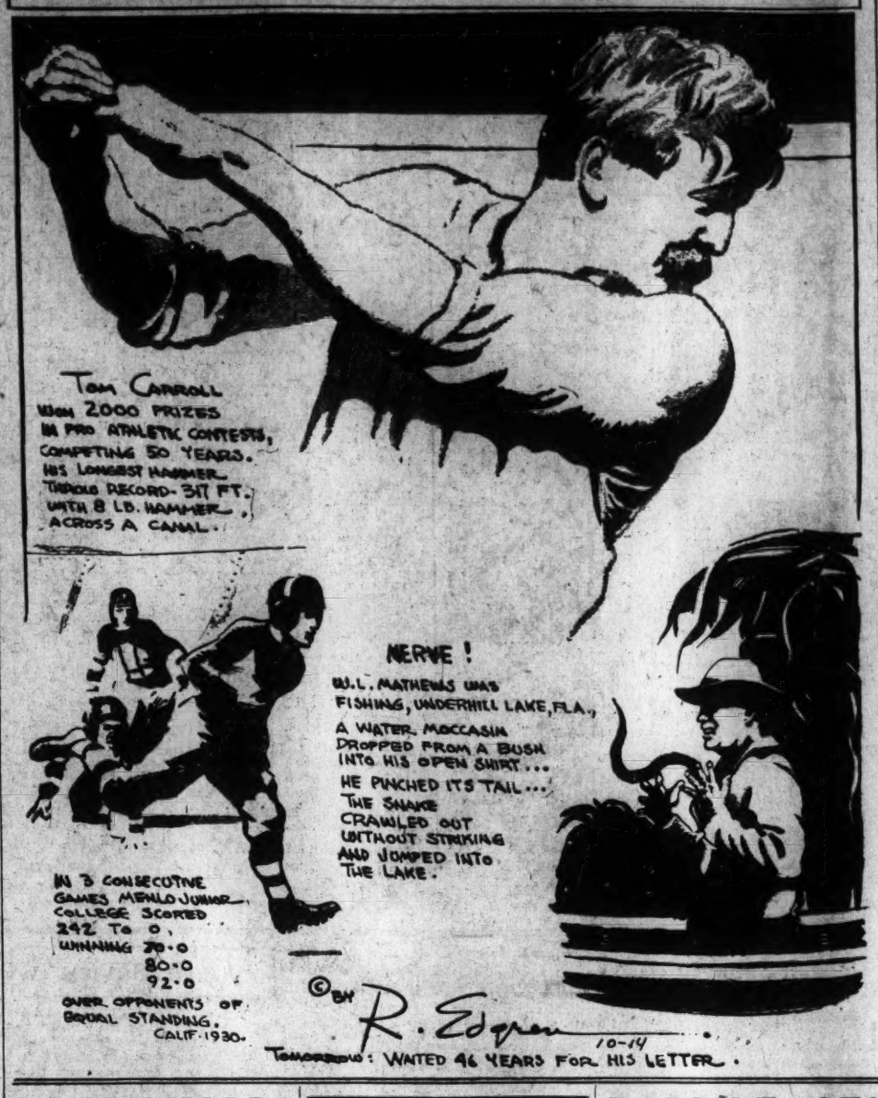
MIRACLES OF SPORTS. —By Robert Edgren



SOUTH HOLDS FOOTBALL STAGE

Alabama - Tennessee, Vanderbilt-Tulane in Feature Frays.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13 (U.P.).—Now that the world series has been tucked away in old lace and lavendar, the Nation's football fans will, for the first time this year, be able to devote their undivided attention Saturday to the gridiron. It would have been just as well if the football customers had had something else to occupy their minds for a few more days, for Saturday's schedule is something of a let-down.

A let down—that is, save in the South, where two red-hot games are scheduled. One of these throws Vanderbilt's crack eleven, conquerers of Ohio State, against Tulane. Vandy, with one of the strongest and biggest squads in its history, will probably start the game a favorite, but Tulane packs heavy guns from end to end and is given a sound chance of spoiling Vanderbilt's hopes for an undefeated season.

Alabama Faces Tennessee.

The other Southern standout pits Alabama against Tennessee. This game has the Southern boys and girls talking in their sleep, and even in their sleep they admit that picking the winner, like jumping out of an airplane without a parachute, is not only foolish, but downright dangerous.

These two games, with the Army-Harvard tiff at West Point, hold the distinction of being the standout games of the day. Certainly the Midwest, Southwest, Far West and East have nothing to offer in the way of real competition. The Midwest's best games are Yale vs. Chicago, Michigan versus Ohio State, Wisconsin versus Purdue, and Indiana versus Iowa. Notre Dame plays Drake and will attract attention simply because Notre Dame is Notre Dame.

Other Eastern games include Cornell vs. Princeton, Columbia vs. Dartmouth, N. Y. U. vs. Rutgers, Fordham vs. Holy Cross, and Navy vs. Delaware.

American to Dedicate New Gridiron Saturday

Dedication of the new American University athletic field will precede the American-High Point football game scheduled Saturday, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. The flag will be raised to the accompaniment of music by the newly organized school band and a series of "stunts" by members of the undergraduate body.

The game will mark the opening of American's home campaign. High Point is repaying a visit the Eagles made last year when they played to a 6-6 deadlock. This year again the teams appear evenly matched, both having been beaten by Lynchburg College by a small margin.

Coach Walter Young withdrew the American regulars in the late stages against Hampden-Sidney last Saturday in order to save them for this clash.

JOHNSON TO PILOT NATS NEXT SEASON

he has been scouring the minors and the waiver lists for a right-handed hitting outfielder which he believes will round out his batting order.

More strength, too, is needed in the box. Marberry and Crowder proved the only consistent winners last season with the failure of Jones, Fischer and Liska a blow to Johnson's hopes. It is from among his minor league purchases that Griffith hopes to strengthen his mound staff.

The status of Joe Judge, veteran first baseman who was supplanted in the line-up last season by Joe Kuhel, is unchanged. "I will trade Judge as I would trade any other player if I could benefit from the deal," Griffith said.

Hitting —The— Head Pin

PAULY HARRISON, junior doubles champion of the country, hung up the season's high set mark last night at Arcadia when he knocked 441 pins loose from their moorings in his three-game duties with the Cool Drinks team of the Columbia Heights League. He was the mainspring in his team's 3-0 defeat of Paramount Paint Co.

Crashing down pins at the rate of 148, 156, and 137, Harrison stood head and shoulders above his colleagues and rivals, the nearest to him being Vitale with 123, 108 and 129. Cool Drinks shot 581, 589 and 579 to 516, 573 and 536 for the Paint pinmen.

The promising young Lucky Strike Midgets open their season Friday night at Silver Spring when they engage the midget team of that township in the first of a series of six games. The Luckies are made up of Martin Drain, Dick Harvey, Bob Fookes, Charles Ramsey and Nick Rinaldi. The opposition has not completed its team, but virtually assured of berths are Howser, Mooney and Falconer.

The closest sort of competition rose in The Washington Post League yesterday afternoon at Lucky Strike. Pearls nosed out Agates 484, 489 and 466 to 450, 438 and 447; Rubies took all three from Gothic, 472, 559 and 477 to 471, 441 and 457; Minions took two out of three from Ionic 435, 492 and 460 to 424, 447 and 492, while Pica was the same degree better than Quad, 488, 484 and 484 to 483, 452 and 502.

Good scores were produced last night as the Washington Ladies League completed another step on their long schedule. Beeques took two from Shamrock, aided by the bowling of Billie Butler and Catherine Quigley, who shot 338 and 336 sets respectively. Hilltoppers topped University Park by the same degree, largely because of Lorraine Gulli's 334 set, while Columbians and Keenos were 3 to 0 better than Veterans Administration and the Cardinals.

Temple failed to improve its standing in the National Capital League last night at Lucky, as the unsung Rinaldi Tailors reached up from well down the lists and gave the league leaders a 2-to-1 pasting. The bowling was not spectacular, even Reds Megaw dropping below 100. Rinaldi's 115, 129, 121—365 set was the best of the night. Nicro's 143 game captured individual honors.

Hecht Co. had to bowl itself a pretty mess of pin tippling last night at Recreation to beat Lucky Strike three games to none. Scores were 635, 593 and 560 to 547, 552 and 526. Maxie Rosenberg, of the winners, led the boys with a 159 game, but for consistency Litchfield of the same team topped all with a 122, 148, 119—389 set.

In the Commerce Ladies League last night Mines beat Aeronautics 2 to 1; Transportation took two from Standards No. 1; Regional was 2 to 1 better than Personnel; Standards No. 2 beat Domestic Commerce, 2 to 1, and Aeronautics Trade took all three from Statistics.

Frankie Hines and "Hokey" Smith set the pace in the King Pin Business Men's League last night. Hines, of Union Wall Paper, bowled a 151 game as his team took two from Nationals. Smith rolled a 380 set to lead his team to a 2-1 victory over the combination of Fletcher, Grohman, Voss and Stewarts.

In the other matches Chestnut Farms rallied strongly in the last game to win, 2-1, over National Lithographers, and Hecht Annex subdued Lansburghs by the same score. Hecht itself ran roughshod over the First Americans.

It was a bad night for Lansburghs, for in the Ladies' Independent League the team dropped two out of three to Columbia No. 14. Kann's licked Capital, 3-0, and Navy forfeited to Tip Tops.

BARRY FACES GREATEST TEST

Concedes Experience, Height and Weight to Gallagher.

THEY are making the hurdle higher in each succeeding bout that Reds Barry, pride of Southeast, secures at Fort Washington. Next Monday night Barry will meet Marty Gallagher, another Capital heavyweight, in an eight-round bout featuring the final outdoor show of the season.

Gallagher is more than just another Capital heavyweight, as far as Barry, at least, is concerned, for Marty has several advantages. The erstwhile Foggy Botton plumber's helper, who now campaigns among the pugilistic pachyderms under the management of Boston Dan Carroll, will have the edge on Barry in weight, height punching power and experience.

Whereas he has been fighting men either lighter or shorter than he, Barry this time will concede about 10 pounds and a couple of inches in height. Then, too, he is less experienced—by two or three years—and, as boxing experts agree, is much the lighter puncher.

Thus far this season Barry has defeated Joe Finazzo, Billy Schwartz, Billy Strickler and Frankie Wine, the first two mentioned having conceded him about 20 pounds. In two bouts with Sammy Weiss, veteran Philadelphia battler, Patsy Donovan's protege managed to hold his own, both bouts being called draws.

Local critics, especially those who have watched Gallagher in training here recently, believe that Barry's speed alone will permit him to stay the full distance with Marty. It is doubtful that any top-flight heavyweights are any faster on their feet than Barry, who can step along with lightweights when in condition.

Since both fighters are popular in their respective sections of the city, the management anticipates one of the largest crowds, if not the largest, of the season. Tickets go on sale tomorrow at Cornell's Lunch and Vic's Sport Store.

Football at Sing Sing; No Squawks by Alumni

Ossining, N. Y., Oct. 13 (A.P.). Football has come to Sing Sing, but the teams won't make any road trips.

Warden Lawes thinks the game will do the prisoners good—"teach them to play according to rules," he explained.

Two dozen football outfits have been donated. The warden said the teams would be coached by several high school and college men among the prisoners.

One advantage Warden Lawes sees in prison football over the college kind is that the alumni is hardly likely to squak about the way the team is handled.

ARMY - NAVY SEATS SELL FOR $5

$10 Set as Price of Box Seats by Academy Officials.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 13.—Tickets for the Army-Navy football game to be played December 12, for the benefit of unemployment relief fund will be priced at the flat rate of $5 for grandstand, and $10 for box seats, it was announced here tonight, following a conference between officials of the athletic associations of the rival academies.

The Yankee Stadium, New York, will be the scene of the conflict it was definitely determined and the conferees expressed their appreciation to Col. J. B. Ruppert, owner, for donating the use of the arena.

The ticket prices, while somewhat higher than the average admission charge at important intercollegiate competitions, are much less than last year when the service teams also met in a charity game under auspices of the Salvation Army, when the scale reached the top price of $50 for box seats.

Academies to Divide 80,000 Tickets.

Other details in connection with the game also were worked out at the conference. Time for the start of the battle was fixed for 1 o'clock, and the regiment of midshipmen of the Naval Academy, and the corps of cadets from West Point will march on the field at noon. Every detail will be in the hands of the two service institutions and sale of tickets will be conducted only by their representatives. The tickets, of which there will be some 80,000, will be divided equally between West Point and Annapolis.

Army-Navy Women's Golf Favorites Win

Favorites for the most part survived yesterday's opening round of play in the annual Army and Navy Country Club women's golf tournament, as six flights of women exponents of the game swung into action.

One of the features of the day was the near record golf of Mrs. Osborne, who negotiated the difficult course in 87 strokes, thought to be a new club record for women.

Today's play starts at 9 o'clock, with Mrs. Osborne opposing Mrs. Holtzman, followed by the remainder of the first flight and the remaining flights at 5-minute intervals.

Yesterday's results:

First flight—Mrs. Osborne defeated Mrs. Anawin, Mrs. Holtzman defeated Mrs. Luscombe, Mrs. Shock defeated Mrs. O'Rear, Mrs. Hedrick defeated Mrs. Barroll.

Second flight—Mrs. Noyes defeated Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Upham defeated Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Keefer defeated Mrs. Benit, Mrs. Hewitt defeated Mrs. McNair.

Third flight—Mrs. White defeated Mrs. Coxe, Mrs. Batchelder defeated Mrs. O'Hara, Mrs. Royce defeated Mrs. Garber, Mrs. Hale defeated Mrs. Glen Jones.

Fourth flight—Mrs. C. B. Moore defeated Mrs. Parker, Mrs. McConack defeated Mrs. Mueller, Mrs. McMill defeated Mrs. Merchant, Mrs. Andrews defeated Mrs. Clark.

Fifth flight—Mrs. Talley defeated Mrs. Grimes, Mrs. Anderson defeated Mrs. Seales, Mrs. Calder defeated Mrs. Sampson, Mrs. Booth defeated Mrs. Tyler by default.

Sixth flight—Mrs. Du Hamel defeated Mrs. Mahan, Mrs. Kimbrought defeated Mrs. Glenhon.

ELIS PLAN STRANGE TRIBUTE TO STAGG

brave deeds in a baseball game that afternoon, there is not much that is tangible remaining of the Yale which he attended. He hasn't even seen many Yale teams in action since he went to Chicago to coach and remained to become a moral influence because usually when Yale is playing in the East, Stagg's team is playing in the West.

Yet Yale has never ceased to claim him and he has never un-Yaled himself and some time, inevitably, there will be another monument of some kind on the great Yale athletic preserve to match the arch erected to the memory of Walter Camp. This one will be named for Lon Stagg, who didn't go for to be a football coach at all when he was young and picking his way, but went for to be a minister.

Coaches Hover Over Hard Practice.

Preparing to lick him to show how much they love him, the Yale team today went through a scrimmage tussle which Paul Barnett, the University press-agent, one of the privileged witnesses, described as the hardest practice he has ever seen.

First, for a long time, the 'varsity fought the scrub as the coaches hovered by, halting the play now and again to criticize the way both sides were doing things. Then the Blue Team played the Freshmen and scored four touchdowns, one of them on the same low, short pass from Booth to Barres that scored Yale's only touchdown against Georgia. Albie missed two kicks for points after touchdowns, incidentally. Naturally with the varsity themselves still none too certain of their movements in the new and mysterious figures of the combined Rockne-Warner-Hawley offensive, the Freshmen could not be expected to anticipate the plays as they developed at all. That was some progress, for last Saturday there were times when Yale's plays just seemed to occur.

Yale Still Mysterious About Practices.

Yale is one of the few schools at which the coaches still make a great mystery of their practice, forbidding the ground to all but accredited members of the football establishment and Mr. Barnett explains that this is done only to avoid crowding. When Carpentier was training for the Demsey fight his practice was secret, too, still it is wise provision to avoid crowding in the bowl. There was a crowd of two newspaper correspondents on hand today, and the congestion in the amphitheater obviously might have cramped the practice.

Rarely, if ever in his three years on the team has Albie Booth taken the field in the starting line-up of a major game, but he will next Saturday at Chicago, possibly as a special compliment to Mr. Stagg. The custom has been to drum up some drama on the yard and then unveil Albie hurriedly, but this has been done so often that custom has staled the theatrical effect. It would be more effective to send him on the field at the head of his team in the beginning.

STANTONS PRACTICE.

The Stanton grid team will practice tonight at 7 o'clock on the Terminal field. Coach Sweeney expects all his huskies to report promptly.

EQUITY SUIT

STOCK PRICES REACT IN DULLER MARKETS

Average Losses at Closing Run From 2 to 5 Points; Rail Issues Sag.

New York, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—The security markets did some backtracing today. In the case of stocks a reversal of trend was probably to have been expected after the recent markups.

Speculative circles were obviously disappointed because the Interstate Commerce Commission did not announce its freight-rate decision over the week-end and also because the administration may have to defer action toward strengthening railroad bonds, as it may require congressional action. Moreover, the unsettled status of foreign affairs, especially in the Far East and Germany, contributed elements of uncertainty which Wall street felt forced to take into account.

The reaction by stocks ranged from 2 to 5 points in many instances, and the general average closed at 80.2, off 4.3. Trading, however, was the dullest since September 28, transactions totaling only 1,248,167 shares.

Rail Stocks React.

Rail stocks reacted easily. Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, and Atchison were off 5 or more. Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, Rock Island, Missouri Pacific preferred, New Haven, and New York Central lost 3 to 4, and Louisville & Nashville 7.

American Telephone, which opened a point higher, met stock and dipped 4 points. Consolidated Gas of New York was down 4⅝, closing at the bottom. North American sagged 2¼. Industrials and specialties returned numerous losses of 2 to 3 points or more. United States Steel slipped below 68 and finished 2⅜ down. American Can, General Electric, General Motors, Allied Chemical, Case, Standard Oil of New Jersey, National Biscuit, Loew's, and Woolworth, among others, attracted buyers only after sharp concessions had been made.

One of the day's surprises was the rise of nearly 40,000 cars in revenue freight loadings for the week ended October 3. Not only was the total traffic the largest of the year, but the advance was out of line with seasonal tendencies. Perhaps the general expectation of a favorable decision in the freight rate matter hastened shipments.

Heavy selling of securities by banks during the October 7 week was reflected in the $265,000,000 drop in the loan item, whereas brokers' loans declined $171,000,000 over the same period. Prices were rising in the interval covered by the report. Banks also reduced their bond investments.

Steel Trade Cheerful.

The steel trade appears to be reasonably cheerful despite some further contraction in output. "Steel" pointed out that such important consumers as the automobile makers and the railroads apparently could not much longer defer covering certain minimum requirements. That review, and "American Metal Market" as well, commented favorably on the national measures taken for restoration of confidence. Finished steel prices continue to hold.

Cotton flared up $2 to $2.50 a bale when it was learned that Southern bankers and the Federal Farm Board were supporting a plan to withhold about 7,000,000 bales from the market until next summer. There was a recession from the top, but final prices were $1.70 to $1.95 a bale higher.

Wheat was helped by favorable exports and firmness at Liverpool, but corn sold off moderately on large country offerings, and an increase in the world visible supply.

Bankers acceptance rates were advanced twice, bringing the asking rate for 90-day bills to 2¼. Call money, as had been indicated last Friday, renewed at 2 per cent for the first time since April 7.

Sterling exchange, which appears to be finding a level around $3.90, was off 2½ cents net at $3.88. The German mark, off nearly a cent, was affected by the uncertain political situation coincident with the Reichstag opening. Dutch guilders again advanced and there was considerable firmness to Belgian and Norwegian currencies.

SELLING HITS BONDS; WIDE LOSS RESULTS

Prices Sink to Lower Levels in Aggregate Turnover of $19,652,000.

New York, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—The bond market declined generally and widely today, and selling was heavy throughout the list. Sales on the stock exchange aggregated $19,652,000. Weakness was more pronounced among the railroad issues than in the industrials and public utilities. New low levels were numerous in all groups.

The pressure of liquidation was apparent from the fact that bonds of high standing such as Atchison General 4s, American Telephone 5½s of 1943, American Smelting & Refining 5s, Chicago, Burlington & Quincy 5s of 1971, Duquesne Light 4½s, New York Central new 4½s of 2013, and Union Pacific first 4s lost from 1 to 4 points on active trading.

Net losses of several of the Liberty and United States Treasury bonds exceeded 1 point, an unusually large slump for this group. The Treasury 4¼s of 1947-52 closed almost 2 points off at 105. The Treasury 3s of 1951-55 were the most active with sales approximating $1,800,000 and sales of the 3½s of 1946-49 at $1,000,000.

No doubt rising money rates had a good deal to do with the downward trend in bonds, especially in the high grade issues, the market course of which is determined normally by the course of money rates.

Foreign obligations declined irregularly but the large net losses among them were fairly numerous too. Japanese 5½s and 6½s experienced a heavy turnover. The former lost 1½ points. Sales of the latter with the seller's option of delivery in fourteen to 30 days amounts to $300,000.

The Continental Oil Co., as successor to the Marland Oil Co., announced today that all the $7,500,000 principal amount of the series D 5 per cent gold notes of the Marland Co. have been called for redemption on December 15.

BANK IN ALEXANDRIA NEARING 68TH YEAR

First National Is Improving Home as Long Success Broadens Outlook.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Sixty-seven successful years are nearly completed by the First National Bank of Alexandria, Va., which has made extensive improvements on its banking house in that neighboring historic city.

The home of this institution, the oldest national bank in Virginia, and antedating the First National Bank of Richmond by six months, has been extended rearwards, giving it 1,600 additional square feet of floor space.

The addition replaces a small rear building formerly housing a locker room for employes and the board room of the directorate. It is 40 feet deep and 45 feet wide, running the entire width of the original building.

Lobby Is Extended.

By removal of the vault 12 feet back, a 5-foot extension was permitted for the lobby and a 7-foot extension to the space between the screen. Back of the old vault is a new one for the exclusive use of safe deposit customers.

It is of the same strength as the older vault and has a 10-inch York door. The vault is modern in every particular and is lined with 2 inches of steel and 10 inches of reinforced concrete. There have been 450 safe deposit boxes added, doubling the capacity of this department.

The west side of the addition has been devoted to the use of safe deposit customers and three coupon booths and a customers' conference room have been added. The east side of the addition is occupied by the trust and bookkeeping departments and is connected with the tellers' cages by a telautograph system. The central part of the addition is occupied by the new vault.

Boardroom Is Attractive.

On the second floor of the addition, arranged as a mezzanine, there is a handsome boardroom in the central portion, a cloakroom and lavatory. The boardroom overlooks the lobby, the floor and counters of which are of French and Italian marble, respectively.

The basement of the addition is adequately equipped with stationery rooms, steel files and two storage vaults, one of which is used for trust department records and the other for silver and customers' boxes.

The organization of the bank began at a meeting held in the office of the Exchange Bank of Virginia, December 17, 1864, slightly more than six months after the act of Congress to incorporate national banks was passed. The bank opened for business at the southwest corner of Prince and Lee street, and on June 23, 1909, moved to its present building on King street, a splendid type of modern, fireproof bank architecture.

Bank's Original Officers.

Its presidents have been Lewis McKenzie, 1864-1874; S. Ferguson Beach, 1874-1891; Joseph Broders, 1891-1900; N. Lindsey, 1900; Charles R. Hooff, 1900-1909; Gardner L. Boothe, since 1909. Vice presidents of the bank have been J. M. Stewart, 1864-1877; William J. Boothe, 1877-1890; James F. Muir, 1890-1908; Gardner L. Boothe, 1908-1909; M. B. Harlow, since 1909. Cashiers of the bank have been Charles R. Hooff, 1864-1901; Thomas W. White, 1901-1907; George E. Warfield, since 1907. Additional officers at present serving the bank are A. K. Warfield and Robert G. Whitton, assistant cashiers. The present directorate is composed of President Boothe, Vice President Harlow, Cashier Warfield, Benoit Baer, jr., Harry Hammond, William A. Moore, jr., and Albert V. Bryan.

Deposits of the First National Bank of Alexandria, now ranking among the strongest national banks in the State, have grown from $795,-339.46 in 1909 to $3,065,490.03 as at close of business September 29, 1931.

Chicago Great Western K. C. Southern Stock

New York, Oct. 13 (A.P.).—Dow, Jones & Co. says that the Chicago Great Western Railway has purchased the holdings of the Allegheny Corporation in the Kansas City Southern Railroad. The purchase was made in furtherance of the Great Western's plan to create another north and south system between Chicago and the Gulf of Mexico.

ANALOSTAN ISLAND IS OFFICIALLY SOLD TO MEMORIAL BODY

Consideration of $364,000 Will Be Turned Over to Gas Company.

FORM OF CONSTRUCTION IS STILL UNDECIDED.

Bridges Will Connect Mainland With Site, Committee Announces.

Official announcement of the acquisition of Analostan Island by the Roosevelt Memorial Association as the site of a national memorial to Theodore Roosevelt, was made last night by James R. Garfield, president of the body. As was stated in The Post October 4, on the transaction, the consideration is $364,000, which will be turned over to the Washington Gas Light Co., owner of the island.

Although plans for its purchase have been concluded, Mr. Garfield's statement lacked details on what form the memorial will take, save that it will be unusual. Erection of a museum or stadium has been mentioned.

Bridges will connect the 90-acre island with the mainland on the north at Rosslyn, Va., and on the south near the Virginia end of the new memorial bridge.

Island Description.

Describing the island's topography, the association says that the land rises slowly on the northern end and sharply on the southern, some 50 feet, to a wooded plateau comprising approximately twenty acres, with a clear view toward Arlington, the Lincoln Memorial and the lower reaches of the Potomac River. The island gives an impression of wild country peculiarly appropriate as a setting for a memorial to Col. Roosevelt.

Analostan has borne many names, among them My Lord's Island, Barbadoes, Anacostian and Mason's. It was originally the property of Lord Baltimore and after several transfers, in 1777 passed into the hands of George Mason, of Gunston Hall, a signer of the Declaration of Independence and author of the Bill of Rights.

Used for Pleasure.

After the Civil War, the island was used as a pleasure resort. For a generation the island has been undisturbed. In 1913 it was acquired by the Washington Gas Light Co.

The Roosevelt Memorial Association was founded immediately after the former President's death in January, 1919, and raised a fund of $1,750,000 by popular subscription and in 1920 secured a charter from Congress.

Associated with Mr. Garfield in the project are Elihu Root, honorary president; William Loeb and Will H. Hays, vice presidents; Albert H. Wiggin, treasurer, and Hermann Hagedorn, executive director.

National headquarters of the association are in New York City.

MARYLAND D.A.R. UNVEIL MARKER

Maryland Daughters of the American Revolution yesterday unveiled a marker on the old Marshall Mansion. Left to right, Mrs. Cora Marshall Summerson, the last child to be born in the mansion; Mrs. J. G. H. Lillburn, State regent of the D. A. R., and Katherine Mertens, daughter of the custodian of the property.

MARKER IS PLACED ON MARSHALL HALL

Maryland D. A. R. Honors Mansion Built Before Mount Vernon.

The true history of Marshall Hall, across the Potomac River from Mount Vernon, was disclosed yesterday at ceremonies held by the Maryland Daughters of the American Revolution, when a marker, tracing the origin and name of the historic tract of ground, was placed on the old mansion.

Marshall Hall, one of the oldest and best preserved mansions in the country, has long been held in the minds of many as having at one time been the home of Chief Justice John Marshall, of Virginia. This, according to the organization, has been proven to be untrue.

The site, consisting of 200 acres, was purchassed by William Marshall I from the emporer of the Piscataway Indians. Thomas Hanson Marshall, of the third generation, was the outstanding master of the estate. He was a boyhood friend of George Washington and lived in the mansion at the same time Washington occupied Mount Vernon.

The history of the noted structure, as directed on the marker is as follows: This mansion was built by William Marshall II, about 1690—a half century earlier than Mount Vernon. William Marshall I obtained title to this tract of two hundred acres of John Ackelahama, the emperor of the Piscataway Indians. For six generations Marshall Hall passed from father to son—in a period of 176 years. From 1756 to 1801, Capt. Thomas Hanson Marshall, of the American Revolution, neighbor and lifelong friend of Gen. Washington, of Mount Vernon, was master of the mansion."

Mrs. Cora Marshall Somerson, now living in Washington at the Wellington Apartments, the last child born in the old mansion, was present at the exercises.

POLICEMEN ROUGH, 4 TELL GRAND JURY

Two Men Questioned in Murder Cases Third Degree Witnesses.

The grand jury investigation into alleged third-degree practices by policemen yesterday heard complaints from four persons that they had been roughly handled by the police in an attempt to obtain confessions from them.

The first of those heard yesterday were Robert E. Martz, who is accused of the murder of Irving Zirkle. During the investigation, he said, he was beaten by policemen in the First Precinct.

The case of George B. Baber, who claims that he was beaten by headquarters detectives when he was arrested as a suspect in the murder of Mrs. Lizzie Jaynes at the Garden T Shoppe, was presented to the grand jury yesterday afternoon.

It is in connection with this case that Cecil Mason and Maurice O'Connor were charged with intimidation by Department of Justice agents. They are alleged to have urged Baber to go lightly in his testimony against the police.

Other cases presented yesterday by District Attorney Leo A. Rover included those involving alleged mistreatment of Robert E. Gibbs and Ralph Ware, both colored, while they were in custody of police.

Suit Asks Damages For 3 Hurt in Auto

J. S. Prichard and Wife Made Defendants in $30,000 Action.

Damage suits totaling $30,000 were filed against John S. Prichard and his wife, Ruth Prichard, of 310 Varnum street northwest, yesterday by three persons who were injured in an automobile wrecck in which the Prichard car figured May 31.

Annabelle Rogers, 1325 Belmont street northwest, Audrey Hottel, 2148 O street northwest, and Agnes Sheetz, of the Shoreham Building, were the three and each asked for $10,000.

The claim was advanced that an automobile operated by Mr. Prichard struck and overturned an automobile in which the three were riding on the Colesille pike.

Men Who Took $3,000 Still Sought by Police

Police last night still were searching for three gunmen who, Saturday night, robbed three men, and assaulted one, in their apartment at 1026 Fifteenth street northwest, and made off with approximately $3,000.

CONNECTICUT AVE. PARKING PLEA FILED WITH COMMISSION

Modified Rule Is Asked Near Street Car Loading Platforms.

PETITION IS SIGNED BY BUSINESS MEN

Merchants Claim District Is Affected by Code Now in Effect.

An urgent plea to the District Commissioners to rescind the traffic regulation prohibiting parking of automobiles contiguous with street car loading platforms on Connecticut avenue between K and S streets was made yesterday by more than threescore business men and firms having establishments on that section of the thoroughfare.

The plea, in the form of a petition signed by all of the business men and an accompanying letter specifying reasons for the request, said that the regulation complained of is "confiscatory in character, as it destroys the value of adjacent properties" by diminishing parking space available to the business men and their patrons.

Regulation's Purpose.

Pointing out that the prime object of the regulation was to lessen accident hazards and promote the more speedy movement of traffic, the business men's petition stated the opinion that the "interests of the taxpayers should not be sacrificed to the second of these objects."

"All Washington is unhappily affected by the conditions prevailing on Connecticut avenue," the accompanying letter said. "The merchants have no money to spend in advertising and the bankruptcies and failures among business men upon that thoroughfare have been appalling."

Those signing the petition included all but one business man doing business in the area affected. The signers were:

Baby, Scalded at Play, Near Death in Hospital

Stumbling into a tub of boiling water yesterday while her mother washed clothes a few feet away, 2-year-old Alberta Jones suffered scalds which may cost her life. She was removed to Sibley Hospital after being treated by a neighborhood physician.

The child was playing in her home at 919 Fourth street northeast when the accident occurred. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mackwelch Jones.

Alleged Burglar Is Taken in Chase

Laundry Watchman Holds Man He Claims Tried to Rob Safe.

After a chase of several blocks and two hand-to-hand conflicts with a man who is said to have attempted to rob the Conger Laundry, Twenty-third street and New York avenue northwest, early yesterday, Charles Lee, of 3223 Dent place northwest, colored night watchman, finally succeeded in subduing his man and turning him over to the police.

The alleged burglar identified himself as Daniel J. McCarthy, of Salva, N. Y., and when taken to the Third Precinct is said to have confessed having attempted to rob the laundry safe. According to police the man also confessed having entered a delicatessen at 1921 H street, making off with $2.25, and to having made an unsuccessful attempt to break into the Riverside Pharmacy at 2134 New York avenue.

Lee told police that he came upon the man suddenly as he was rifling the cash register. He seized him and dragged him to a telephone while he called the police. McCarthy broke away, but Lee dashed after him and finally caught him at Twenty-second and G streets, where they engaged in a free-for-all. Police arrived on the scene at the critical moment.

THREE HIGH SCHOOL SITES IN RENO AREA ARE BEING STUDIED

One of Proposed Locations Is Valued at $192,000; 2 Under $150,000.

DECISION ON PURCHASE EXPECTED IN FEW DAYS

District Has $180,000 for Land, $60,000 for Plans; Condemnation Sought.

Negotiations are under way for the purchase of a site for the proposed senior high school in the Reno section, Maj. H. L. Robb, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, announced yesterday.

Three prospective sites in the vicinity of Reno Reservoir are being considered, he said, and a decision likely will be made within the next few days.

Funds Are Available.

The District has an appropriation of $180,000 for the purchase in addition to $60,000 for preparation of plans and specifications. One of the three sites considered is reported to be valued at $192,000, while the other two tracts are valued at varying figures, but well under $150,000.

Meanwhile condemnation proceedings are being continued in the acquisition of considerable property in the vicinity of Thirty-ninth and Fessenden streets. This land, however, is being sought as a potential location of an elementary school despite vigorous protests of adjacent property owners.

Use Not Known Yet.

No definite decision has been made as to what use the condemned land will be put, it was said. Should it be used as a site for the senior high school, as has been suggested, the area would have to be almost doubled.

The District Commissioners decided to make efforts to acquire the senior high school site at once, if possible,

Defective Brakes Blamed for Death in Hospital of James Judd.

James Judd, 27, of 61 Rhode Island avenue northeast, was fatally injured yesterday morning when he was struck and run over by an automobile at the intersection of Third and C streets southwest.

Judd was removed to Providence Hospital, where his death was said to have been caused by a fractured skull. He was pronounced dead upon arrival at the hospital.

Robert Robinson, 26, colored, of 714 Q street northwest, driver of the machine that struck Judd, was arrested and charged at the Fourth Precinct with defective brakes. Judd's body was dragged more than 100 feet before the car could be brought to a stop, police reports said.

An inquest will be held this morning at the District Morgue.

No Throne Awaits Prince's U.S. Bride

Son of Abyssinian King, Who Wed Howard Registrar, Denies Rumors.

Prince Malaku Bayen, 31, second-year medical student at Howard University, who is a nephew of Emperor Hailie Selassie I, of Abyssinia and whose marriage to Dorothy Hadley, 24, of Evanston, Ill., a registrar at the university, on September 29 at Fairfax, Va., became known yesterday, denied emphatically last night any possibility that his American bride might become Queen of Ethiopia.

The emperor, he stated, has three sons who would naturally succeed him and whose education and special training has been carefully planned for that purpose.

The bride, a former coed at Northwestern University, met Prince Malaku here through Dr. John West, Howard medical graduate, who later went to Abyssinia in interest of development of health facilities for the empire.

Burleith Citizens Seek To Be in First Cab Zone

Resolution that Burleith be represented at the taxicab zone meeting of the Public Utilities Commission and that it be included in the central taxi zone was indorsed by the Burleith Citizens Association meeting last night at Gordon Junior High School, Thirty fifth and T streets northwest.

Complaints were made that a steep embankment at Thirty-ninth and T streets northwest is receiving inadequate attention, as great quantities of earth are washed down upon the sidewalk by rains. No action was taken.

BELL CLASS HOLDS 40TH ANNIVERSARY

Calvary Church Group Hears Founder's Talk; Work of Organization Lauded.

Despite chaos and depression the world is a better place today than it was 40 years ago, Miss Anna J. Bell, founder of the Bell Sunday school class at Calvary Baptist Church, told a gathering of more than 150 last night who attended the fortieth anniversary celebration of the class at the church.

Citing President Hoover's advice for courage as the chief need today, Miss Bell said that "if we have the vision to follow this courage the kingdom for which we pray will come." The teacher expressed the opinion that there are greater opportunities, more love and less unselfishness than 40 years ago.

Tributes were paid to Miss Bell by Dr. W. A. Wilbur, provost of George Washington University; Dr. Raymond Pearson, president of Maryland State University, and W. W. Everett, general manager of Woodward & Lothrop. All three men were members of the church when the Bell class was founded.

In recognition of the fortieth anniversary a ruby fund was started, to be used only to meet emergencies. The class contributes its usual funds to a number of charitable institutions, including the Community Chest, the Children's Emergency Home and the Children's Baptist Home. The class is made up entirely of women.

Dr. Viola E. Reece, a member of the class for 20 years, was toastmaster. Tributes were also paid Miss Bell by the Rev. W. S. Abernethy, pastor of the church; H. B. Nevius, superintendent of the adult department of the Sunday school; N. S. Faucett, who was also a member of the church when the class was founded, and Mrs. H. C. McNeill.

Entertainment was given by Miss Virginia Cureton, accompanied by Mrs. Frances Hubbard; Dr. Lulu Waters, Miss Sara Balback and Miss Anna Bell Fox, a niece of Miss Bell.

Health of Employes Stressed by Inspector

The average worker in this country loses 2 per cent of his working time, or more than seven days a year, as the result of sickness, Dr. Joseph A. Murphy, chief medical inspector of the health department for the public schools, told the sales force and other employes of the Palais Royal Department Store yesterday morning during a talk on "Building Sound Health."

LEFT TURN ARGUED BY CITIZENS' GROUP

Sixteenth Street Heights Body Reelects All of Its Officers.

Reelection of its incumbent slate of officers and a lively discussion of the new left turn regulation formed principal features of the first fall meeting of the Sixteenth Street Heights Citizens Association last night.

While no action was taken on the left turn question, a number of members took the floor on both sides of the matter. H. M. Phillips sharply critized the phase of the new regulation giving motorists making left turns the right of way over vehicles coming in an opposite direction which have not yet reached the intersection.

He contended that this sometimes resulted in a considerable stream of vehicles being forced to stop to allow one car to turn. Others defended the new turn, while still others were of the opinion that a stricter curb should be placed upon operation of trucks and taxicabs making left turns.

Officers reelected were: Joseph H. Wilson, third term as president; Dr. William H. England, vice president; Miss Freda D. Egbert, recording secretary; Samuel B. Loveless, financial secretary; H. M. Phillips, treasurer. Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Phillips were redesignated delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations and P. E. Schmidt, O. E. Sweet and William E. Vaughn were selected for the executive committee.

Reports of officers were heard and a number of civic improvements were reported as having been accomplished in the last summer. Decision to enter a float in the city-wide Halloween celebration was also made.

Former Spouse to Pay Mme. Popovici $9,500

Judgment for $9,500 was rendered by Justice Peyton Gordon in District Supreme Court yesterday against Ronayne M. Waldron, former husband of Mme. Marian Popovici, now wife of the secretary of the Roumanian Legation, from whom he was divorced in December, 1926.

The action was taken when both sides asked for directed verdicts, automatically taking the case from the jury. Justice Gordon then issued a decree for the judgment, which was on a consideration by which Waldron was to pay his wife that amount of money. For Mme. Popovici, Robert E. Lynch said that the divorce did not bar her right to recovery. Attorney Austin F. Canfield, for Mr. Waldron, said he would file a motion for a new trial.

PARK AND PLANNING BOARD TO HEAR PLAN FOR PORT AUTHORITY.

Commission to Open October Session Tomorrow; Many Problems Arising.

LOWERING STREET CAR TRACKS TO BE TALKED

Location of Terminal for Alexandria Line Also Is on Program.

Progress in the proposal to lower the street railway tracks on lower Fourteenth street will be reported by Charles W. Eliot 2d, director of planning, at the October meeting of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, which opens tomorrow.

Several conferences have been held with Department of Agriculture officials, who are seriously interested in the project because of the problem of street entries.

New Terminal Question.

The moot question of where to locate a new terminal for the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway, which has disturbed the District Public Utilities Commission and the Treasury Department for some time, will be put before the planning body, as a request has been made by nearby Virginia agencies that a survey be made.

A proposal that Washington have a port authority to handle all dock and wharf matters will be placed before the commission by Mr. Eliot, who has made an investigation of the subject. Such a post can be created only by an act of Congress. Plans relating to the Alexandria water front will also be considered.

Improvements a Bill.

Questions having to do with the George Washington Memorial Parkway development and the Rock Creek and Sligo Valley improvements are scheduled for discussion. Attorney General Mitchell's opinion on the commission's financial agreement with Maryland on the latter project will be reported.

John Nolen, jr., of Philadelphia, who ranked first in a recent civil service examination, will be introduced as a new city planner.

Taxi Employe Overcome By Gas in Apartment

Found unconscious last night on the kitchen floor of his apartment at 1228 I street northwest, Gilby M. Angel, 30 years old, said to be an employe of a taxicab company, was removed to Gallinger Hospital by the Fire Rescue Squad. He was suffering from the effects of illuminating gas.

Civic Group Seeks 90-Foot Boulevard

Northeast Body Also Asks Recreational Center; Backs Orchestra.

Request for development of Forty-ninth street northeast, as a 90-foot boulevard from Central avenue to Sheriff road, was made last night at a meeting of the Northeast Boundary Civic Association in the auditorium of the Burrville School. A. E. Lichtman, it was stated, was willing to donate land owned by Suburban Gardens for accomplishment of the purpose.

A committee was appointed to join with committees from Capital View and Deanwood civic associations and request Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and public parks, to develop a recreational center east of the Burrville School. Clean-up day was set for the first Tuesday in November, with Mrs. John Herrod as chairman.

The association, through affiliation with the Community Center, has sponsored development of a community orchestra and Boy Scout troop, it was announced last night. Hard surfacing of all streets in the area was requested of the Commissioners.

Auto Thief Bites Policeman's Face

Seizes Revolver; Escapes, as Does Another After Leap From Car.

After a chase in the vicinity of Florida avenue and W street, two colored men escaped pursuing police when they abandoned their automobile in motion, allowing it to crash into a gas station at Florida avenue and W street. A policeman was injured when he attempted to arrest them.

Policeman S. M. Scott, colored, of the Second Precinct, lost his revolver and was severely bitten on the face during the scuffle. It was found necessary to take several stitches on his face.

The car in which the colored men were riding when sighted by police had been reported stolen earlier in the night from Tenth and U streets, and was owned by John C. Bentley, of 1226 O street.

Kendall on Trial In Fraud Charge

Court Will Hear Complaint Against Business Bureau Head.

John R. Kendall, proprietor of the Washington Business Bureau, will go on trial in Police Court today to face a warrant charging him with obtaining under false pretenses.

The complaint alleges that he accepted $3 from Fannie Lytle, colored, to obtain a position for her, and that she neither got her money back nor was given a job.

Attorneys for Mr. Kendall have intimated that their defense will be that the woman was tendered a position as a maid but that she refused to accept it. Assistant United States Attorney William Gallagher will prosecute the case.

Six Held at Bay In Grocery Holdup

Two Bandits Get $7 From Conduit Road Store.

Police last night were seeking two armed bandits who entered a grocery store at 4590 Conduit road northwest, and after warning the proprietor and five customers to "be quiet," robbed the cash register of about $7.

According to Joseph Cohen, owner of the store, the two men entered shortly after 9 o'clock. They stood around for several minutes, he said, apparently waiting for the customers to leave. Suddenly the youngest of the pair produced a revolver and demanded money. The older man, Cohen said, went behind the counter and opened the cash register. After obtaining the money they ran from the store and disappeared in a clump of bushes.

One of the men was described to police as being about 25 years old, while the other was said to be between 40 and 45. Both were dressed in light clothes.

Visitor Pleads for Cell And Judge Obliges Him

Washington is an obliging city; at least, that is the conclusion one would gather from Lewis P. Vandenbraak, of Wilmington, Del.

Vandenbraak walked up to a policeman and asked to be arrested. His wish was granted; he was charged with vagrancy. Then he came to Police Court, told Judge Isaac R. Hitt that he had been on a bender in his home town, and that he came here to get straightened out. He asked for and got 60 days in the jail, for, he said, that would bring him out in time to go home for the holidays.

Takoma Park Citizens Elect S. P. Blassingham

The Takoma Park Citizens' Association, meeting last night at the Takoma Park Public Library, elected S. P. Blassingham president for the coming year.

Resolutions adopted advocate construction of a municipal playground, to have a swimming pool, and request the school board to appropriate funds for plans for the proposed Northern High School.

Bert. W. Andrews was elected vice president; Mrs. Alcena Lamont, second vice president; William E. Green, secretary, and S. E. Handleman, treasurer.

Pigeon Owner Reports His Coops Were Robbed

Cecil Harrod, 1469 Florida avenue northwest, reported to police yesterday that 29 pigeons, 10 of them of the homing type, were stolen from his coops in the rear of the Florida avenue address some time Monday night. Harrod, who valued the loss at $12, said that his coops were not locked.

A number of similar depredations on pigeon keepers have been reported recently in the Northwest residential section.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ELMER TWITCHELL EXPLAINS ALL.

"TAMMANY HALL is undergoing a sensational investigation in New York. The inquiry has been featured by the questioning of political leaders who have banked large sums of money on small salaries. One leader, who had banked hundreds of thousands, said he got it all out of 'a little tin box at home.' Another said he borrowed it from many people whose names he couldn't recall in order to support twenty-seven members of his family."—Ed Note.

• • • •

Q.—Mr. Twitchell, the records show that you put into various banks ten million dollars and thirty-six cents between Candelmas Day and yesterday's sunset. Do you dispute the figure?

A.—I don't remember the thirty-six cents, but the ten million dollars sounds familiar.

Q.—What is your occupation?

A.—I am an inspector of fire hydrants at $3 a day.

Q.—Where did you get the ten million dollars?

A.—Out of a tin box.

Q.—How big was this tin box?

A.—Adult size, vanilla flavor on rye bread. 4

Q.—The day after the Fourth of July you put $367,879.10 in the bank. Where did you get it?

A.—Some of it out of the tin box, some out of an old cider barrel, in which a rich uncle had died, and the rest of it from the fifty-seven Twitchells.

Q.—Who are the 57 Twitchells?

Q.—It makes no difference.

A.—They are all dependent relatives, Heaven forbid!

• • • •

Q.—Did you keep money anywhere else than in the tin box?

A.—Yes. For years I kept a big balance under the beard of a man in a blue suit.

Q.—Who was he?

A.—I dunno. I never asked him.

Q.—Did you deposit large sums anywhere else?

A.—From 1904 to 1923 I kept a large checking account in the right shoe of a barber who had a sister named Aspinwall.

Q.—What was the barber's name?

A.—He would never tell me. We went by numbers.

Q.—Just explain this?

A.—Well, he didn't want to tell me who he was and as I had never seen him before I suggested that he wear a sweater with a big white number on it. This number was to correspond with a name to be given me by a stranger who would tap me on the left shoulder under a full moon and give the password known only to two people.

Q.—Who were those two people?

A.—They refused to say.

Q.—Mr. Twitchell, what became of that man under whose beard you deposited so much money?

A.—I don't know. He disappeared, but I have the beard.

Q.—Where?

A.—On a shelf at home.

Q.—Do you still keep large sums of money under it?

A.—Positively.

Q. Don't you think it a curious custom to leave money around the house under the beards of men who have disappeared?

A. Not at all. I make a practice of collecting the beards of men who have disappeared and using them for banks.

Q. Where do you get these huge sums that you so bank?

A. Huh?

Q. I say, where do you get the money you put under beards?

A. Who, me?

Q. Yes, you.

A. Most of it comes from rich uncles who die young.

Q. What are their names?

A. I never heard.

Donations for Unemployed To Purchase Wedded Bliss

That unemployment and liquidation of frozen assets have no terrors for the Rev. Simon Peter W. Drew was indicated yesterday when he announced he would join in holy matrimony all properly licensed couples who attend divine service of the Cosmopolitan Baptist Church (colored) next Sunday at 11:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the new Masonic Temple, Tenth and U streets northwest, provided they subscribed according to specifications to the cause of the unemployed.

If those desiring marriage will, on this occasion, present Dr. Drew with twenty car tokens for the benefit of unemployed who are unable to pay their fares to revival services now in progress, he will unite them as man and wife. In lieu of the tokens, couples may bring three bushels of chestnut coal and a bit of wood for kindling, or they may give ten pounds of sugar, ten loaves of bread, coffee and lard for the unemployed, and be pronounced husband and wife.

And further, Dr. Drew has promised, any couples desirous of marriage who will give the price of lodging for five unemployed, will be given free the key to conjugal bliss. Dr. Drew will lead a 60-day revival and job-finding campaign among colored citizens, beginning with this meeting and continuing with others in various parts of the city. He will maintain headquarters at 1317 Corcoran street northwest.
